PRESIDENT MACLAURIN ADDRESSES ALUMNI

SPEAKS ON NEW TECHNOLOGY AND ON PROGRESS OF INSTITUTE SINCE LAST MEETING.

More than 500 graduates of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, past and present, were gathered in the great hall at the Boston Technology Club last evening to listen to President Maclaurin. In the presence of the large gathering, President Maclaurin announced the addition of a new building to the Institute's equipment. The new building, to be named the "New Technology Building," will be erected on the north side of the campus, near the Charles River.

President Maclaurin said that the new building will be completed within the next two years. He also announced that the Institute had received a large endowment from Mr. Pratt, the well-known industrialist, for the purpose of promoting research in the fields of new technology and the application of scientific methods to industrial problems.

President Maclaurin emphasized the importance of new technology in the modern world, and he urged the students to be open to new ideas and to be prepared to adapt themselves to the changing conditions of the times.

The meeting concluded with a toast proposed by Mr. Smith, a prominent member of the Institute's alumni association, who expressed the hope that the new building would be completed soon, and that the Institute would continue to be at the forefront of new technology and scientific research.

Squad for the 300-Yard Relay Team Picked

Seven very fast men from whom winning team will be chosen.

The final time trials for the 300-yard relay team were held on Saturday afternoon, and about thirteen men took part. The seven fastest men were selected, and the winner will be announced shortly before the 13th of March. The members will be chosen from these seven men.

How to be forcing us into certain realms of business. Not that we shall be finished enough to suppose that any training that we can give can make the members of many not equipped by nature for that great calling (more than we can make an engineer without an architect from miscellaneous material), but engineering methods and engineering principles are entering more and more into certain realms of business, and we must call for a new departure in our instruction. So that we may, we will undoubtedly have to take new steps and will be forced to keep up with things being completely equipped and filled.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor of THE TECH:

Dear Sir: I feel that all the members of the class in Sophomore Physics will join with me in a feeling of gratitude towards the Physics Department for their action in posting two copies of previous mid-year examinations in the Physical Library. These examinations will aid all the men preparing to take the examination, for it will give them a good idea of the kind of questions asked and will enable them to plan how to treat them. The questions on these examinations are always much more formal in character than those asked in the class room recitations, and to my mind one of the difficulties offered, even to the men best prepared, in taking these examinations is the formal and unaccustomed way in which the questions are stated.

I am sure that all the students would be grateful if the other professors would post similar examinations in convenient places or would take up some questions from previous papers for discussion in the last recitations, and so give the men a general idea of the types and topics of questions.

Thanking you for your consideration of this matter, I am,

Very truly yours, L. '15.
