ACUTE CREDITS

EDUCATION suffers in America from a confusion of purposes" is the claim of Dean H. W. Holmes of the Harvard graduate school of education. In his opinion we have altogether ignored the spread of education rather than making our system fit for the attainment of specific ends. The situation is an acute case of "credits.

In the preparatory school everything is subordinated to obtaining sufficient credits to enter college, and in consequence the student arrives in college "prepared," but he has received here the beginning of an education. Age for age our students are noticeably inferior to those in English and Continental universities. One startling reason for this is the emphasis we place on anything else. Dean Holmes' conclusion from these facts is that the outstanding problem is the unification of secondary education with college work without losing the distinctive features which have proven advantageous in the past.

He has many reservations, however, but "there must be cooperation with the colleges, and one college must take the lead in starting the new system." Probably a large majority of Tech students can remember back to their prep school days when preparation for College Boards were the chief and only object of classroom work. The sole purpose of education which have proven advantageous in the past.

On the contrary, he feels that the way to the modern mind is via the modern young lady. "What use the modern young lady is a very interesting study. She is so sophisticated and her new freedom rings quite true. As Miss Anderson's performance being revealed by their unconscious selves. The plot concerns the search for the character of Judge Roberts. The judge's daughter, acting as his successor, is wealth and untroubled by the many ways of life. She had seen and experienced everything. And in the stratum of sophisticated, experience of life occurred following the examination that this man could never love her. The inevitable resulted, and in the play, "I can only object to the spread of education rather than making our system fit for the attainment of specific ends. The situation is an acute case of "credits."
OUTDOOR TRACK WILL START MONDAY

RALLY WILL OPEN SPRING TRAINING

Two Handicap Meets Scheduled Before Interclass Meet

On April 9

Oscar Hedlund, the head track coach of M. I. T., announces that the outdoor track season will start with a rally on Monday afternoon in Boston. Between 10 and 12, 500 boys who have had any previous training in track will meet at the track house any afternoon after 2 p.m. Their wisher to emphasize, track will be like theitten for the more advanced in track, regardless of whether they have had previous experience. Some of the Institute's finest runners never had a spiked shoe on in their life until they came to M. I. T.

In order to give every man a chance to show his ability, Oscar has arranged a series of two handicap meets, besides the regular Varsity and freshmen meets. These handicap meets make an effort to put every man on a par with the other fellow. The handicap meets are on April 7 and 14, when on April 16 comes the Spring Interclass meet. The Varsity team makes two trips this year, one to the University of Maine and the other to Harvard. The freshmen also have two trips, going to the University of Maine and the other to the University of Wisconsin.
