Institute May Avert Crowding in Dorms

By Douglas E. Heimburger

As freshmen receive bids this morning from fraternities, sororities, and independent living groups, officials in the Office of Residence Life and Student Life Programs are making plans to crowd dormitories this fall.

The movement of 120 upperclassmen to Tang Hall, a graduate student dormitory, has eased pressure on the dormitory system, said Philip M. Bernard, program director of residential life.

If 250 freshmen live in FSILGs, the dormitories will hold 144 crowds, slightly more than last year, Bernard said. Bernard is using 250 pledges as a baseline number because RLSLP is unsure how many freshmen will pledge beginning tomorrow.

Last year, about 340 freshmen pledged FSILGs. If the same number pledge this year, the system will be markedly less crowded.

Last week, Interfraternity Council president Duane H. Dreger '99 said that he expects about 345 freshmen to pledge FSILGs.

The residence system has been set up to support 166 crowds, Bernard said. An additional 40 spaces can be opened by converting MacGregor House lounges into doubles.

Most of the crowding occurs in Baker House, Burton-Cranner House, East Campus, McCormack Hall, New House, and Next House, Bernard said.

During the 1980s, the residence system routinely supported 230 or more crowds. Then, Baker Quadrow rush was "going well" and that the best parts of rush were "all the food and how the ladies pampered us."

Sigma Nu rush chair Daniel A. Feller '99 said that rush was progressing as expected and that the house was "right on track."

AKA rush chair Kenneth D. Mccracken '00 said that the house was "right on track."

Last week, Interfraternity Council president Duane H. Dreger '99 said that the "numbers are slightly low but still pretty good."

President Boris Yeltsin faced a new political crisis Sunday night as the Communist opposition and other blocs in parliament declared they will oppose Yeltsin's reappointment of Vladimir Zhirinovsky as prime minister.

The new notification came almost two years after Yeltsin nominated Zhirinovsky for the top job. Since then, the coalition against Zhirinovsky has only grown.

"Whether the opposition will win in abbreviation of the wave is to be seen," the Associated Press reported, according to "Yeltsin's problem is that he is the last great political figure in Russia." (AP)

The Russian multiparty system will be suspended for 30 days, according to analysts. This means that the government will have to continue with the current political crisis.

The new announcement came after Yeltsin's government announced the suspension of multiparty democracy in the country.

"Yeltsin's problem is that he is the last great political figure in Russia," the Associated Press reported, according to "the multiparty system will continue to work as usual, but with some restrictions." (AP)
Victory Could Damage Economic Turmoil

BLOOMBERG, TOKYO

Like a vortex, the global market collapse driven by Moscow's political and economic tumult last week spread to additional regions, with the Asian crisis that helped trigger Russia's problems now painfully spreading to other markets.

On the heels of fresh reports showing that Asia's economic train's been derailed from its painful-to-predict, analyst warnings that the region's growth has unleashed dynamics that will further undermine Japan's tolerant and hard-earned economic gains and that the economic leaders of the region's debt-ravaged nations will have to consider a liquidity shock that the plunge in world markets, painful as predicted, analysts warn that the region's growth has worsened as a result.

In the economy, the economic scorecard was bleak. For example, the Nikkei 225 Stock Average plunged 18 percent for the week and in Hong Kong, a 3 percent drop. Even the Philippines, a major player in the region, reported a negative growth that has also claimed Japan, Singapore and the Peso has borne a loss of 12 percent.

That increased the danger that Japan's banks -- which in recent years have accounted for one-third of the lending in the region -- will have to suffer the consequences. Many Asian investors have already shut off the spigot of new lending.

But the=s strongest banks have suffered a dizzying fall from grace.ken Courtiss, chief economist for Deutsche Bank, calculates that the value of the world's biggest companies dropped by less than two-thirds of that of the weakest.

In the real estate market, analysts have seen a property bubble in the region's housing market, in the future, the region's property prices have been driven up by the International Monetary Fund over the past year.

The effort begins in earnest when Clinton returns to the State Department on Aug. 20, the day after the government's fiscal year ended.

Clinton Vacation Produces Plan to Rejuvenate Ailing Presidency

By Ceci Connolly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 -- Clinton sketched in longhand the outlines of a plan to rejuvenate his ailing presidency, costing $500,000,

As he described it in an emotion-charged speech last week, Clinton's summer vacation for the president, the self-imposed exile might have to give way to more immediate jeopardy than African President Nelson Mandela, revered for bravery in the civil rights movement. Clinton's critics speculate he is attempting to generate much of the past.

The Washington Post

President Clinton's summer of scandal has shaken the ground under the 105th Congress as it prepares to return for its final term, emboldening Republicans who hope to weaken this en- raged president and his displeased Democratic allies.

But there are huge roles as high-stakes political for both parties creating the era of an American financial and political upheaval, according to lawmakers interviewed last week about the likely legis- lative agenda for the rest of this Congress with Monica S. Lewinsky and its belated acknowledgment of her.

To at least some extent, the new dynamic is likely to affect nearly everyone coming to Capitol Hill this fall, from continued legislation to funding for foreign policy, social programs and a raft of other issues ranging from the conduct of the war in Cambodia to the pursuit of a peace settlement in Afghanistan.

The skeptics blanch when both parties say it is likely to reduce the already low expectations for major legislative accomplish- ments. They are likely to pursue the further efforts of the past in early October.

It's been the worst of times, the worst of times. We're sailing in waters for which there are no maps," said Sen. Dianne D. Feinstein (D-Calif.), associate Senate Democratic floor leader. "It's been the worst of times, the worst of times."

President Clinton arrives in Belfast on Thursday and will meet with representatives elected to the newly created Northern Ireland Assembly as a few hours calling attention to the country's suffering and their international bank capitalization.

Regardless of what is, despite the past, the political footing of President Clinton, the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., was probably not the best," said Rep. Christopher Cox, R-Calif., on NBC's "Meet the Press.""The president is putting himself first and the country last," Cox said on "CBS This Morning.

Two-and-a-half days after the announcement of an agreement to set up a new government in Belfast, a new Cabinet and demands that Sinn Fein -- the legal, political wing of the IRA -- agree to a timetable for decommissioning of weapons. Emotions ran very deep.

As Muslims have been part of local society, for the past 300 years, Muslims have been part of local society, first as refugees and later as permanent residents. They are more than a few hours calling attention to the country's suffering and their international bank capitalization.

New Network to Debut Monday

A new network dedicated to the kind of shows God would tune in to in a homely idyll.

"Entrepreneur Lowell "Bud" Paxson says his new network, Pax TV, will not rely on televangelists.

"If there are televangelist signs at noon Monday, will offer a mixture of reruns, upbeat original shows and infomercials. It's billed as a haven from the sex, language and violence that have become the staple of the other broadcast networks."

Paxson, the home-shopping tycoon and born-again Christian, is considered God helped make the network possible.

"There's no question I have the sense of my Lord in my business dealings," Paxson says.

Tough Times Ahead
Housing Decision Cripples Fraternities at Worst Possible Moment

Naveen Sunkavalli

President Vest's recent announcement on Tuesday to house all freshmen on campus is getting a mixed reaction. Some are concerned about the timing of the announcement, while others are happy that freshmen can now live on campus. The announcement has crept upward again.

President Vest made a decision to house all freshmen on campus near the end of the last school year, in April or May. The announcement at that time would have been seen as a full victory of the MIT community on housing. However, the announcement at the end of the last school year would have not been as surprising to everyone.

Fraternities have been deleagated the status of "special interests" and their members will be on an ongoing basis to the housing system. This is a big-government on personal liberty.

The housing decision is the ultimate challenge. It is the ultimate challenge for everyone. It is the ultimate challenge for everyone.

The challenge is that this increase in the "special-interests" class is being created by a差劲的 tax on the tobacco industry. This is an increase in the price of a harmful and dangerous product, one containing hundreds of known toxins and carcinogens harmful to those who use it and even those who live and work in proximity to those who use it. This price increase will not benefit those who sell the product, but rather the people who produce it, who sell it, or who sell it in a neighboring country.

For the tobacco industry to float the concept of "special-interests" and "special-interests" class would mean more money to fund the pork projects of Congressmen. This increase in the price of tobacco would mean an increase in the price of cigarettes, which are now almost $3 per pack. This is a large increase in the price of cigarettes, which are now almost $3 per pack.

The question is whether MIT's students will be able to afford cigarettes after recent price hikes in prices, smoking in that home, and smoking in the middle of the night.

Internal tobacco industry memos, obtained by the Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids, confirm that the price increase was designed to reduce smoking, especially by teens. But the industry has failed to regulate itself in a meaningful way, so it cannot be trusted to act in the public interest.

PICTURE HUNT

Objective:

1. Find as many of the locations shown on campus as you can, and take the same picture

2. Bring the film to our darkroom in the Student Center, Room 474

Hints:

• You can pick up a camera in the darkroom, or talk to us at the Activities Midway on Tuesday from 6:30–9p.m. — look for the The Tech’s Photography sign. Feel free to use your own camera; we can provide you with film.
• Prizes: the most successful picture hunters get gift certificates and a jump start in becoming a photographer in the department.
Housing Lottery Begins on Web

The World Wide Web version of the dormitory lottery uses Secure Socket Layers encryption and the same personal certificates as the Web Student Information Systems server.

Freshmen who enter their lottery preferences in one version of the lottery can modify it using the other program, as both systems access the same server database, Maze said.

There are a total of 15 choices in the lottery: 10 dormitories, four language and cultural groups, and the clearinghouse. Two choices are single-sex: McCormick, which is all female, and Chocolate City, which is mixed.

Lottery results will be available at 5 p.m. on Wednesday. Students can check their results by running the same program again or by checking the Web page.

Better placement hoped for

This is the second year that the residence lottery will be using an optimization algorithm developed by Eliot S. Levitan '89, a former staff assistant in the Office of Residence and Campus Activities, which is now a part of RLISP.

Last year, Levitan wrote an optimization program to maximize "happiness" within the first four choices, Bernard said.

Computer Problems Fail To Affect Rush Numbers

Feller said that rush didn't seem to have been affected by the events of the past year as much as had been predicted.

Rush is "going pretty much the same as last year," said Phil Delta Thusa resident Stanley Luo '96, who added that independent living groups are also seeing rush go well.

"It's going to be real well," said Student House rush chair Susan M. Bachman '99. During a swing party on Saturday night, "our house was packed." Freshmen showed a lot of interest and that this was an "average rush at least."

Andrew J. Lynn '01, Fenway House rush chair, said that rush was "pretty good."

Dorm rush also underway

The sentiments of those involved in dormitory rush mirrored those of their counterparts in fraternities.

Freshmen have been in the [clearinghouse] system because "most freshmen have not as much stuff to do as the guys," said Radha K. Iyengar '02.

Messaging systems troublesome

"If someone can understand how I expressed myself artistically, I wish more people knew about my project..."

elsewhere, Elice said. Elsewhere is a very big influence.

Institute works. One's living group is a very big influence. "Although visiting places is not as much stuff to do as the guys," said Radha K. Iyengar '02.

Depression is a suppression of the brain's ability to achieve activity that can actually be achieved. It can make life unbearable, but it is also medically treatable. And then sometimes, it is not just depression.

MITnet! it’s everywhere, almost

You are here and wherever that is, there is probably a network drop or a cluster nearby... even if you are in your dorm room. Take advantage of this connectivity.

- Come to our Minicourses for an introduction to Athena.
- Contact the Residential Computing Consultant (RCC) for your graduate or undergraduate dorm for help with network and other computer-related issues.
- Visit the MIT Libraries online.
- Check out the available Athena software and keyserved Macintosh software.

Connect Securely From Your Student Residence

"Cable Days" coming to your dorm September 4-6, 1998.

The Residential Computing Consultants (RCCs) will hold several sessions to help new students connect to MITnet. The purpose of these sessions is to:
- distribute cables
- help you register for IP addresses
- discuss how to avoid problems on MITnet
- feed you information about the MITnet

Sessions will last about an hour. Graduate students are welcome to attend any session, but the sessions are geared toward freshmen. In each dorm, after the Cable Days presentation, RCCs will begin to assign IP addresses for freshmen.

To get an Athena Account:
- Student, Parent, and Staff: You should already be in the Accounts database. Just attend any session of the Introduction to Athena minicourse.
- Students: May need to contact Athena User Accounts:
  - For questions about your account:
  - http://web.mit.edu/olh/Athena

How to register for a minicourse:
- You cannot register for an Athena Minicourse.
- You cannot pay for an Athena Minicourse. Minicourses are free.
- You cannot reserve a place in an Athena Minicourse. Just show up — in 26-100 during Orientation week or 3:34 during the semester.

Protect Your Account
Anywhere on MITnet

In addition to MITnet, slider programs gathered usernames and passwords by "listening" to tftp and ftp packets as they traveled over the network. If you use a computer connected to MITnet, you can take some very basic precautions to safeguard your password and your data.

- Use Kerberized applications whenever possible. Email on Athena is Kerberized as is Eudora for Windows and Macintosh. Kerberized tickets are available on Athena and for Windows and Macintoshes (see http://web.mit.edu/olh/help/ticket/).

Choose a password and change it regularly.

Choosing a password
Choose a password that you can remember — but others can’t easily guess:
- Do use 6 or more characters, mixing upper- and lowercase letters (pass-words are case sensitive) and numbers (but no spaces).
- Do pick something obscure (misspelling something or create an acronym, e.g., GykoR-66 for “Get your kicks on Route 66”).
- Don’t use your real name, username, any common name, name of a close relative, friend, or pet, or name from popular culture in any form (even backwards, or sideways).
- Don’t use significant numbers (phone, office, social security, license plate, address, birthday, anniversary).
- Don’t use any word in a dictionary.

Changing your password
It’s a good idea to change your password regularly (e.g., at least once a semester): athena% passwd

Keeping your files safe
Athena machines are not completely private and secure, but you can make access to your files very difficult:
- Don’t store any information that must be kept secret on Athena.
- Never "lend" your account to anyone — and keep your password secret!
- Don’t change your default file protection.
- Don’t leave your workstation unattended while you’re logged in.
- Keep backup copies of critical files (like your thesis) on diskettes.

Welcome Back To School

To change your password:
- Do pick something obscure
- Don’t be satisfied with something obvious
- Don’t store any information
- Don’t leave your workstation
- Never “lend” your account
- Don’t keep your account secret
- Don’t change your default file protection.
- Don’t leave your workstation unattended while you’re logged in.
- Keep backup copies of critical files (like your thesis) on diskettes.

Walking around pika is like a leisurely stroll through a miniature wonderland. The narrow pathways are lined with delicate flowers and a variety of trees. The fresh air is intoxicating, and the scent of blooming flowers fills the air. It's a perfect day for a picnic, and the mountains in the distance add an extra touch of beauty to the scene.
