The tug-of-war team of the Freshman class is, up to date, a failure. Most of the heavy men of the class of 1914 have failed to turn out for practice. What will happen on November 6th in combat conditions is not difficult to predict. Coach Dwyer has set the few men who have come out against each other for practice. So far the matches do appear to be of interest to the gymnastics class. The matches are being run.

It seems that the 1914 men do not realize the need of continual practice in order to win the tug-of-war. Failure in this respect is at hand. We hope that the team will give us credit for work that we have been doing. The team will benefit from the experience. They have been doing their best. It remains to be seen what 1914 will do with the experience which they will have had to hand down to 1915.

Next week will decide the members of the 1916 tug-of-war team. Preliminary trials will be held Wednesday, the 21st. The men making the best time will be selected. There is a splendid opportunity for six or seven men to gain their place. Some men who have not been selected will be accepted. Wickenden has set the few men who have been practicing to take a hand in the trials. Wickenden was not able to take a hand in the trials on account of the system of railway transportation in Thibet.

The three teams mentioned above will be re-formed under the leadership of the 1914 freshmen. The team will be re-formed in the late 1914 season. It remains to be seen what 1915 will do with the experience which they will have had to hand down to future years.

Yale and Syracuse will contest in an intercollegiate debate early in December, to be held at New Haven. The topic for discussion is: Resolved, that all elective state officers should be nominated by direct primaries. Yale will defend the negative side.

THE TECH
Published daily, except Sunday, during the collegiate year by students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Entered as second-class matter, Sept. 29, 1910, at the post office at Boston, Mass., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Galliard presented a well-prepared paper in which he described the work that is being carried on at the canal.

The last speaker of the evening was Russell Hastings, who gave a splendid talk on the central stations of the continent, particularly in Berlin. Hastings spent practically all of last summer on the continent, spending a great deal of the time in Berlin. Here he made a thorough inspection of the A. & G. electrical plants, and he presented to the society the results of his observations. His talk was illustrated by a series of photographs which he had secured for the occasion.

Committees for the year were announced as follows:

Program—O. B. Denison 1911, Chairman; D. F. Galliard 1911, L. T. Howard 1911, E. S. LeBrock 1911.

Excursions—E. L. Lord 1911, Chairman; H. L. Albion Griswold, W. A. Sheppard 1911.

The ambitious musicians are growing again and are planning an orchestral meeting next Tuesday. Once again we may hope to hear the merry tinkles of harp and reed deepened by the bass of the tom-tom, and again our hearts may swell with pride to think that these sweet strains represent Technology. All ye who have the talent, hide not your light under a bushel. Respond to the call of Orpheus and make the M. I. T. orchestra a success.

PLANS FOR ORCHESTRA.

A meeting of the M. I. T. orchestra is to be held in the Union, Thursday, October 18, at 4 P. M. The maintenance of the orchestra depends upon the support of the student body, to a large attendance at this meeting is desired. Leader Exsurgans announces that a few concerts during the winter are planned and will be given, provided the support at rehearsals is sufficient. The orchestra will commence practice with a few standard selections and overtures.

Of particular interest to all was the address talk given by David St. P. Galliard, who has spent his summers on the Isthmus of Panama, where he has been in intimate contact with the work of construction of the Panama canal.

After several months’ leave of absence, which were spent in Europe, Professor Chandler is again at his office as head of the Architecture Department. The rest of the instructing staff remains the same as last year, with the exception of H. E. Fowler 1910, who has become an assistant in constructive design. Professor Desgrange has added to his duties the instruction of part of the Harvard Architectural Department.

The fifth year class is of average size, numbering seven. The fifth, fourth and third years have each had one “sketch problem” in design, and are now working on their regular problems. The fifth year problem is a “Museum of Comparative Sculpture.” The fourth year problem has the same title but differs from the former in size, numbering seven. The fifth, fourth and third years have each had an important. The third year is done in the department during last year; besides some work of Alumni.

The fourth number of Vol. 3 of the Journal of the Architectural Record appeared recently. It contained the list of American students at Oxford, hoping that they, during their sojourn there, would enter into the life of that institution with the same interest as many foreign students.

The Arch. Society will hold its first meeting Monday at 3 o’clock. The first speaker will be held within the next two weeks, with Mr. F. L. Olmsted, landscape architect, or Mr. Cram, of Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, as speakers.

Rhodes Scholars

Ever since Cecil Rhodes provided for the education of a limited number of American students at Oxford much criticism has been offered in favor of and against the proposal. The plan has worked out. It would seem that Mr. Rhodes had the idea in mind to educate a few students from various parts of the world in Oxford University, hoping that, during their sojourn there, would enter into the life of that Institution with the same enthusiasm that they would employ in the Institute.

Whether or not the plan of American students at Oxford has carried out Mr. Rhodes’ original idea is a question that has been widely discussed. Not long ago an American club was founded, and it is said that since that time its members have become more and more enthusiastic. It is open to discussion. It would surely seem that Americans are the last people to sit down, apart from their companions, and adopt a self-sufficient and exclusive attitude. In fact it is quite frequently urged that the opposite is the case, for American students have time and again won positions on the university teams. Nothing of course is more conducive to the making of friendships than all sorts of athletic contests. It would seem, therefore, that the ideas of Cecil Rhodes are being carried out more satisfactorily than many people would have us believe.

The Cornell Daily Sun for October 15 says:

"Although today is a State holiday, having been set aside as Columbus Day, the fact does not in any way affect the University. There will be no cessation of University work, but the banks will remain closed all day."
