MESSENGER & JONES,

No. 388 Washington Street, Boston.
THE game of last Saturday at Exeter the football season for Technology was fairly begun. Although the lack of training was apparent throughout the game, there is no doubt that the material is well up to the standard of other years. The teams proved to be well matched, and neither obtained any considerable advantage. On the whole the game may be considered a success, and it certainly offered to our men an excellent opportunity for practice.

The first home game will be played at the South End Grounds next Saturday. In order to encourage the team and at the same time to place it on a firm financial footing, it is important that a large number of men should be present. The price of season tickets has been reduced from that of other years to only three dollars, so that, with practically seven home games, the inducement should be sufficient to bring out numerous purchasers. Every man who can find an opportunity to attend games on the dates scheduled, should provide himself with a ticket. It is desired, moreover, that subscriptions of five dollars be given, which shall include a ticket to each of the games played in Boston, and at the same time offer substantial aid to the eleven. With the good material at hand, and with the energetic management, there is no reason for any discouragement as to the season's outlook.

It is a question whether the Faculty has done a wise thing in deciding to make all the Architects become regulars unless they have had two years' practice in an office. Many men who would come to Technology to take purely professional studies in this course are prevented from doing so by this rule, and every year numbers of specials leave because they cannot take more professional work. There is no doubt that men who go through the regular four-year course are better fitted for their profession, but unfortunately a large number cannot afford either the time or the money to do this, and it is to these that the new rule is most objectionable. For the sake of these men, then, it would seem advisable for the Faculty to return to the old system of allowing students to take a special course, consisting largely, or wholly, of purely professional subjects. On the other hand, inasmuch as the reputation of Technology depends so thoroughly upon the successful work of her graduates, it is necessary that a sufficiently long course be given to insure efficient training.
THE handsome cup which was on exhibition in Rogers corridor last Saturday noon, has become the property of our Track Team for a year. The success at Worcester is certainly worthily represented in so excellent a production. While the Intercollegiate Association has held its meetings for seven years, and the cup has theoretically been handed down to each winner in succession, in reality Technology is the first to display the trophy. Through the efforts of our representative, a definite stand was taken in the matter of having the cup made. It was designed by N. G. Wood & Sons, during the past summer, and is valued at two hundred dollars. Around the base, in a series of artistic seals, are the names of the various colleges in the Association, while upon the bowl is engraved its title.

Since its formation three colleges only have held the championship of the Association. The succession has been as follows: Dartmouth winner in '88 and '89; Amherst in '90, '91, and '92; Dartmouth in '93; Technology in '94.

A great deal of credit belongs to our athletes who have won for us a victory with no previous experience in the games of the N. E. I. C. A. A. The holding of the cup should be an incentive toward more constant training during the current year, so that the championship which has become ours will remain with Technology for some time to come.

With the greater interest in our social and athletic organizations, and consequently in the number of men who receive their mail regularly through the Cage, the demand for lock boxes has been considerably increased. In spite of the fact that it is important for each man who rents a box to obtain it in the place most suitable for his purpose and most conveniently situated in regard to height, an attempt has been made, with no ground for excuse, to sell the boxes consecutively, thus causing dissatisfaction. In several cases men have refused to take boxes for the very justifiable reason that they could not obtain them where they wished, even when such boxes were unrented. The principle of first come first served should hold in this matter as in others.

The editors of the Ninety-six "Technique" bespeak the co-operation of Technology at large in their efforts for the production of a worthy edition of the Annual. To stimulate the efforts of contributors, liberal money prizes are offered for the best collection of quotations and grinds, the best original poem, the best original design, the best college song, the best Technology song, and for the largest collection of advertisements. The members of Ninety-eight are especially urged to contribute, and they may obtain all necessary information from either the Editor-in-Chief or the Business Manager through Box 96, Cage.

The marked apathy which seems to pervade the Sophomore class on the question of the annual Football game and Cane rush with the Freshmen is, to say the least, thoroughly discouraging. Where a prominent Ninety-seven man is quoted as saying that his class would probably do nothing about it, and that he doubted if any but a very few of his men would present themselves on the field, it certainly shows that the Sophomores are possessed with a lack of interest in their class almost unparalleled.

Their class organization was effected only in a listless and half-hearted manner; their officers, as a whole, could not be said to possess the confidence of their classmates; and their record in athletics, embracing a representation on the track by only two members and two crushing defeats by Ninety-six, is too well remembered to need repetition. Now is their opportunity. Ninety-eight seems full of vigor, and if the Sophomores will only give evidence of a little life, they have a good prospect of redeeming themselves.

THE Varsity Football Team begins its annual struggle this year with every assurance of a successful season. Although three men of last year’s eleven, Curtis, Andrews, and Simonds, will not be in the field again, new men have arrived, and the old men show the advantage of a year’s experience.

The line will undoubtedly be stronger than last year. Whiting, who played guard on the ’96 eleven, has been placed at tackle, and to good advantage, for his weight is much needed near the end of the line.

The center is probably the strong point in the team with Manahan at that position. McCormick, ’97, Le Moins, ’98, and Worcester, ’97, are strong men at guard. Several men are trying for end, among whom Swift, Parker, and Rawson are doing the best work.

The greatest changes will take place behind the line. The loss of Curtis has obliged Capt. Thomas to play half, while Mansfield, captain of last year’s Freshman eleven, is playing quarter. Mansfield’s work is good on the whole, but his passing for kicks is rather uncertain. Underwood has been doing creditable work at full back, and will probably give up his old position at end. The general work of the backs has been only fair, but with the return of Rockwell and Hayden it will improve rapidly.

THE Freshman class is not only a large one, but also its members in size and development are apparently above the average of the men who enter Technology. This is distinctly a point in its favor, inasmuch as the work required is much more severe than that in other colleges, and the number of men who have a strong physique at graduation is consequently smaller. In any college the proportion of men entering directly into athletics is small; the remainder pursues its course with scarcely a thought of physical condition. As a result of this state of affairs, no small percentage of men allow their constitutions to become weakened, almost without their knowledge. In view of this fact the importance of continuous gymnasium practice cannot be too strongly brought before Ninety-eight. With the large number of new lockers in the gymnasium, it is entirely possible for each man to provide for himself in that direction. The college period of a man’s life is one in which exercise in any form is not to be regarded merely as a pleasure but as a necessity.

The Lounger.

“Who is this Lounger, anyway?”
The Freshman vainly cried.
“He follows me where’re I go,
And never leaves my side.”

“I know him not,” the Soph replied,
“Though me he saved from wreck;
But if you follow his advice
You’re safe to get through Tech.”

S. L. H.

LIGHT AND SHADE.

I stood with her on deck, and watched
The search light overhead;
“We ought to hug the shore, and turn
The light inland,” I said.
She archly smiled, the winsome maid,
And turned aside her head;
“I think it’s wrong to light it up
While being hugged,” she said.

The towers and porch which are being added to Trinity will add considerably to the beauty of that noted building. It is carrying out the intention of Richardson, the architect.

Second-year students in Descriptive Geometry, other than those in Courses I. and XI., recite and draw in Room 50, Rogers. Courses I. and XI. draw in Room 50, Engineering.

The interior decorations of the new Public Library are fast approaching completion. To one who can obtain the requisite permission, a trip through the building is well worth taking.

Mr. Howard A. Carson (I.), '89, has been appointed Chief Engineer of the Boston Rapid Transit Commission, which was authorized by a recent bill to construct a subway through the congested district. It will be remembered that Professor Swain is chairman of the commission.

The third year Course I. and XI. men began the work in Railroad Engineering last week Wednesday by making a reconnoissance of the strip of country between Newton Lower Falls and a point near a station on the N. Y. and N. E. R. R. This work will be followed by a preliminary survey, after which a line of levels will be run and the general calculations and problems of railroad work undertaken.

The Juniors held the first class meeting of the year in Room 11, Rogers, on Tuesday at one o'clock, President Hurd in the chair. Resolutions on the death of John Camp Swan- ton and William Ames, Jr. were passed. The manner of the coming election of officers was discussed, and articles of the Constitution bearing on the subject were read. After arranging for several trivial matters which came up, the meeting adjourned.

At this time it is impossible to tell anything about the Freshman Eleven. Van Horn has been elected captain, and will probably play guard. Sargent, who has been playing with B. A. A., will start with the team next week. Le Moins is doing good work, and will probably play center or guard in the final makeup. Thus far the Freshmen have not shown up as well as was expected, but another week will bring out more men, and the work will doubtless improve.

At a meeting of the Sophomores held last Saturday, a new form of ballot was adopted for use at the election of officers Monday, October 15th. W. T. Parker was unanimously re-elected football manager. E. A. Sumner, Jr., reported in behalf of the athletic team, and much enthusiasm was manifested over the athletic outlook for the coming year. It was voted to appoint a committee of three, including the captain of the track team and the football manager, to complete arrangements for the cane-rush. After a short discussion on the matter of assessments, the meeting adjourned.

At the first meeting of the Freshman Class, held in Huntington Hall on Thursday, September 27th, the wily Sophomores made an attempt to gain admittance, but the big men of '98 made a rush and deposited the majority of the Sophs. in the corridor. After a few more attempts to break up the meeting, President Walker appeared, and requested all but Freshmen to withdraw. This was followed by the exit of a considerable number, and the meeting was held in peace. Mr. Smith, Mr. Hall, and Mr. Allen were nominated for temporary chairman. A rising vote showed that Mr. Smith, of Washington, was elected. Mr.
Smith announced that the purpose of the meeting was to organize the football team. Mr. Van Horn was elected temporary captain. Mr. Marasto was elected manager of the team.

The first game of the season was played against Exeter, at Exeter, last Saturday afternoon. Considering the short time our eleven has been in training, and the number of new men playing, the game was very encouraging.

Captain Thomas won the toss, and the kick-off was made at 3:15. The ball was caught by Jack, Exeter’s left half, and soon worked back to the center of the field. Here it often changed hands, Exeter frequently gaining by her double pass trick.

In the second half Swift was replaced at right tackle by Van Horn, and Beers at half by Hall. Several gains were made through Exeter’s center, while our center proved invincible. The majority of Exeter’s gains were made through Parker and Van Horn. Exeter nearly scored several times in this half, but failed through the wretched fumbling of her quarter back.

On the whole, Exeter put up a much stronger game than Technology; but her team has been in training since September 10th, and constantly under coaching.

The teams lined up as follows: Exeter,—rushers, Gillispee, Scannell, Richards, Kasson, Bream, Casey, Stack; Richardson, quarter back; Gibbons, Jack, half backs; Farr, full back. Technology,—rushers, Parker, Swift, Le Moins, Manahan, McCormick, Whiting, Rawson. Umpire, Rockwell; referee, Twombly. Time, 30 minutes.
Washburn, '97, who played guard on last year's eleven, is laid up with varicose veins.

The Bursar has kindly consented to allow the team to occupy lockers in the gymnasium, during the football season, free of charge.

Through the courtesy of the B. A. A., the team has been allowed to practice on the Oval twice a week.

Sargent, '98, who tried for the 'Varsity for a few days, is now practicing with the B. A. A.

Underwood, '97, and Hall, '98, are both trying for full back.

Among the players from '98, Le Moins, Van Horn, and Hall are the most promising.

Harold Jones, '98, will probably make the athletic team next spring. He puts the shot 34 ft., and has a record of 5 ft. 4 in. in the high jump.

The 'Varsity team is an improvement over last year's at this time.

McCormick, '97, substitute center on last year's team, is playing guard this year.

If Captain Thomas plays at half this year, his place at quarter will probably be taken by either Parker, Mansfield, or Beers.

F. P. Simonds coached the 'Varsity squad last week.

The Freshmen have a fine-looking set of athletes.

There will be a meeting of the Track Athletic Team in Room 11, Rogers, at 12 o'clock next Saturday, October 6th. At this meeting the captain for the coming year will be elected.

The following are the results of the football games last Saturday: Harvard, 22, Dartmouth, 0; Yale, 42, Trinity, 0; B. A. A., 20, Tufts, 10; Princeton, 40, Lafayette, 0.

E. L. Hurd and H. W. Hayward, both '95, are playing on the Hyde Park team.

Sargent, '98, played tackle on the B. A. A. team in the second half last Saturday.

Mansfield tackles well and has good judgment at quarter.

Van Horn and Le Moins were both hurt in the second half of Saturday's game.

The schedule of the Harvard 'Varsity games is as follows:

- Saturday, Sept. 29. Dartmouth.
- Wednesday, Oct. 3. Exeter.
- Saturday, Oct. 6. Andover.
- Wednesday, Oct. 17. Amherst.
- Saturday, Oct. 20. Williams.
- Saturday, Oct. 27. Cornell in New York.
- Saturday, Nov. 3. Open.
- Saturday, Nov. 10. Chicago Athletic Association.
- Saturday, Nov. 24. Yale at Springfield.
- Thursday, Nov. 29. U. of Penn. at Philadelphia.

The schedule of our 'Varsity eleven is:

- Wednesday, Oct. 10. Amherst at Amherst.
- Wednesday, Oct. 17. B. A. A. at Boston.
- Saturday, Oct. 20. Open.
- Saturday, Oct. 27. Tufts at College Hill.
- Wednesday, Oct. 31. Williams at Williamstown.
- Saturday, Nov. 3. Amherst at Boston.
- Wednesday, Nov. 7. Bowdoin at Boston.
- Saturday, Nov. 10. Wesleyan at Middletown.
- Saturday, Nov. 17. Tufts at Boston.

All Boston games will be played on the South End Baseball Grounds, except possibly the games with Amherst, November 3d, and Tufts, November 17th. These games, if not played on the South End Grounds, will be played on the Congress Street Grounds.

All Boston games will be posted in the buildings, and also on the electric cars passing the Grounds.
After this at the University of Chicago the tuition fee to undergraduates will be raised from $25 a quarter to $40, but the charge of $5 now made for incidentals and library fee will be abolished.

Mrs. Leland Stanford is making arrangements to carry out the provisions of the will of her late husband, Senator Stanford, bequeathing $3,000,000 to the Stanford University. Some of the buildings to be erected are a library building, a building for the natural history museum and laboratory, a memorial chapel, a girls' dormitory, and a chemical building. Accommodations will be provided for 2,500 students.

A College Republican Club has been organized at the University of Wisconsin. It is expected that the club will take an active part in the fall campaign.

The University of Michigan has received a bequest of $5,000 for the endowment of the Bible chairs.

Harvard will introduce an innovation this year in the shape of a medical inspector and adviser. As inspector he sees to the sanitary condition of the buildings. As adviser he looks after the health of the students, perhaps not attending to them himself in case of sickness, but seeing that they are properly cared for.

Trinity raised the United States flag on her campus on Alumni day last commencement.

Hereafter the Freshman baseball team at Princeton will be managed by a Junior.

A university is soon to be established in London, which it is hoped will rival Oxford and Cambridge.

A railroad locomotive experiment and testing station is to be added to the Sibley College curriculum at Cornell, and will be built and in running order by next fall.

The University of Chicago keeps a tennis team of eight men in training. These lose their places if they are challenged and beaten in two games by outsiders.

At Leland Stanford the Faculty have organized among themselves a baseball nine, which has defeated every team the students have founded.

The subscription for the Phillips Brooks House at Harvard is rapidly nearing the hundred thousand mark. The house will be a great undergraduate club, where students and professors may meet on a common level, and will offer to the students enviable social advantages.

The Yale Literary Magazine is the oldest college periodical in the country which has continued its publication up to the present time. It was founded in 1837.

"Seminar," a method of Harvard tutoring by which a whole course is reviewed and condensed in one long sitting of from three to five hours, has been forbidden at the university by the Faculty.

A professional football league has been formed consisting of six clubs in the National baseball league.

It is proposed to divide Harvard into several small colleges, somewhat after the Oxford University plan.

W. C. Parker, of Columbia, won the interscholastic tennis championship at Newport.

There are 582 students in the entering class at Harvard, an increase of 112 over last year's Freshman class.
Many dolorous expressions from the Sophomores have lately reached the Lounger's ears. The fact is that these young gentlemen are not finding that ease in disposing of their last year's habiliments of war, which they anticipated. The bulletin board has, as of yore, been weightily encumbered with seductive notices to the general effect that a "uniform, nearly new," was to be obtained for a sum positively beggarly, upon application to a particular Sophomore through the Cage. The old favorite modes of expression were still in vogue, no new way of enticing the Freshman's coy dollar having entered the Sophomore brain, and still the time-honored words confronted the observer. The usual bulletin vagaries were out in force, one man boldly asserting that his cast-off gear was suitable for a man so much in height, another over-confidently advertising a uniform of height six feet and weight one hundred and fifty pounds,—an interesting specimen, certainly. Of course the Freshman is the legitimate prey of the Soph., yet the Lounger dislikes seeing the latter take such undue advantage of his prerogative, the relation of such tales belonging more properly to habitudes of the navy yard. However, all sorts were to be had, elongated and embonpointed, and all of them, of course, good as new. Despite these cunningly, and doubtless veraciously, worded notices, the impoverished Soph. cannot raise the price of even a piece of chocolate pie on the sale of his uniform to Freshie this year, for a great pow-wow has been held, and the word has gone forth that still another change is to be made in the sartorial department.

The Lounger is now awaiting a noble work of God who shall, with cheerful and obstinately pertinacious honesty, own up that his uniform is minus three buttons, and that the trousers thereof are variously mutilated. Meanwhile he suggests to the Sophomores that, as their uniforms were cut full dress, they have them dyed for use during the coming social season. To the Freshmen, now, the Lounger extends a word of congratulation on the successful termination of their initial class meeting. The usual scenes of turmoil and heated argument having been appropriately enacted in and around the portals, the customary decorum of a Freshman class meeting was soon in full sway within, and not until aid from the powers sacrosanctissimi had been hastily invoked was suitable opportunity offered for a comfortable hunt for and readjustment of cravats. The words of wisdom from a Junior prophet were spoken amid religious silence, and a temporary chairman was elected amid tumultuous excitement. Thus the lively times progressed. The doors were barred, egress was not permitted to the hungry throng within, nor ingress to the bloodthirsty crowd of myrmidons without, till finally the last speech had been delivered, the last pathetic appeal for support to the team had been made, the tired Sophomores had ceased their vigil, and Ninety-eight rushed eagerly out and devastated the lunch room, and its first meeting was History's own.

The laboriously compiled schedule of the Football Association has made its modest appearance with truly delightful promptness, and conveys the welcome assurance of a goodly half dozen of home games, for which kindness the Lounger personally thanks the management, particularly as he is assured that home games are especially dear luxuries, owing to the enormous expense of trotting our padded enemies around to the Bijou so frequently. The "sweeping reduction" in the price of season tickets, and the permission accorded their holders of taking an unlimited number of fair companions to witness these heroic tournaments and cheer on the struggling knights by the charm of their presence, afford such a combination of inducements that even the most backward must yearn to possess one. But between the halves, so to speak, let the Lounger once more urge the well-worn, but still highly serviceable adage, Qui cito dat, bis dat.

I promised Chloe I would never use tobacco more, And I felt myself a hero and a martyr as I swore. Of course I didn't mean it, but then she would never know, And she'd think herself quite happy just to save a soul or so. And when next I called on Chloe, I thought her very hard Because she would not see me when I'd sent up my card. Next week I learned a vile mistake had snarled those auburn locks, For I'd sent her up a picture from my last Sweet Caporal box.

IN CAP AND GOWN.

In cap and gown I saw her go, The daintiest sight the world could show; The cap aslant with mocking air, The gown blown lightly here and there,— I watch her with my heart aglow. Throughout the passing centuries slow, In many garbs maidens come and go. Sweet souls! They had been twice as fair In cap and gown.

O Grecian girls in robes of snow! O satin belles of long ago! However gay your dress, or fair, I tell you ye could not compare With the new maid ye could not know— In cap and gown.

—Bryn Mawr Lantern.

QUOTATIONS AS QUOTED.

Foolish things quotations, Provoking, too, at that; In certain situations They appear so awfully flat. For instance, in a corner, With only whispers heard, To say “The more the merrier,” Is really quite absurd. If music is the food of love, And love is also blind, How can hungry Cupid A square meal hope to find? Why, when going to the theater, Take an opera glass or two, If, in your case, distance lends Enchantment to the view? Silence, you know, is golden; All that glitters is not gold; So the dumb man is the brightest, And the bright man’s in the cold. He laughs best who laughs last, If the first fellow misses the smile; For brevity is the soul of wit, And a miss is as good as a mile.
