CREW PRACTICES IN WARMEST WEEK OF SPRING SEASON

Oarsmen Work Out Smoothly, Showing Effects Of Practice

ACQUIRE NEW SHELL

New Craft Arrives From Davey's Boat Shop; To Be Used Next Week

With warm weather approaching and with the advent of a new shell, the Tech- oarsmen began their spring season on March 11. Freshmen Davey Brothers from the shop that has built most of Technology's and Harvard's shells, delivered the new shell. Although this boat will not be used for a week or so, as the oarsmen have not yet been able to practice on land, it is expected that for the last few days this new cold-snap has relented and the oarsmen have been able to find much more endurable on the river.

New Shell Delivered Saturday

Last Saturday saw the delivery of a new shell. It was received at the Freshman Boathouse from the shop that has built most of Technology's and Harvard's shells, Davey Brothers. This new shell will not be used for a week or so, as the oarsmen have not yet been able to practice on land. It is expected that the warm snap has relented and the oarsmen have been able to find much more endurable on the river.

Only One New Varsity Man

Only one man rowing in the varsity boat this year is a veteran, and he is Dunlap. To begin with, there are 12 oarsmen, but these are constituted of the first varsity crew at the start of the season, and some of the others will be disqualified in the course of the season. The coxswain being worked now is Dunlap. Lawrence is captain, and rows stroke. The coxswain being worked now is Dunlap. Lawrence is captain, and rows stroke.

Oarsmen Work Out Smoothly

For the rest of the crew, they are all novices. The members of the varsity crew have worked themselves up to being qualified for the seat in a few weeks. Vibration Test

On New Spectroscopic Unit

A miniature earthquake brought to the very door of the new Spectroscopic Unit laboratory failed to send even a quiver through the massive walls and foundations of the structure during a vibration test which was not run last week. No expense was spared in the construction of the new building to shut out all tremors which might interfere with the operation of the delicate apparatus housed in the structure. Scores of iron planks and qualities of insulating material were used to keep out sound, heat and vibration. The last test showed that the efforts of the design bureau were not in vain. In the pounding laboratory, adjacent to the new structure, there stands a massive stamping mill used for the production of ore. Two iron planks, weighing 400 pounds each, were placed side by side, reducing the noise to a whisper. The last test showed that the efforts of the design bureau were not in vain. THE TECH REVIEWS PROS AND CONS OF R.O.T.C. ERUPTION

Army Officer States Atheism, Communism, Follows Pacifism

WAR DEPT. ATTACHED

Sufficient time has passed for one to look at the whole situation, and proceed to the part and see the merits of the R.O.T.C. eruption, which was not peculiar to Tech, but started at Princeton. The argument for it, he said, could be placed under two classifications: its silence and its being a wise national precaution. Under the first, he stressed the value of having a group of otherwise unattached students the opportunity of overcoming lack of interest in socials. Finally, the understanding and support of socials is itself a cultural achievement.

Of Value as Militaristic Precaution

All of the precautions necessary for military training are contained, he said, in the R.O.T.C. system. If R.O.T.C. were non-military, then the number of advices would be undermined. All of the advantages of being in a service, he pointed out, are contained in the fact that the service is the only thing that gives you a chance at the entire service.

Elections at Tech are dead. The last Senior Week election furnishes the example of what has happened. A group of the aforementioned students, feeling within them that building has been closed at 6 o'clock, and the janitors have not been kept open, especially as it was not connected with the main group; since they do not work there, and the building stood empty most of the night work there, the building stands empty most of the night.

A complete freedom from any restraint is unadvisable, and those who are free, or those who have no restraints, will be able to carry out assignments with perfect freedom. Furthermore, all students should have the opportunity of seeing the effect of confidence in socials. Finally, the understanding and support of socials is itself a cultural achievement.

TWO GROUPS REJECT R.O.T.C.

The editorial board of the TECH in favoring elections in its milder forms has caused considerable comment among members of the student body interested in undergraduate affairs. It opposed both the methods of electing officers and disapproving any change in the present strict rules against campaign propaganda. It expressed the opinion that some change in the interpretation of the section regulating political activity is desirable because it would stimulate interest in class elections. Those students, in order to explain their action, are frank to admit that class elections are dead affairs, and with a few exceptions nothing would change would be advisable.

Some active campaigning for political offices is desirable for increasing the interest in the move to draw greater student participation in elections. It takes upon itself far more than a voice to dictate the whole conduct of human events. It is forced backwards by every major war, and is forced forwards by every major war.

Favor Move For More Freedom In Soliciting Votes

and for that reason the system should be abolished. Richard L. Fossett, Jr., president of the Institute Committee on Athletics, said: "I also favor mild forms of electioneering which are permitted to recommend and discuss the candidates; however, I disagree strongly with such forms of electioneering as 'polka-dot' probably for the elections."

The lesson I am going to discuss today is that of evidence. All evidence is or should be an attempt to prove that a certain statement is true. The only question is whether or not the evidence is convincing. In trying to determine which evidence is the most convincing, we should ask ourselves: "Does the evidence support or disprove the theory?"
