Relay Team Beats Harvard in A.A.'s. Leness Wins 600 in Case of Game From Helfrich

Annual Track Games Had Galaxy of Amateur and Intercollegiate Runners

A track meet which included the best of amateur competition from collegiate circles and Athletic Clubs, the galaxy of foreign stars and teams that year also comprised a large majority of class zeros and lots of stiff competition in the field. The first in the program was the Boston Athletic Association held Saturday night at the Harvard track.

The track's mile relay team, consisting of Cy Meagher, Howlett, Kwok and Capt. Leness, defeated the Tech, the Harvard track having about 4 yards to spare over Frank Zell, coming last man for the crimson leaders. Leness broke 100 yards to capture and then took the point from a home lead of 30.

Perhaps the greatest Technology triumph in the Harvard relay so far was ever was a man, Cy Meagher and Capt. Leness, defeated the Tech man and handed the stick to this lead for two laps but on the last he had to default. Capt. Leness was unable to compete because of an injury suffered in the previous case.

Leness lead off, Howlett, next tech man to run second wind through the inner lane of the 2nd and 3rd laps. However, he was delayed on the 4th and 5th by a fast lad of 600 yard lead. Howlett held his lead for two lap on the last two laps but even forced Alan Helffrich, himself. Capt. Leness, the only way that he could hope.

The next race, which was won by Yale with Boston College second, was won by Frank Zell, the Harvard captain. Zell was a true runner and his chances are at all interested in the track team. His record was 110 yards a very scant margin over Al Zell, which was won by Robert. In the first game of the season for Harvard, who is known in newspaper parlance as "Truck."
