1913 CLASS DINNER

A GREAT SUCCESS.

Large and Enthusiastic Crowd Hear Speeches—Elections Announced.

The Union was the scene of a most enthusiastic dinner last Wednesday night, when the Sophomore class met for the first time under the guidance of the new class officers, so recently elected. A remarkably large number of men put in their appearance and it was in great measure due to their enthusiasm that the whole affair proved so successful. After the dinner had progressed for a short time a count was made and showed one hundred and fifty men present. This is a larger number by some score of

SOPHOMORES PICKED TO WIN TENTH

ANNUAL FIELD DAY THIS AFTERNOON

Upper Class Expects Easy Victory in Football But Freshmen Will Put Up Hard Struggle in Tug-of-War and Relay

FIELD DAY PROGRAM

2.15 P. M.—TUG-OF-WAR (FIRST TRIAL),	4.05 P. M.—TUG-OF-WAR (THIRD TRIAL).
2.25 P. M.—FOOTBALL (FIRST QUARTER).	CROSS-COUNTRY DUE BETWEEN SECOND AND THIRD QUARTERS OF FOOTBALL GAME.
3.05 P. M.—RELAY RACE.	POINTS WILL BE COUNTED AS FOLLOWS:
3.15 P. M.—TUG-OF-WAR (SECOND TRIAL).	FOOTBALL GAME, FOUR POINTS.
3.25 P. M.—FOOTBALL (THIRD QUARTER).	RELAY RACE, THREE POINTS.
	TUG-OF-WAR, TWO POINTS.

Last night, the teams which struggle this afternoon in the tenth annual Field Day contest between the Freshmen and Sophomores, received their final instructions. The finishing touches have been applied and the men are in the pink of condition. The prospects for a repetition of a Freshmen victory as in the last two years are doubtful. Earlier in the year 1914 took no interest, but seemed serenely indifferent to the approach of what should be their most important event. However, as the time grew shorter they began to show a little more class spirit. Now it seems that, while there is little doubt of the final victory of the upper class, it will be only after a struggle and not a clean sweep. For two years, ever since 1911 set the example, the Sophomores have lost, but this year indications point to a reversion to the previous custom of allowing a victory to the experienced class. This morning the "dope" sheet allows the football event to the Sophomores, and the relay to the Freshmen. The result of the tug-of-war is doubtful.

The contests will be close and exciting, particularly in the relay race. The Freshmen have few individual stars, while 1913 has several brilliant performers.

The average of the 1914 team is very good, and their slower men are much faster than the slowest members of the Sophomore aggregation. The Freshmen have a consistent team, and if they can only keep from losing ground on the passing they should be ahead at the end of the mile and a half.

In football, little doubt is expressed that the Sophomores will have an easy time of it as they have a team with a successful record of two years. The Freshmen may score since, under the new rules, there are so many different chances for collecting tallies, but a majority at the end of the game seems well nigh impossible. Probably all these trials will be necessary in the tug-of-war, but experience and weight will undoubtedly tell in the favor of the upper class. The Freshman team is fast and have been pulling together very well in recent practice, and, while rather lacking in weight, should make their opponents pull their best.

The following gives a summary of the season's work and a more detailed comparison of the different teams:

Tug-of-War.
Tug-of-war has usually been won by the Freshman team, but this year is a year of exceptions, and "you never can tell." The Sophomores took hold from the very start and have worked hard ever since practice began, nearly a month ago. The Freshmen seemed, at first, not to realize that the rope-pull was one of the events on Field Day, even though it only counts two tallies. The Sophomore squad is unusually heavy, and backed by successful experience, they should give a good account of themselves today. Since the Freshmen began to come out they have shown great interest and no little ability, and while they are light, they work together with a snap which should stretch the rope and at least keep it taut this afternoon.

Relay Race.

The relay race will be called according to the schedule, at 3.05. It looks now as if the race would afford another proof of Frank Kanaly's skill as a coach. If weather conditions are favorable it is probable that a new record for the mile and a half will be set. In past years the Sophomore class has always won this event, and it is doubtful if this year will be any exception. However, if a Freshman is consulted about the race, he will almost invariably answer that the team representing his class will set a fast pace and will make a strong fight for victory. Disregarding precedent, however, the Sophomores have experience in their favor. Trull, Bylund and R. D. Sampson are all varsity men, and Munch and Strachan have won many points in the Junior meets. The remainder of the team is also well balanced, and ought to do much toward making a fast average time.

Outside of Guething, the speedy Freshman captain, there are no particular stars to be noticed as yet in their lineup. Much good material is, however, present, and if the 1914 class rooters do their part the team will unquestionably do its best.

Football Game.

The football teams lining up today are, according to comparison of their score records, rather unevenly matched. The Sophomores have had

HORNETS NEST

"Say, have any of you fellows got any of your old Phiz, Lab. Reports?" The two upper classmen looked up from their work only to find Cad standing by the table with the deepest tragedy written on his face.

"Sorry to say we haven't, old man," replied Dick. "Say, where is the Freshman?"

"Oh, he went to bed early tonight. You see he is on his class tug-of-war team, so he is resting up. You fellows are going out to the field, aren't you?"

"Surest thing," answered Dick. "Sweet girl, candy, and all that, you know."

"I'm going to draw all the afternoon," spoke up the Billiken.

"That's the system, Bill," replied Dick. "Get your drawing finished ahead of the rest of the fellows in your class so teacher will know how smart you are. Then the next time anyone asks you about the matter carefully explain to them that there is no spirit at the Institute. Tell them that you have to work like all the time and never get off. For goodness sake, though, don't say that you won't take a day off when it is given to you. Don't take any interest in anything except your work. It will make a man of you. Just let a certain bunch of fellows nominate all the candidates for office, too. Elections are always more interesting when a heads-I-win-tails-you-lose game is being worked on you. Why, —"

"You've branched off from engineering and gone to preaching, haven't you?" interrupted the Billiken. "Pray, my venerable old man, what is the subject of thy discourse?"

"I haven't thought of a text, Bill, but George Ade has written a good one."

"What did he say?" asked Cad.

"Why, he only remarked that 'colleges don't make fools; they only educate them,'" replied the Junior. Just then a Hydraulics book flew through the air straight at Dick's head. That person ducked just in time, and the missile hit against the door of the Freshman's room across the hall.

"What's the matter?" It isn't eighty-three yet, is it?" growled a voice from the inside.

"Go to sleep, Freshman, rang out the Billiken. "Say, Cad, if you bring me my book, I'll go to the field with you," he added.

TECHNOLOGY-TUFTS-BROWN CROSS-COUNTRY RACE

Finish of Triangular Meet will be at the Field About 3:15

In place of the annual Tech-Harvard cross-country race which for the last six years has been run on Field Day, a triangular race between Technology, Tufts and Brown will be held. The race will be over the regular Technology course and will be run under the I. C. A. A. A. rules. Each college will be represented by ten men, of whom the first five to finish will score. The first three individuals to complete the course are to be presented with cups.

Technology seems to have the best chance for victory in view of their excellent showing in the race with the fast Harvard team last Saturday. Brown enters a fast squad and will give the Institute aggregation a hard struggle for lowest total. Little is known about the Tufts team. They have run over the course several times and have the advantage over the Providence men that they have had a little practice over the course, which is particularly trying on a man who runs over it for the first time.

The finish at the Field will be arranged to come between the halves of the Freshman-Sophomore football game, about a quarter past three.

The course starts from Highland Station, West Roxbury, and runs up Corey street, where a ten per cent. grade begins to take the steam out of the inexperienced men. The next two miles includes a long succession of hills and leads over walls, fences, and a brook, passing through patches of woodland. Then the men cross meadows to the pig-pens, about two miles from the start, thence they follow the road for nearly a quarter of a mile, where they turn to go up Larz Anderson Hill, which seems to rise perpendicularly before the runners. This hill is the crucial test that usually determines the final order since the rest of the course to the Field is practically level road work. The race is usually lost or won at the top of this hill, and almost never are there any radical changes in the order after it is passed.

a very successful season as shown by the scores, and are generally expected to have a rather easy victory. Their games show evenness of condition. From first to last the team has been fully developed and shows the result of their previous work together.

The Freshmen, on the other hand, have played an uncertain and unsteady game. Overwhelmed by Dean, whom the Sophomores nearly defeated, 1914 came back into form again the next week, nearly winning from the Somerville eleven. This game was lost more because of erratic playing than through any superiority on the part of Somerville in team work. At times the Freshmen would play brilliantly, then a dazed period would hit them and the Prep. School team would fairly fly away with them; 1914 has one good point, however—one that may put it very much in the reckoning—this is a gradual increase of grit, speed and football knowledge as the game progresses. Unless the Sophomores get the jump on the Freshmen early in the game the contest will be clean, hard and even. The result will count four points for the winner, and each team thoroughly appreciates how much the win means.

Manager Fallon is by no means confident that his team will have a walkover. The Freshman manager, R. C. Doremus, is not very sanguine, but if spirit and grit can get the four points, his team will gather them in.

The dinner committee, made up of Rand, Atwater and Haynes, did everything in its power to have the evening prove enjoyable, and it was generally conceded that the attempt was entirely successful. The one thing which marred in any way the evening's program was the absence of Bursur Rand, who, although unable to attend himself, sent a most cordial letter expressing his sincere regard for the class of 1913, and his good wishes upon the occasion of their second dinner. The other men who had signified their willingness to address the men were on hand, and spoke in a most interesting manner. These were Professor Talbot, The Dean and Professor Hayward.

As soon as the men entered the dining room, last year's Secretary and this year's cheer-leader, Samuel Knight, led the class in a long cheer for themselves, another for the Institute, and then one each for the three guests. Last year's President, W. N. Holmes, then read the Bursur's letter of regret. There was much interest and the closest attention given when he announced the results of the late elections. The men elected are as follows:

H. S. Birchard, President. Mr. Birchard is probably, without exception, the best known man in his class. Last year he was elected Treasurer, and was captain of the Freshman tug-of-war team. He was also one of the principals of last year's Tech Show.

E. E. Rogers was chosen Vice-President; H. D. Peck, Treasurer; L. C. Hart, Secretary; H. M. Rand and E. W. Taft, Executive Committee, and W. Katzenberger and W. N. Eichorn, Institute Committee.

After reading the election results, President Holmes in a few words thanked the class for the help it had given him during the past years and then gave place to President Birchard. The latter thanked the men for the honor that they had bestowed upon him and then introduced the first speaker, Professor Talbot.

Professor Talbot gave a most interesting talk. He spoke on the dangers of over-confidence on the part of college graduates. He impressed upon the men that their courses here, merely are intended to give them power to get positions after graduation, and not to give them knowledge which would make them feel that the best positions of the world were none too good. After graduation, the main danger which beset a college man was the danger of over-confidence. He urged everyone to fight against this. Professor Talbot also impressed upon the men the necessity of absolute honesty toward themselves and toward their work while still in college. If they did not realize the all-importance of this it would be impossible for them to take positions among the true scientific men of this or any other country.

The next two speakers, The Dean and Professor Hayward, in their talks encouraged the men to make the Field Day today a great success, and both expressed the hope that it would be a close contest.

1914 MASS MEETING.

Note.—This article was intended for yesterday's paper, but owing to circumstances beyond our control it was not run.

The first enthusiastic meeting of the class of 1914 was held in Huntington Hall yesterday. Three-fourths of the Freshmen were there, and for the first time this year each member seemed to take an active interest in things.

The nominations for class officers were closed and ballots given out. The election closes Oct. 7th at five o'clock.

C. E. Doud was chosen cheer leader for Field Day. The plans for Field Day and Tech Night were discussed in detail. During the discussion Chairman Krueger said, in part:

"Judging from the expressions of many in the class, 1914 is in favor of making a departure from the childish customs which the lower classes at Tech have in late years followed.

"The wishes of the faculty are in accordance with such an action. We have an opportunity at the theatre on Tech Night to start this experiment of behaving. 'The Arcadians' is such a dainty, beautiful piece, that it would be too bad if 1914 should do anything to disturb the performance next Friday night.

"During the intermissions let us assert ourselves, but let's also give Miss Sanderson and Mr. Doody a chance."

The class seemed in favor of a "safe and sane" career for 1914, and appearances would indicate that a start has been made toward the abolishment of the annual Freshman Dinner scuffle.
