J. E. Aldred Founded Course In Order To Link Practice With Theory

The Faculty, members of the Senior Class, and Engineering students will hear the inaugural lecture of the second year of the series of lectures on the subjects of philosophy of science, given by Mr. J. E. Aldred, the founder of the series. This will be the first of the 12 lectures by prominent scientists, distrib- uted among the subjects of philosophy of science, physics, chemistry, biology, and medicine. The later lectures will be given by Dr. A. L. Hoyt, of the Harvard University, and Dr. J. B. Conant, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

FRESH SING UP SENIOR MANAGERS

This version of the annual election is being run on an entirely different basis than the usual procedure. The election takes place on the third floor of the physics building, where four different committees are conducting the election, one for each class. Each committee is composed of three members, two of whom are seniors, and all members are required to have passed the required courses in physics and mathematics.

TECHNOLOGY REVIEW WILL APPEAR SOON

Contains Story of De Pont’s Gift of $4,000,000 to Build Roads

The Technology Review appears in this neighborhood in a quite different appearance from last issue. The editor has been on vacation, and the staff has not had time to produce a new issue. However, the editor promises that the next issue will be published in a few weeks.

NAVALSCHOOL TO SHOW CLARK MARINE EXHIBIT

Will Mark Technology’s Only Observance of Navy Week

In compliance with a request made by the Commander of the Navy Yard the Institute will open to public inspection the Clark collection of naval relics, during Navy Week. Included in this exhibit are many rare and unique items of naval interest. Among these are a number of small models of the famous ships of the British Navy, a few of the oldest models of the United States Navy, and a number of models of modern warships. The Clark collection is a valuable contribution to the study of naval history and is of great interest to lovers of naval lore.

Veterans of both World Wars will be on hand to answer questions and give information about the exhibits. The exhibit will be open to the public on Saturday, October 22, from 10:00 to 5:00, and on Sunday, October 23, from 1:00 to 5:00.

OUSTING CLUB TO HOLD SMOKER THIS THURSDAY

A smoker will be held Thursday evening in the Union, and the Officers of the Club would be glad to have all members present and to encourage any of the officers to attend. The Union will be open at 7:30 for the enjoyment of all members. The officers will be on hand to meet and greet all members, and to answer any questions they may have.

SOPHS AND FROSH FOOTBALL TEAMS LOSE TWO GAMES

Sophomores Lose to Dean by One Goal in Twilight Gridiron Tussle

ST. JOHN’S BEATS FROSH

Saturday was a sorry day for the Field Base football team, when freshmen lost to St. John’s by an over-powered offense, which left the Frosh to carry the day. The Frosh were led by their captain, Ed Dean, who scored two touchdowns and also kicked off for three extra points. The game was played on St. John’s fine field, which was in good condition for the contest. The Frosh were unable to make good plays throughout the game and were kept out of the end zone by the powerful defense of the St. John’s team.

More Pullers for War of Tug is Cry

"More men are needed for War, we need all of you," said the coach of the varsity baseball team, who led the Frosh in the tug of war exercise at the Field Day. The Frosh were divided into four teams, each team consisting of one man from each section of the Field Day. The Frosh were asked to compete against the Sophomores, who were considered the strongest team in the war exercise. The Frosh team was led by Louis Cline, who was captain of the team. The Sophomores were led by F. Broadhurst, who was the winning captain of the Sophomores in the tug of war exercise.

ed power locally for industrial purposes, and to this end the project was explored on the various sites in the Province of Quebec.

All of these unfoundries were finally acclaimed to be less valuable than the earlier ones, the chief reason being that their efficiency in the production of iron was a small fraction of that of the successful furnaces. In addition, their product was of inferior quality, with a high proportion of slag and impurities.

A more valuable factor in the production of iron was the use of local ores. The local ores were found to be of high quality and were easily smelted, resulting in a product that was superior to that of the unfoundries.

In conclusion, the production of iron in Quebec was chiefly dependent on the use of local ores, which were found to be of high quality and were easily smelted. The unfoundries were eventually abandoned as they were found to be less valuable than the successful furnaces. The local ores were found to be of high quality and were easily smelted, resulting in a product that was superior to that of the unfoundries.
