COMMUNICATION.

Editor of ‘The Tech’:

I read with considerable interest the communication published recently in The Tech concerning the towels in the Union. With the large number of men making use of the Union every day the supply of towels is entirely inadequate, and moreover, this condition of affairs has existed for the past two years. The towels become soiled and must for use by noon every day, but still are not changed, but left to become a habitual place for disease germs. Why not be consistent and furnish sanitary toilet rooms as well as sanitary drinking fountains? MIKE ROMI!

Nearly 120 Seniors at Yale have given to the Yale News accounts of their expenses at College in their Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior years. For the Freshman year the accounts of 114 men ranged from $155 to $2,700, the average being $1,001.50. In the Sophomore year 117 men spent sums from $158 to $2,860 apiece, the average being $1,123.50. For the Junior year 119 men each spent sums ranging from $150 to $2,700, and the average was $1,123.50. In considering these figures it must be borne in mind that they are taken from only a part of the class and, therefore, the averages are not absolutely accurate.

Bowdin is to have a new board track, for which the Faculty will give as much as the student body.

Dr. Adam Miller Hiltebeitel, a graduate of Princeton in 1899, has been secured by the University of Pennsylvania as an instructor in advanced mathematics. Since the opening of the college the authorities have been looking for a man to fill this position, and decided upon Dr. Hiltebeitel's services, but he finally decided in favor of Pennsylvania. Dr. Hiltebeitel, after his graduation, taught in his Alma Mater a year and a half and received his doctorate there in 1905. From this date until 1906 he taught mathematics in the Berkshire Academy. Last year he spent in Germany studying his profession.

TRIED AT UNION
Union House Committee Has Made Many Improvements in Sanitation
The Union Committee this year is composed of the Dean, as chairman, the President's assistant, Mr. Roberts, and five undergraduate members, of whom student chairman, T. H. Guething, temporarily chairs the Dinner Room, the House, and the Entertainment Committees. These members are T. H. Guething, chairman of the Dining Room Committee; H. M. Ford, chairman of the House Committee; N. Mc. Stup, chairman of the Entertainment Committee; A. C. Metz, secretary of the After the Union Committee meeting yesterday, it was announced that Lewin and J. S. Grant had resigned from the Dining Room Committees. It was also stated that there would be no more entertainments this month, reason for this being that the winter weather falls on the 16th, and on the following Friday many of the students will have left town.

There will soon be some doubt as to where the Union will be open in the fall, but it is certain that the key of the Union room, which will also be a house for the cleanliness and thus a means of maintaining the present one.

A copy of the 1910 Senior Portfolio has been put in the Technique bookcase, the key of which may be obtained at the Cage.

The quarterly cups have been published, and two of them, the Front and the Field Day cups, have been sent to New York for necessary engraving. If the music already placed on the piano proves to be popular, more will be added from time to time.

While there are a few men who still keep their hats on in the living rooms, the majority of the students respect the Union enough to take their hats off. It is hoped that the forthcoming few will soon be ashamed into according to the unwritten request. In general, those students find the Union quite orderly, and it hopes that the advent of new and the Field Day cups will not cause it to be otherwise.

The Linen Society has been formed for the good of the student and a number of students have already joined in this club.

Finally, the committee desires that more care be taken of the magazines, as it finds too many of them show marks of rough handling. The Union is continuing to be recognized as a place, where the results of the competition will be made known.
