WARS LIABLE TO DEGENERATE PEOPLE

So Declares President Jordan of Leland Stanford Junior University.

SECOND CONVOCATION.

Much Enthusiasm Shown at Meeting in Huntington Hall Yesterday.

There seemed to be a return to the ways of the "good old days" at the Convocation in Huntington Hall yesterday. The students were given more freedom and everyone was in perfect readiness to hear a most enjoyable and interesting discussion.

President Malanquin introduced Dr. David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford Jr. University as an earnest worker, and a man of ability and tireless energy who had carried to the West the educational ideas of the East.

President Jordan is one of the best known workers in the cause of Interventionism in our country. He has declared, "is only an extension of the idea of law, and law decides the best way for men to get along together."

The same is true of international law, and law decides the best way for men to get along together. The talk of a war be-

Wars drain a people of the best of its young men. At the Napoleonic wars, the crotch of the church, is a pile of skulls with bullet holes, covered with spider webs, which form a silent monument to the defeat of the Americans at that place. The skulls of the men killed in Napoleon's wars would make a tower twenty times as high as the Bunker Hill monument. This drain of the bolder youth has left its effect on Europe. It is the keynote of why she has not risen to the heights commensurate with her early glory, even with all the modern advantages of science. One generation determines what the next generation will be. If the best specimens of men are killed and the worst survive, degeneration will surely begin. Rome did not die because of the luxury of the Romans, because there were few Romans left. Only cowards remained, because the best of the warriors had been killed in battle. "War," said Benjamin Franklin, "is not paid for during war time; the bill comes later."

The speaker was warmly received and many were the favorable comments heard after the lecture.
