WRESTLING CLASS TO BE STARTED MONDAY

Different Holds To Be Taught To All Interested Three Times A Week

An excellent opportunity for those who would like to learn wrestling will be offered when the new class is started. The purpose of this class is to develop a strong team for next year's season. The management is negotiating with some twelve colleges and expects to arrange a schedule of some eight weeks with the strongest teams. These include Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Penn State, University of Pennsylvania, Lehigh and Lafayette.

With a schedule of as difficult an appointment as it is necessary to begin work this year to develop next season's team. In many classes new men must be developed and new material of any sort is welcome. There is an especial need of men in the 129 lb. 175 lb. and in the heavyweight classes. An excellent opportunity is open to a man who is willing to work. The first team is picked (Continued on Page Three)

TECH SHOW REVIEW

under the direction of William Howard.

It is decidedly rare to find, in any college, a man versed in the art of dancing. The work of J. P. Gardner in his imitation of Pavlova is something that can be credited to few, if any, college shows in the country. His dancing was even better than last year, showing greater control and a far more difficult to dance specialties. Here again may be noted the entire absence of burlesque. Gardner's act won applause solely on its artistic merits. The other solo dances also showed ability of a very high grade. The chorus and pottery ballets were equal in beauty to those of many current musical comedies, but it is to be regretted that the pottery ballet showed such a lack of fineness. With their steps. This has been a noticeable fault in recent Shows.

J. F. Staub as Honoree was perhaps the prettiest, most graceful hero-one since the days of Charley Belden. Town to the least gesture he was great in his part, and never appeared uncomfortably conscious of his costume. The other two principal roles were very adequately taken by K. R. Owen and J. E. Wallis, Jr. H. C. Williamson made a very attractive Bob Scott. His voice carried well and was especially well adapted to his song in the first act, "I'd Love to Love Somebody." It was difficult to understand the interpretations of General Le Boob and Professor Cannum given by I. B. McDaniel and A. H. Waitt. McDaniel, who achieved such a great success as the author of the Show, and composer of some of the best music, seemed to forget the nature of his part. No reason can be found for a French general speaking at one time with an attempted French accent and at another or an American one. Compared with the work of R. H. White, Waitt's performance was not at all the inconsistency was all the more apparent. If Professor Cannum be regarded as merely a comic character having no relation to a Tech professor, an American, or a peace delegate, A. H. Waitt may be considered to have taken the part excellently. He was always at ease before the audience and was decidedly amusing, except in the bathing song, in the first act, where he inclined toward horse-play. W. A. Wood took the part of the dog "Towser," to perfection. His canine gestures were exceedingly droll, and added greatly to the tone of the performance. He did not at any time overload his part. "Useless," the negro servant, impersonated by J. M. Brown, was not at all what his name signified in contributing to the success of the Show. Both his dialect and his mannerisms were true to life. R. P. Kennard played his part admirably. His English accent was supposed to unmask but his acting more than made up for it.

Together it seems that this year's performance has done much to place Tech Show foremost among other college productions of its kind.

entirely by competition and no partiality whatever is shown on the try outs.

If a man is unable to make the first team immediately he can still enter in the second team meet. There will be several of these with such teams as Harvard seconds, An- dover Allen School, Williams and the Y. M. C. A. teams. Then, too, the second team will, in the course of time, become the first team. In addition to those trying out for the wrestling team, the management will welcome anyone interested either for the sake of sport or for exercise. The different holds will be illustrated by the variety team and ample opportunity will be given for the men to try them out individually.

Following this the men will be paired up for a workout, brief at first but longer as the men get into better condition. For the next month the work will consist of a class every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 o'clock. The first class will be held in the Gymnasium next Monday.

The management wishes it understood that but six weeks of school are left and it is necessary to get in a month's hard work. This means that the practice must start promptly next Monday.

INSTITUTE COMMITTEE

The next meeting of the Institute Committee will be held in the Engineering C, at five o'clock Tuesday, April 27th, and following meetings on alternate Tuesdays through the remainder of the term.

TECHNIQUE ELECTION

At the meeting of the 1917 Technique Electoral Board, Joseph T. W. Battle was elected Grand Editor, Battis prepared for Technology at the Chauncy Hall School, and is a member of the Delta Psi Fraternity. His home is in Salem.

The Electoral Committee will meet this afternoon at 5:10 in 8 A. C.

CHAUNCY HALL CLUB

There will be a meeting tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock in the Union. The coming out to be held on Saturday, May 18th, at Salem Willows will be discussed. The trip will be made by the members of the Club in the Chauncy Hall and those now attending Chauncy Hall.

members of the Electrical Engineering Society assembled at the Union last evening. The making of the apparatus was traced from the raw material to the completed piece and the particulars and details of the manufacture were pictured on the screen as many of the machines used in the operations. Mr. Gilman, after the talk, answered many questions relating to the subject.

This lecture concludes the course of six arranged by Dr. F. P. Jewett, the Assistant Chief Engineer of the Western Electric Co. Dr. Jewett, who is a graduate of the Institute, has had much interest in the under-graduates and their activities since leaving Technology and this year took the opportunity of giving to the students of electrical engineering pictures of some of the practical work with which they may have to deal.

Few men are capable of realizing better than Dr. Jewett the slight conception of the layman in regard to the telephone industry. It was with this fact in view that he spent much time in selecting the men best suited to present the problem to the men of the E. E. Society. The large number who took the advantage to attend the course proved that the choices were well made and the subjects of the speakers both popular and acceptable.

Besides Dr. Jewett there were two more of the speakers who are graduates of the Institute. Mr. Gerard Howlett, who gave March 19, before the class of '05, and Dr. Rockwell who lectured April 8, was of the class of '07.

Topics of the course were: Questions of Apparatus Design, the Outside Plant, Transmission, Manufacturing and the Business Organization. From this course the attending members of the E. E. Society have become intimately acquainted with the various phases of telephone, covering the engineering and manufacturing problems connected with the subject.
