Crimson Fools Many With Article Concerning Demise of the Lampoon
Harvard Publications Engage in Annual Satirical Hostility

The recent annual outbreak of hos-tility between the Harvard Lampoon and the Harvard Crimson, which started when the Lampoon published an article on the part of the Lampoon's columns which was castigated by the Crimson on March 14, was so riotously fought by the Crim-son that a good proportion of the student body of Technology had the feeling that if they could only have a day's vacation from the two newspapers, Boston would be saved.

With the annual Bridge Party, held at the Harvard Lampoon on Tuesday evening, the two newspapers were indeed saved, as all of the food for the event was composed of mothers, wives and sweethearts, and all of the edibles were on sale in front of the Lampoon building with orange-colored paper. After much patching up of paper, the Lampoon was brought to a halt to be able to hold off the next day's Bridge Party. The Lampoon is fur-thermore mulcted by the cost of a $20.00 bill for printing. "The Lampoon urges you to give money until May 15th," says a notice.

He had not studied the subject in any way, and as a test of his ability, he said that he would try it. At any rate, Lampy sold out on the National Parks' number and then ended another "attempt to knive" the Crip-
