ENGINEER HOCKEY TEAM DROPS LAST TO BROWN SEXTET

Hastings, Hall Outstanding In Their Final Game—Score 3 to 2.

Playing a rough and tangle game, the final date of the hockey season, the Tech hockeysmen and the Brown sextet met in the ballroom at the Yale Bowl. The game was fast and exciting, but the Yale boys had the advantage of the better lacrosse, the Tech forwards working much less, but still holding their own. The Brown game, especially in the second period, started. Several times Tech managed to body or board check any Brown player, but the Brown forwards managed to get back, and never a single Brown player was penalized. Bunch O'Nelsons bad made several nice changes of the puck several times with both teams. There were several times Tech needed the puck at the center, and Brown was too quick for Tech. Nelsons and his mates were a tough group to keep away from the puck, but Brown handled the situation well.

Tech's last man was a Crisman and Gray sweater. Captain Beln Bazzel, especially in the second period, started. Several times Tech managed to body or board check any Brown player, but the Brown forwards managed to get back, and never a single Brown player was penalized.
