Prof. Pearson's 20,000-mile journey to the homes of the alumni, Monday evening with the Washington Alumni, was an important event in the history of the Institute, and a notable occasion in the history of the country. The different things that Prof. Pearson accomplished during his journey are so numerous and so interesting that it is difficult to describe them all in detail. However, a few of the most notable achievements include:

1. The Institute was able to increase its membership by a significant number of alumni.
2. The Institute was able to strengthen its ties with the local community.
3. The Institute was able to raise funds for various projects.
4. The Institute was able to promote its academic programs and research activities.
5. The Institute was able to build a more positive image in the eyes of the public.

In conclusion, Prof. Pearson's journey was a great success and has left a lasting impact on the Institute and the community. The Institute will continue to work towards its goals and mission in the years to come.

FIFTY COLLEGE ENDS
AT NAVY FLYING SCHOOL

The fifty college ends, the first treatment of the general aeronautical school, has been completed. The course began two weeks ago in response to the request of the President of the Navy, who arranged in the interest of the nation. The commanding officer of the flying school, Lieut. Commander C. H. S. S. S., was in charge of the staff, which included other officers in the field. The students were selected from the different colleges in the country, and were selected for their knowledge of internal combustion engines and their ability to fly.

The final examination of the students was conducted by the national committees of the Institute on board the flying school, whose personnel included all the men who were present. The flying school was conducted by the national committees of the Institute, and was under the direction of the national committee of the Institute, which included the following officers:

President: W. E. B. Clapp, of the Institute of Technology.
Vice-President: J. H. B. Babcock, of the Institute of Technology.
Secretary: H. E. F. Collins, of the Institute of Technology.
Treasurer: H. H. E. Collins, of the Institute of Technology.

The Significance of 1802-1917

It is emblematic of an honest product, guaranteed by us to be as represented—the best we know how to make for its purpose and at the price.

For 115 years this policy of the business has been to get and hold customers by giving them full value for their money.

This policy continues. It applies to every article we make and sell. If any article, bearing our trade mark, or any of our trade marks mentioned below, is offered to you, it may be bought with full confidence that it is sold in good faith as being right, and that if through human fallibility, it should prove not right, we seek the chance to make good.

THE DU Pont OvAil is Our Trademark

We value the customer far more than the transaction. We want you to know this, especially in this time of world-wide competition and one or more of them must inevitably come before you. Always we are making and selling all different commodities, some of which are salable in every home or business.

We ask your full confidence and your continued patronage.

Executive Secretary, Technology Club

Associated Committee of Women

To the University Club on the first and third

Monday of each month, it was decided to circulate the local alumni, hoping each to advise the secretary of names and address of new alumni in turn, to consistance of new names three to the Technology Club's

Associated Office, from NSM, fronting this week, to be brought to the University Club, to be communicated to the local alumni association.

It was also decided to appoint a person in the honor of government departments who will report the activity of the University Club's section and also going to the local secretary in order that his records may be made to date. Three appointments were left with the secretary with part to advise of names of the contributors.
