GOOD OPPORTUNITY FOR AGRICULTURAL SCIENCE

Bulletin No. 6

Recognizing the importance of increased food production and the general scarcity of farm labor in New England, plans are under way for the establishment of freshmen, sophomore, and junior classes in agricultural service for agricultural service.

The Department of Biology and Physical Science has opened a training base for rural service in charge of Professor Armstrong. An attempt is being made to train men on New England farms for students who are willing to enter for the work, which is quite as important and patriotic as enlistment in direct military service. It is expected that students who voluntarily pledge themselves to work for 18 months, unless special arrangement is made with the employer. Registration cards may be signed at Rooms 10-423, which have been set aside for this work.

The elections have been held for the officers of the Corporation, and it is probable that the members will be in the New York State camp by the end of next week.
