ATTENDANCE SMALL BUT MUCH ENTHUSIASM AT LAST NIGHT'S GATHERING.

Last night eighty freshmen attended the Freshman Banquet, which was given for the Freshmen by the Class of 1890. The gathering was held at the Union for the purpose of introducing the Freshmen to the student life of the College and to give them an opportunity to meet students of the upper classes. The banquet was a success, and the freshmen were heartily applauded.

E. SOCIETY EXCURSION TO L S TATION TODAY

Members Will Inspect Edison Company's Plant—Typical Central Station.

The fourth excursion of the Electrical Engineering Society will be held this afternoon. The party will leave the Lowell Building at 1:45 P. M. for the J. Street Station of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, which will be inspected with the aid of experienced guides which will be furnished by the company. It is expected that one or more of the professors of the department will accompany the party. This is a representative plant of the typical central station of the latest type, and it is hoped that a large number of men will take advantage of this opportunity. Last year a very large party took this trip and found it both interesting and instructive. To accommodate those who are unable to go on Thursday, an other trip will be held Monday afternoon at the same time, provided 15 other trip will be held Monday afternoon at the same time, provided 15 other trips are unable to go on Thursday, an

WASHINGTON, D. C.
A gentleman from Sweden could speak only Italian. Since the love with a certain young lady was the case of his own account. Mr. Krueger made a little speech on matches. With great emotion he took from his pocket a box of Swedish cigarettes. Finding all other plans vain, he offered on the young lady one evening, and made with some difficulty. Calling oneself a Swedish, his overtures were rejected.

A plan was outlined, the purpose of which was to bind the class more closely together. It is the selection of a class organization for gaining valuable experience. The selection of one for the purpose is a matter of importance. Friendships formed among classmates, etc. Friends formed in the junior year will be the most lasting friendships. All men in a class have the same interests and experiences. Friendships formed among classmates, etc. Friendships formed in the junior year will be the most lasting friendships.
