THE LOOMING THREAT OF MENTAL POISONING

The looming threat of mental poisoning has been revealed in a recent report by the American Medical Association. It is stated that more than 50,000 cases of mental poisoning are reported annually in the United States. These cases are caused by the use of certain drugs, such as alcohol, morphine, and barbiturates. Many of these cases are cases of suicide.

Even Small Amounts of Mercury Vapor Can Cause Mental Poisoning

It is now believed that mercury vapor poisoning was the cause of death of a young man who died in a hospital in New York City last week. The victim had been exposed to small amounts of mercury vapor for a period of several weeks. It is feared that the effects of the mercury vapor may have extended to his brain, causing mental poisoning.

The presence of small amounts of mercury vapor in the air can be detected by the smell of it. The symptoms of mercury vapor poisoning are general weakness, fatigue, and mental confusion.

Even at the present time there are individuals who are suffering from the effects of mercury vapor poisoning. These people may be unaware of the danger they are in, and may not realize the seriousness of the situation.

Summary

The report of the American Medical Association has shown that mental poisoning is a serious problem. It is estimated that more than 50,000 cases of mental poisoning occur annually in the United States. These cases are caused by the use of certain drugs, such as alcohol, morphine, and barbiturates. Many of these cases are cases of suicide.

Four teams showed to good advantage in the events and were comparatively equal in the biathlon, but the third team to score well was many. Boston University and Connecticut Aggies were practically eliminated by their score in this event.

The match was held under the auspices of the National Rifle Association as a part of their annual biathlon championship. C. B. Lister, of Washington, D. C., secretary of the association, took charge of the events and was assisted by four ordnance department officers of the Massachusetts National Guard.

It was announced at the match that the four entering teams would compete in an intercollegiate biathlon championship of the United States. Among the competitions of the year the coming meet are the Naval Academy, George Washington University, Penn State, Carnegie Tech, and George Washington University.

“Speaking of fine tobaccos—Have a Camel!”

MODERN smokers find in Camel a nicety of blending, a friendly cordiality of flavor, an indefinable goodness that thrills from the first puff to the last. That is why Camels are the favorite of the present age. The warmth of golden sunlight or autumn fields gleams in their smoke. Camel are the modern expression of all that is the finest.

CAMEL quality and Camel excellence are recognized wherever modern smokers gather. Particular smokers in this hard-to-please group were found the best of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos blended in this famous cigarette. They find a consistent goodness that never fails, no matter how liberal the smoking.

And when the modern smokers gather, whatever the conversation turns to tobacco, to the world’s best, someone is sure to say: "Speaking of fine tobaccos—Have a Camel!"
