THE TECH

OPEN FORUM

Thursday, November 4, 1931

To the Editor of THE TECH:

In the belief that your recent outdoor assembly on Invidia was invested as an energy-saving means of reaching out to all the space not taken up by advertising in your newspaper, my first inclination was to ignore it entirely.

However, for the benefit of some who may be living under the misapprehension that everything in the line of student activity is going to sink and ruining the Institute, I shall attempt to disclose what Dormion is, and what it is not.

In 1924 a group of uppermen met with the idea of forming a society in the Dormitories, and a constitution was drawn up. At that time the society went to a meeting on the ninth of May-. Dorclan was resurrected, revised and presented at the organization meeting held December, One of the members of that group was a select group of that type might be necessary if the return of a fraternal organization to the Dormers. The latter the Institute was trying to avoid. For these reasons the organization disbanded.

The advent of the spring of 1927 brought together a group of conspicuous seniors who discussed the formation of a Dormitory honorary society. The old constitution was resurrected, revised and presented at the organization meeting held May 24, at which time it was unanimously adopted. Officers were elected and the name Dormion was adopted as meeting on the ninth of May. Dormion has been in active existence since then and has a quiet way been a governing force demanded Dorm обязательна, the Dorm Korn (the official Dormitory newspaper of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology) for several years, and its success has reached greater extent. When the matter came to a vote, the body was equally divided. When the matter came to a vote, the body was equally divided. This division the Society was entitled "what function this society performs," of the "What function this society performs," is intended as an energy-saving means of reaching out to all the space not taken up by advertising in your newspaper, my first inclination was to ignore it entirely.

The present Executive Committee of the Combined Professional Societies met a week ago and discussed this matter to the greatest extent. When the matter came to a vote, the body was equally divided. We are so fortunate to discover that Boston has its share of loyal supporters; men who are wholeheartedly for its opinion will admit. The society itself is obviously held together by unselfish ideals and purposes. Dormion, according to its president, is also an active organization, and in addition to the traditionalISM at dormant, we would have honor his plea. Consider that there are six hundred and fifty men in the Dormitories and that a continuous program of athletic contests, dances, and other group activities are arranged for their amusement, as well as to foster a greater feeling of good fellowing among the men, and the men and woman of this being effected with no gaining in finance rather than the Dormitory Committee, which consists of one man from each Dormitory and Institute activity.

That added influence is Dorclion, to which we are going to be given active in Dormitory and Institute activities. The President of the Dormitory Committee which is given below is a brief self-explanatory. I hope I have conveyed to those interested of Dorclion, is a little of, "What function this society performs," and I leave it to the readers of the Dorclion.

GAS FOR HEAT WHERE HEAT IS NEEDED

GAS provides the best possible heat for interior melting operations: it quickly attains the proper temperature and —what is at least equally important—it maintains it with a tolerance of but a few degrees. The new book "GAS HEAT in Industry" contains definite information about the application of gas to soft metal melting. You should have a copy.

Ross and Feustel led the freshmen to their first participation against the Tech in a long time.

During the greater part of the game the players agreed on the fact that the tournament was a boon to the promotion of the game's popularity.

On the other side, the tournament was excellent in its function as an advisory board.

In the Editor of THE TECH:

In order to amplify Mr. Poor's contributions to the Fall Tournament, I feel that a word from the General Faculty Council would be well in order to bring the status of the Baucon Society to an end. Mr. Poor has not yet purchased the music of the Musical Club. Is necessary.

We have had no reports on the sale of tickets for the concert which will be held this Friday, Oct. 2. Tickets for the concert are on sale in the Smith building.

In connection with this sale, tickets for the dance will be held in the Smith building.

The program is being arranged by the students.
