PROF. BATES WRITES ON JULIA WARD HOWE

Says That by Her Death America Loses Her Most Noted Woman

BY PROF. ARLO BATES

By the death of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe America loses her most notable woman, and almost the last living link with the generation of brilliant personalities that distinguished Boston in the third quarter of the nineteenth century is broken. The chief facts of her life she has told herself in autobiographical form, and it is not necessary to repeat them here. To the general public she is now and probably will always be best known as the author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," a lyric which is as familiar as is "America" itself. To those who knew her, however, she was far more remarkable for her personality than for any particular thing which she wrote or which she did.

A product of the old-fashioned mode of education which made the classics, Greek, Latin and English, the foundation of culture, and nourished on the old ideals of responsibility and duty, Mrs. Howe to the very end represented a type which today is becoming as uncommon as it is excellent. Her mind was naturally of a quick and alert quality, and it had been fed by the best thoughts of the ages. It was above everything vivacious, and in its adaptability, its wit, its unflinching interest in life, was a stimulating influence to all who came in contact with her. She had mentally the secret of unfailing youth. She had, too, the patience and the energy to resist any inclination which might come with age to relax her mental habits. She told a friend a year or two ago that every day she read Greek and Italian that she might not fall into intellectual laziness. The result was that she escaped any twilight period of failing mental powers, and to the end was more thoroughly alive than the majority of persons young enough in years to be her grandchildren.

She so dearly loved a joke that she surely would not have minded the telling of a quip of hers which she made a few years ago. She and Miss Susan B. Anthony had been to a public meeting in Baltimore, and both contracted severe colds. Mrs. Howe was confined to her bed at her Boston home when news came of the death of Miss Anthony in New York. For

Dining Room Shows Profit of Over $33 Last Week 2023 Served

Two thousand and twenty-three persons were served at the Union dining room last week. A profit of $33.11 is reported for the dining room; $13.54 for the cigar counter, which, with expenses of the House Committee of $3.60, leaves a net profit of $40.79 for the week.

Profit

There is now a net profit in all departments of $39.43 for this year. This, however, does not include the equipment account of $225.58 incurred this year. The management desires to make this up as soon as possible.

The Civil and Electrical Society have tables reserved for their use. A training table for the cross-country team is also being run. Last week a dinner was served to the Mechanicals and refreshments to the Electricals and the Catholic Club. This week refreshments will be served to the Chemical Society on Wednesday evening, and to the Mining Society on Thursday evening.

Mr. Scharff and one member of the Dining Room Committee each day taste all of the dishes which are placed before the students.

The new lantern presented by the class of 1910 will be placed in the Union within a few days. It is hoped that a boy will be placed in the lounging room within a few days to keep the room clean, as was done last year. It is planned to put banners and flags for sale at the Cage as soon as necessary arrangements can be made. The study room upstairs has been reserved Thursday evening for the Chinese Bible class.

In 1908 there were 125 candidates for the Syracuse cross country team. Syracuse got second place that year in the intercollegiate. Last year there were thirty candidates and Syracuse got sixth place. This year there are twenty candidates. The Daily Orange wants to know on this basis what place Syracuse will win this year in the intercollegiate.

The enrollment of Oberlin for the coming year is 981 students, and makes an increase of 56 over last year.

PROF. RICHARDS ON MEXICAN MINING

To Address Miners To-Night--- Possible Affiliation with A. I. M. E.

Tomorrow night the Mining Engineering Society holds its first meeting of the year at 7.30, in the small dining room of the Union. Professor Richards, the head of the Mining Department, has consented to speak on Mexico. His address will be illustrated by lantern slides prepared from photographs taken by him during his travels in that country. This talk should prove most interesting, describing as it does a country which claims so many Course III men after graduation.

The business part of the meeting will be most important, and it is imperative that all members of the society be present. The most important matter to be discussed is the proposed affiliation with the American Institute of Mining Engineers which was brought up at the last meeting last Spring, but no definite action was taken on it at that time. The application for membership of Sophomores will also be taken up at this meeting.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Course III men to come to this meeting. Sophomores are particularly invited to be present, and it offers an opportunity for Freshmen intending to take the mining course to meet the professors and upper classmen.

TECH NIGHT PLANS

Arrangements for "the night after Field Day" are rapidly taking form. The Theatre Committee of the class of 1913 has been busy for some time past and have now decided on the theatre to which the classes will go on Friday evening, November 5. "The Arcadians" at the Colonial Theatre on Boylston street is the play that has been decided on. All arrangements as to tickets, seats, etc., have not been completed, but as soon as they are notice will be given in the columns of this paper. The committee in charge consists of C. Cairns, W. Katzenberger and H. Muther, and these men promise that a most enjoyable evening is in store for all those who attend.

1911 ELECTIONS

The election of 1911 officers for the coming year is to be held soon, and for this purpose nominations must be handed in by members of the class. The officers are president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, clerk, two members of the Institute Committee, and two directors. All these together compose the Board of Directors of the class. There are also five members of the Athletic Association to be elected. Nominations must be signed by ten men, no man to sign the nomination of more than one man for the same office.

Nominations are now open and will remain so until Wednesday, October 26, at 4 P. M.

At the University of Washington the co-eds are allowed to wear the Varsity "W" for excellence in the various branches of sport.

"ENGINEERING INSTRUMENTS" C. E. TALK

Mr. R. L. Wardell of Keuffel and Esser Co. to Describe Construction

Engineering instruments and calculating instruments used by engineers will be the topic of the lecture to be delivered by Mr. R. L. Wardell to the Civil Engineering Society this week. The meeting will be held at 4.15 P. M. Thursday afternoon in 6 Lowell.

Mr. Wardell is connected with the Keuffel & Esser Company, of Hoboken, N. J., manufacturers of engineering supplies. He will illustrate his remarks with some of the actual instruments used in modern engineering practice, and will have the abundant resources of this firm to draw upon. Slide rules, reckoning machines and Thacher calculators will be shown, as well as the usual engineering instruments.

It is claimed by the experts that engineers in general, while familiar with the use of instruments, have only a very slight knowledge of the mechanical side of them. Mr. Wardell will speak of surveyors' instruments from the manufacturer's standpoint, and will explain the methods of construction and the reasons for the various forms, taking up the instruments in their component parts.

1913 ATHLETICS

Sophomores Developing Strong Teams in Football and Relay

The Sophomores are making a strenuous effort to capture Field Day this year, and thus attain the enviable position of being the second class to win two Field Days since Field Day was instituted in 1901. The only class class which has ever performed this feat was the class of 1905, who won it in 1901 and again in 1902.

Last year 1913 won by getting the football game and tug-of-war, both by narrow margins. This year they have the same teams, practically intact, and in addition have a fast relay team. The football team is practicing regularly every night at the Oval, and have enough men out to work two full teams against each other. Matters is coaching the team again, and W. N. Eichorn is captain.

A number of fast men are reporting to Coach Kanaly at the Field every afternoon for relay practice. Among these are Captain C. E. Trull, B. S. Munch, J. J. Strachan, W. R. Mattson, R. C. Thompson, C. F. Cairns, W. A. Gentner, H. D. Peck, R. B. Haynes, J. G. Russell, A. D. Conant, G. B. Sampson, R. D. Sampson and several others. Preliminary trials are to be held on Thursday afternoon, and the final trials probably the latter part of next week.

The tug-of-war squad is working on the Oval one night and at the Gym the next, alternating with the Freshman team.

A Bible class for Chinese students is being organized at the Institute. Mr. Chengting T. Waug, a Yale University man, prominent in Chinese Y. M. C. A. activity, is here to inaugurate the work. He has engaged the quiet room upstairs in the Union for every Thursday evening at 7 P. M. The first meeting will be held this week, and Mr. Waug desires a full attendance.

some days she was not well enough to be told; but at last, as she grew better, she heard of the tidings of the death of her old friend. For a little while she was completely overcome, and expressed her grief sincerely; then her abounding sense of humor got the better of her, and a twinkle came into her eye. "Well," she said, "I got the better of Susan that time." It was not a lack of feeling, and she was a genuine mourner; but fun bubbled inexhaustibly in her mind, and must out.

Her personality produced a profound impression upon all who came in contact with her, and her loss leaves a gap in intellectual Boston which will not soon be filled. A wonderful creature in her abounding physical vitality, she was not less so in the amazing fertility and responsiveness of her mind. Whatever may come to whatever else she has written, her "Battle Hymn" cannot fail to keep her name fresh and grateful as a household word as long as the Republic endures.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS.

Several thousand copies of the Columbia University catalogue have been translated into Chinese and sent to China for the information of the prospective students.

Two thousand five hundred and thirty-five students of the University of Pennsylvania engaged in athletics last year.

All secret societies have been abolished by the University of Mississippi by the trustees. No reason is assigned for this action other than that they tend to promote a spirit hostile to democracy and prevent the student from studying.

One of the strong points of inter-class competition at California is along forensic lines. Much of the underclass spirit is fostered by means of the sopomore-freshman debates.

There will be no rowing for varsity or freshman crews at Yale on Saturdays during the fall. Training stale is the explanation.

Gym classes at 8.30 A. M. is the announcement of the gymnasium department at Syracuse. They last until 10 A. M.

Steps are being taken by the faculty of Columbia to organize a student forum for the expression of undergraduate sentiment.

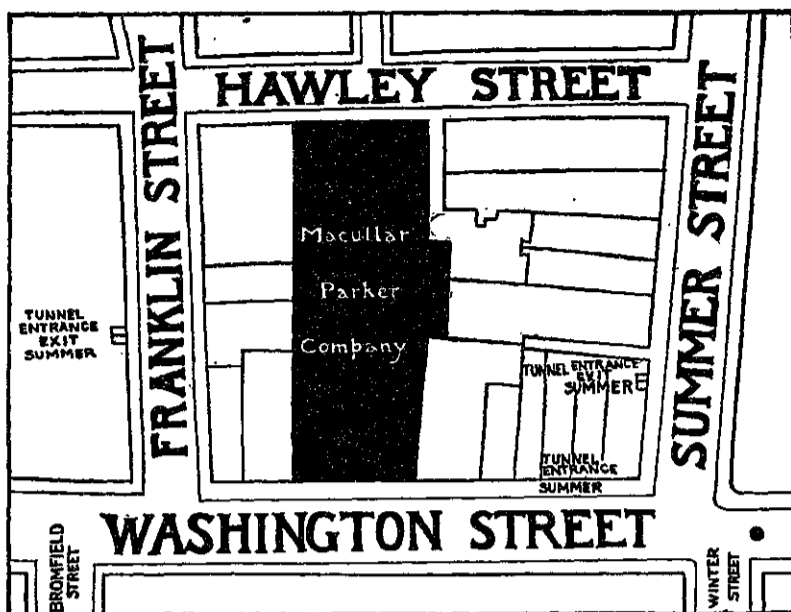

Woman's rights were trampled upon at the University of Minnesota and (as a consequence the membership in the Equal Suffrage club has increased to a surprising extent. The occasion for this was the refusal of men giving out souvenir football blotters to give any to the co-eds.

At the State University of Iowa a recent action of the faculty has taken away the two hours credit formerly given to women students for dancing.

At the University of Utah a flag rush is held between the sophomores and freshmen in which the latter try to pull down a large flag nailed to the top of a 20-foot pole. The second year students surround this pole to prevent the freshmen from carrying out their purpose.

Minnesota and Dakota Colleges have agreed to allow their ball players to play professional ball during the summer months without losing their athletic standing.

BIOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

The Biological Society held its first meeting of the year on Monday, October 10, and much important business was transacted. The new constitution as drafted by G. T. Palmer and H. A. Jenkins was adopted. The resignation of F. Schneider as president was received and accepted. Howard P. Ireland, Oliver D. Powell and Samuel N. Schmidt were elected president, secretary, treasurer and assistant secretary-treasurer respectively.

Mr. Gunn, the latest addition to the Biological Department, was unanimously elected an honorary member of the society.

This society, the youngest of the professional societies at the Institute, has become famous for its very entertaining dinners and meetings. This year will prove no exception and an excellent program for the month is being arranged.

The Biological Society was founded for the purpose of promoting social intercourse among students of biological subjects; of providing a social meeting ground for instructors of biology and their students, and of furthering the knowledge of biological subjects by discussion, and especially of addresses of invited guests.

The new constitution provides that all registered students in Courses VII (Biology), XI (Sanitary Engineering), and V (Chemistry), are eligible to regular membership in the society. Regular dues of fifty cents a term have been installed to take the place of the old assessment method.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB.

Quite a number of Cosmopolitan Club members gathered on Rogers steps at the lunch hour Tuesday, to have their picture taken. On account of a misunderstanding on the part of the photographer, who thought that Thursday was the day he was wanted, no picture was taken. President Sandstein announced that the photograph will be taken Thursday at 1 o'clock, and urged all the men who had gathered to return Thursday, and also to get out those members who did not appear yesterday.

All present conditions in England point to a fundamental revision of the present existing form of government. Two weeks ago a conference between the leaders of the government and opposition parties were called, and these men have been sitting in debate ever since then. Although these debates are nominally secret, much information has leaked out concerning the plans under consideration.

The sweeping changes under discussion are based on the proposed scheme of Lord Grey. This provides for local home rule not only of Ireland, but of Scotland and Wales as well. The scheme laid out calls for two houses in the new parliament, a House of Commons and a Senate. The latter will include one hundred of the present members of the House of Lords, as well as six-year Senators elected from the colonies on an approximate population basis. In general, this scheme is immensely popular throughout the empire, although the large land owners are violently opposed to it. They believe that the new Senate would be intensely radical in its views, and that property would be in great danger of redistribution. If these plans are decided on they will be submitted to the people of the country for a vote. It is believed that the conference will finish its work at the end of this week.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB.

On account of the great interest taken by the alumni in the Cosmopolitan Club, a picture is to be taken of the members for the Technology Review, Thursday, at 1 o'clock, on Rogers steps. The picture will also be published in the Sunday issues of several Boston and New York papers, and will be rather unique in that it will give a good idea of the worldwide area from which the Institute draws its students. All new men who intend to join the club are urged to meet on the steps with the older members.

A number of this year's Senior class have been working this summer for the General Electric Company and the Boston Elevated. Those working for the General Electric Company were employed for the most part in the testing of motors and generators, particularly in obtaining armature resistances, much as is done in the third year work in our Electric Engineering Laboratories.

FOREIGN STUDENTS.

All foreign students at the Institute who desire to become members of the Cosmopolitan Club should leave their names at the Cage for Isaac Hausman, secretary, at once. Americans desiring to join should do likewise, but election to membership is not guaranteed.
