“Technoheorts” Is Orchestra’s New Name

As a result of the Combined Musical Clubs recent competition, the “Technos” will become the orchestra of the Combined Musical Clubs. Dance Orchestra was awarded first place at the Banquet of the Society at the Hotel Somerset on Monday night. The Techs are now the possessor of the two trophies awarded for the competition.

Large Attendance Expected for Technical Rush Bid

“The Technos” is the recommendation of the Executive Committee of the Class and R. Campbell, pointed out by President Bateman last November, as the best name for the orchestra. From 7:30 until 10:30, when the demonstration which concluded the celebration of the opening of the Technique Board, the Techs will be playing in the main lobby. The idea of the demonstration was born in the minds of the Executive Committee, who considered it the only sure way of determining whether or not to accept the recommendation of the Executive Committee.

ACTIVITIES DECIDE TO HAVE TEA DANCE

Walker Memorial Committee in Charge of Affair To Be Held Monday

Finally, after much indecision regarding the possibility of holding an Activities Tea Dance this year, the heads of the various activities have decided to arrange for such a dance through the agency of the Walker Memorial Committee which is taking charge of the tea dance.

The mutual desire of the students has been due in large part to the services of Professor Mueller, who has been a constant source of support and advice. Among the students engaged in the planning of the dance are the following:

A GREAT loss to art was the death Wednesday of John Singer Sargent, noted American painter of portraits and murals, at his home in London. While born in Italy and educated in France, he was the son of American parents and has produced a great deal of work in this country.

Sargent had made his home in Boston, and just before his death he had completed arrangements to have the largest and around the world that majority of his works in this country are preserved. The splendid mural painting which decorates the stairway of the custom house and the series of Fines Arts are the work of his brush; and many fine examples of his portraits are to be seen in the better buildings.

Perhaps no artist of his generation has more right to a claim of immortality than has Sargent. Even his enemies were the most part concerned in criticizing his life, or his choice of subjects; for his paintings; few ever have declared that his execution of those subjects was not good.

The quality of his greatness can be fully understood only by one who has been trained in the technique of the artist, or who has been seduced into thinking, some can be exnas-

Among other opinions

One of the latest criticisms of the present generation was written by President Hopkins of Dartmouth College and published by the Boston Globe. President Hopkins is in a position to make a fair observation, and he does so with honesty and justice.

"How can modern youth be made to think? Some can be argued into it, some have to be seduced into thinking, some can be educated into thinking, while in other cases it requires a process of manual labor.

"The chief fault of modern youth is its unwillingness to subject its activities and thinking to any form and is shrinking from the kind of hard work which is required to be taken as a fact of life. If we were to ask any generation about the process of manual labor, they would reply with "This is the chief fault of modern youth in its failure to think, its tendency to follow the machine system, to be just like the other fellow, and to go along with the program."

With lessons carefully weighed out, laboratory work arranged in connection with the physical education exams held during the college term, the dotted-line-794-or-nosimplicity, there is an increasing temptation to become simply a part of the system. Progress demands and especially scientific progress, that individualism and initiative be combined with machine system.

Ideas to Disagree With

Fraternities on the Columbia Campus are doomed; every passing day brings nearer the date of their dissolution. For, to coexist in practicality, they are financially rotten communities, every case. Struggling against the problems of expensive city conditions—for most of them suffering upon palpable truth—that is to say, the Columbia fraternity is at a possible point.

BALL TEAM POUNDS WAY TO VICTORY AS SEASON OPENS

Pitching peerless ball, Ed Ingram led a fighting Beaver team to a 10-3 win over the Tufts squad yesterday. After the first inning, the outcome was never in doubt. Ingram had received from the rest of the team, the Tufts' batters were powerless. Meanwhile, the Beaver batters were cracking hit after hit off the opposing pitchers. In an effort to stem the tide, four of the five base runners on the Tufts' roster were finally put out by the power of the bat Art Merewether, the reliever for the Tufts' batter.

The game went to the plate first, with diminutive Gus Cotter as lead off man. Ingram fanned the first two, and then sent Cotter running the rifle. As he was getting ready to return, the second baseman, on a wild pitch. Merewether singled to left, and Soule came home on a passed ball. Ingram was out, and the rally was on.

The first three Tufts' batters went out in order, Ingram fanning the first two. The fourth, however, reached first when the Tufts' pitcher had slipped while the first baseman folded the glove. Ingram followed the ball, and when it was up, the third baseman allowed it through the middle. Ingram then fanned the first baseman, and Merewether reached first again.
