SENIOR ELECTIONS

The members of the Senior Class received letters yesterday morning containing their ballots, the announcement of the Senior dinner and return envelopes. This marks a departure from the past, and it is the belief of the committee in charge that it will in parture in the form of elections at the return envelopes. This marks a denouncement of the Senior dinner and containing the Senior ballot, an entire class.

ENDOWMENT POLICY IN STANFORD CHANGES

Gift Accepted from Dr. Barkaw

A radical change in policy has taken place at Stanford University with the acceptance of a $10,000 endowment from Dr. A. Bank of San Francisco, a Professor Emeritus of the Department of Medicine. This is the first endowment for the upkeep of any department of the university received from a source other than from the Stanford Fund, and the gift, which will be set aside as a trust fund, the income of which will be made for the maintenance of a special library for the Eye and Ear Department of the Medical School.

It is expected that the present attitude of the university trustees will result in a great increase of gifts to be added to the Stanford funds.

For the Bulletin Board Committee:

4. We have been given to understand that the Sub-Committees of the Institute Committee hold over until a new one is appointed. If this be the case, it will be a good thing for the Bulletin Board Committee to take one of its spare hours some day and do a little work.

4. In connection with Prof. Bates' communication in yesterday's issue, which it was decided to give a good account of itself.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUN OVER TECH COURSE

Large Squad Expected to Run Thursday—Course in Good Shape.

As Thursday is a holiday, there will probably be a big crowd out with the cross-country men when they run over the Tech course. The course is only long, and at this time of the year is very dry. If there are enough men out they will run in two squads, one for the regular cross-country candidates and the other for the slower fellows.

This is the best kind of a way to get some exercise and to have a morning run. All that is needed is your old Gym suit and a pair of sneakers. The men are to take a train to Highland, dress in a barn and send their clothes to the Field in a wagon, which will await them at their arrival there. After a shower one will be ready to attach with renewed vigor.

This is good training for those out for track, football or tug-of-war, and is a sight reducer besides. Anyone might be surprised to find out that he is a good distance runner. Take the train from Back Bay at 6:58 with the crowd and give yourself a trial. The fare is twenty cents.

CATHOLIC CLUB MEETS THIS EVENING

The officers of the Catholic Club are looking forward to a large attendance at the first meeting of the club, which is to be held at the Union this evening. All the old members of the club have been cordially invited to be present and to bring new men with them.

Last year, with a long list of members, the club enjoyed a most prosperous year, both socially and financially. This was the result of the keen interest shown universally by the members in all the affairs undertaken.

Everybody is welcome at this first meeting, especially freshmen, that their interest and enthusiasm may be enlisted from the start.

The Spiritual Director will address the men, and the officers of the club will probably give an outline of the year's work. Refreshments will be served and the meeting break up for an informal good time.

Heretofore the class dinners of 1912 have never required anything other than a mere announcement, as the men have always responded finely to those functions. It is expected that this year will prove no exception in the rule, and plans have already been made for a large crowd.

The list of speakers is, as yet, incomplete, but will include the Dean, Professor Miller, Mr. Bichachen and others who have accepted provisionally. Arrangements have been made with the stewards so that those not wishing to eat may at this time will be served with a special menu.

Tickets will be on sale Tuesday, and it is hoped that Friday, the 12th, will not deter anyone from attending because of its superstitious import.

Cambridge Site Chosen for New Technology

So far as the Institute is concerned, it has made its choice of its future site, facing Charles River Basin at Harvard Bridge on the Cambridge side, so far as the owners of the land are concerned, they have agreed to the price for the property: and for the properties, but there yet remains to be formally acted upon by the city of Cambridge, the closing of certain streets that cross the property. The number of the Corporation this afternoon, the site committee presented an interim report, the text of which is given below, which informed the meeting that the Institute has started to the representatives of the owners of the land, that certain minor matters being arranged and a number of roads closed by proper action on the part of the city of Cambridge, the Institute will purchase and pay the price agreed upon.

A great deal has been written already about the Cambridge site in the recent discussions before vacation, and it will be necessary merely to review in outline the location. It is a tract of land of about fifty acres at the end of Harvard Bridge, bounded by the Charles River Esplanade, Massachusetts Avenue, the Boston & Alliance Railway (Grand Junction track) Main street, and a street. The front on the Esplanade, the property adjacent to the Passengers Building, extends nearly eighteen hundred feet; on Massachusetts Avenue there is a ample area of green hundreds feet the distance along the railway tracks is about the same, the greater portion included in the new site, while the fourth side is somewhat terraced here being Amos Street to the Esplanade. It is all level land, capable of being advantageously developed with admirable exposure to light everywhere. The site is a possession of future educational destiny, certain streets planned across the property are named after famous colleges, Harvard, Radcliffe, Wedgwood, Princeton and Amherst, while two cross streets exist on the drawings. Channing and Bradford. Channing and the two last-named among the colleges are the only ones that go completely across the property, the others being cut into lengths. It is in the plan to make these streets parallel to the river and to have Harvard Bridge connected to each of these streets. It is possible to connect to the Institute the greater portion of its work that can be wisely separated from the rest. The Institute is desiring to buy a Boston institution.

Proposed Grouping of Buildings

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology educates a large number of men who must live at home, either within the metropolis or within walking distance of Boston on railroad. Were it merely the question of fulfilling its national function, the Institute might be located anywhere, but for the benefit of those who live near the city, it must be situated as conveniently as possible—must be easily accessible from the various parts of the metropolitan district, the suburbs of Boston being no less important that the city limits. "It is this fact," said Dr. Macfadden, "which excludes a country site for the Institute, as has sometimes been suggested for it." Technology is a school to which the graduates of the high schools of neighboring cities come in great numbers. There are about two hundred new Massachusetts boys in Tech this year, of whom more than two-thirds arrive in the city daily by the North Station. When the convenience of the Cambridge site for these students is considered and as well the case with which the Harvard bridge is reached from the southern suburbs, there will be sufficient reason to those who may feel or may claim that Tech is in the Boston, Dr. Macfadden believes in discontinuing this notion the very outset. The new site is already easily reached from all portions of the Metropolitan area, and when the Cambridge subway is completed, passing the edge of the property with an important station just below, it will be even more easy to reach. It will be the short route from the North station, while students in the Newtons will find it readily by electric lines.

There is besides another factor, very important, but the Cambridge site and this is not generally understood. The new location must be within easy distance of Copley Square. To most people in Boston the Institute is associated with two buildings—Rogers and Walker—opposite Hotel Bruns- wick in a broad street. There are its oldest buildings, but represent but a small fraction of the equipment of Technology. A great part of its work is carried on in Trinity Hall and site called the Trinity Place property and that in Garrison street are true of all institutions and may be disposed of at any moment, but the property on Boylston street is curiously restricted and the Institute is bound of use these buildings for one city or for the use. Of course, out of the question to sacrifice an estate and buildings, and without that, the Institute might happen to the Institute so far as the new site is concerned, the operation of property must continue an important element. There for years its administration must continue an important element. There for years its administration must continue an important element. WEDNESDAY, OCT. 11, 1911

The Tech takes pleasure in being able to announce exclusively in this Special Noon Issue the official location of the site for the "New Technology." This committee appointed the first of last summer have given long and careful thought to this matter and their choice seems to have been a logical one both in point of accessibility and usefulness. Work will be started on the construction of this building at once and Technology will be happily solved. It has been evident for years to the friends of the Institute that something must be done to relieve the pressure due to increasing numbers and more extensive courses and equipment.

It is true that today the Institute is crowded out, not only from its old buildings on Boylston street, but the newer ones on Trinity place and Gorrison street. The difficulty of relieving the Institute has been mainly financial, especially during the past ten years. Changing conditions have imposed a very heavy burden on the Institute in carrying out its policy of keeping its leadership in the higher branches of technical education. The cost of maintenance has steadily increased and it has been realized that it has been impossible to keep in the front rank and in addition to the additional larger step of moving its location at the same time, unless unusual financial support could be secured.

The authorities wisely decided to sacrifice everything to the maintenance of high standards. During the year, however, an appeal was made to the Legislature for a special appropriation during this decade to help the Institute initiate a policy of development. The appeal was successful and the resolve giving it $100,000 a year for the next ten years was signed by the Governor on May 30. Then for the first time the Institute felt that it could face the problem of a site seriously. Its Corporation met in the first week in June and after a careful discussion of various sites authorized the appointment of a committee of five with full power to settle the matter. This committee consisted of the President and Messrs. Wigglesworth, Hart, Webster and Everett Morss. It proceeded at once to business and was especially fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Whittier, who placed his great knowledge of real estate problems and his skill in negotiations freely at the disposal of the Institute. The negotiations have proceeded exceedingly difficult, as may be realized by any who are familiar with the real estate business, and a variety of complications have been encountered from time to time.

The committee has been absolutely unanimous in its opinions from the first. After careful investigations of various proposed sites it was decided that the Charles River Esplanade would be the best, provided it could be obtained at a proper price and provided also that all the streets intersecting it, excepting Vassar street, could be discontinued. There were about forty owners to deal with, the largest interests being that of the President and the Marcy. It was naturally a difficult matter to come to an agreement with.
