SEVENTH ANNUAL KOMMERS DINNER
OPENS THE TECH SHOW SEASON

"Tonight is the night." At 6:30 o’clock this evening, in the Union, one of the boldest ventures of fellows will act for a scene in the Annual Tech Show. Kronik’s dinner. The Tech Show managers believe this year’s show will be the best so far, and as this is to be the first appearance of the underdressed sty- le to near them this year the show should attract their appearance and will be an unqualified effective and thrilling card. The orchestra in its new equipment has gained since last year and is more enthusiastic than ever was. The combination with the show, and now is made up of students from Maine and the Middle Atlantic States, and the prospects are glowing with plans for numerous trips besides the regular trips to Malden, Northampton and Providence. Freshmen who are members of all the departments are in the making and broken in, and among those competing are men of the brightest in the Freshman class. All these men will tell in their own words some of the things that they have done or are about to do in order to give the men of the Institute a chance to realize the extent of the work that comes in the Show office every day. Few men have any idea of this work, and all those present to the Union are those are interested in the show. The ticket seller is not run with the idea of making money for the Show, as many people think. The ticket seller’s job is to cover the cost of the show and the extras. This year the management has arranged for plenty of good cigars, cigarettes and an abundance of fine brandy, beer. Souvenirs of the Show will be given away to all attenders, and there is much excitement as to what these will be.

Preacher Nunnally, when addressing the cheering crowd at the Trinity Place Station last night, as the countryside team left for Cornell, urged all alumni in the principal cities of New England and the Middle Atlantic States to realize the fact that the men of the Union and the Show are making up the best amateur team ever assembled in America. Mr. W. A. Adams, head of the Tech Show, is one of the best and most promising men of his class, hockey and tennis. Mr. Adams is a very able and charming man, and his talk will be a great success.

WALTER P. KEITH, Business Manager Tech Show.

The following men are in the Union, all of whom will play tonight. There has been one convert already, at Wednesday, yesterday night, which proved to be a great success.

The managers of the Show have worked incessantly since the opening of school and have started Tech Show, 1913, on the road to prosperity. General Manager Robert W. Wells, the "busiest man in Technology," has not missed a day at his desk in the Show office since the first of October. The business department, under the direction of Walter P. Keith, has been putting up the advertisements for the program and turning out contracts for the artists for the show to be played in the Union.

The managers of the Show have already been successful in their efforts to make the show a success. The pictures of the Tech Show are already known to many of the members of the Institute.

The candidates and the activities that have been engaged in at the Tech Show have been the subject of much discussion. The activities of the Tech Show have been the subject of much discussion.
