It is rather unfortunate to note that this year’s spring room, boys’ house, and Prom Week also enforces the Easter holidays, which are purely church festivities. No doubt, to a number of students these accidental coincidences of two holiday dates diametrically opposite in spirit and purpose, will cause some inconvenience. Already comments are being made by the small minority which can not be remedied now, are necessary exclusive to the male sex. At least one woman generally are suffering from baldness. We believe such inconveniences could be easily avoided if more of the undergraduate body would condescend to sympathize with the activities which are arranged for their benefit. The fact that Easter and Prom Week is unfortunate. A number of men who are planning to go to the Prom this year have expressed this. It also realizes that the date for this year’s Prom Week is now necessarily quite static because of arrangements already made.

Possibly the few who set the date for the spring room did not make this error inconsiderately, but we hope that next year this will be sufficient interest accrued to catch this sort of thing before it is too late. We cannot hope to sit back quietly in our respective arms-chairs looking at undergraduate activities from afar and hope that when we do decide to jump in and enjoy them that the enjoyment may have reached exactly to our liking. Now have we any great ground for criticism of these activities toward which we display nothing but our indifference. The inconvenience of having Easter come on Prom Week this year could have easily been avoided through student interest.

THE BEARDED LADY OF THE FUTURE

FEMININE progress woman to know no bounds! According to Dr. Leonard Williams, a prominent London specialist. English-women generally are suffering from boriculture and they soon will be housed if they persist in shaving and wearing tight hats. The dermatologist, Dr. O’Donovan, supports Dr. William’s statement. For point out that may have become bold through cutting their hair for generations and it follows that women by cutting their may also expect to go bald. According to the underground philosophers have said that the fact that women everywhere are realizing the superiority of the opposite sex is well demonstrated by the fact that they are becoming more masculine in their tendencies every day. We are certainly in a month to agree with the supposition drawn from these present female tendencies but the existence of the 1920s cannot be denied. Geaves through the newspaper constantly informs us of the new “masculine” modes for spring now. The latest thing from the style centers seems to be the “trench-coat” with its “seriously evil hair,” and “shaggy simplicity.”

Now the scientists decree that woman, like the man is spiring, and they are smoking for cigarette, for cutting locks male. The idea is too impossible for us to imagine very vividly and we hope that this preharping doctrine is wrong. There is a discrepancy on this preharping question, however, and there is a worse evil which has been brought from the present hairdressing fashion according to one body doctor, whose opinion has been asked. “Women become bald as a result of shaving!” the said. But they may commit those and their bards.” Apparently the modern female believes that this male attribute of facial hair decoration, which has existed since history began, is not one which is necessarily exclusive to the male sex. At least one woman believes that the future will bring the beard lady. We wonder!
Flynn of Cardinal And Gray Loses Decision After Reaching Finals

Penna State and the United States Naval Academy divided the honors at the Intercollegiate boxing championships held Saturday at Syracuse, when both teams finished with three individual winners. The deadlock had things entirely their own way in the lighter events, but in the heavy classes the Pennsylvanians proved too strong. Flynn had one individual winner, while Flynn, the Cardinal and Gray's last survivor was eliminated by the decision. Both totaled only two points, after battling the same rounds in the finale.

With the elimination of Captain Walter Wilson in the semifinals at 4 for Army's Navy, Donovan was placed at stroke in the second boat and Tappan, who had been at stroke was moved to 2.

This will probably be the lineup to meet Navy on April 28, 1927. Try Erickup found Hammond I, Moore 2, Tittat 7 and Collins at 5. Saturday's strenuous week, and on the return up the river fell behind the opponent's shell. At present, the varsity boat contains only two veterans Captain Knight 7, Zurwell 8, and Cook cox. These selections were made to 4 for Army's Navy. After the time trials, the varsity and reserve line-up being announced:

- Tappan, who had been at stroke, was moved to 2.
- Donovan was placed at stroke in the second boat.
- The second boat and Tappan, who had been at stroke, were moved to 2.

Looking ahead to the fall season it appears that Dr. Matthews of Dartmouth has stirred up a slight commotion by his views on how the football situation should be settled. He has many oppo- nents but he has his supporters apparently for outnumber him. His suggestion, he claims, will tend to de- crease the overemphasis placed on the sport, but we wonder if placing student in charges of what were formerly 10,000 a year jobs will add to or detract from the idea that they spend on the game.
