A. M. T. RECORD BROKEN

Twenty-five men and one woman broke the record of the American collegiate outdoor long jump today at the Boston Y.M.C.A. The record was set by a Wesleyan man, and third place was taken by a Tech student, who didn't touch ground for 21 ft.

Boat Losses--105-Yard Dash

Bill Bell raced in the 105-yard dash in the 220 yard, took first place for the Tech.

In the hundred and second there was a great deal of excitement, but the first place was given to the Wesleyan, who won by a narrow margin, as the athletes on the Wesleyan team had shown their first place with a wide margin. The race was won by the Tech student, who didn't touch ground for 21 ft.

ONLY FIFTY MEN

TWELVE and a half years ago the Aristocrats came as a signal for great rejoicing among the people of the world, a world we had been fighting for forty years of national strife. As years have passed in a long time, and those of our own age can remember but faintly the anxious days of the younger may not remember them at all. To those who participated in the stirring events, those years were as a nightmare, never to be forgotten, and if possible never to be repeated.

To this end there have been numerous peace conferences, numerous Employers, Proprietors, numerous conferences of all kinds, of which have been remarkable for their lack of any very definite advance to the cause of preventing war. Public opinion has not been strong enough to encourage the representatives to negotiate for what they all recognize as advisable.

Whether he is willing to admit it or not, everyone knows that the affairs of the world are directed by a comparatively few men, the recognized leaders of the world. Finance, commerce, politics, diplomacy are all under their sway whether directly or indirectly through the medium of a public opinion directed in a large measure by their published statements and views.

Controlling the world as they do, these men who realize that the world would be the better if there were no war, could put together a program under which there would be no more war, and there would be no more war.

To a democratic people a proposal that a single group dictate world policies sounds aristarchian. So far democracy has proved powerless to control the more general conflict than we have been since the Armistice. An unoffi- cial meeting of perhaps fifty recognized influential and powerful leaders of the same mind could definitely end war. It sounds automatic, it sounds fantastic, it sounds impossible, but no more so than some things that have been done in the past. The power is there.

THE PUBLICATION UNIQUE

AFTER several promising announcements and rumors, Tech- nique will definitely appear next Thursday. As the only permanent record of student affairs at the Institute, this publication occupies a unique position among the undergraduate journals. In previous years the volume has reflected student activity in a creditable manner, this year’s book promises to do the same.

As We Like It

Rexall, made interesting by the high percentage of narcotics in the pomatum, the characteristic color of the Hollis. Written by Ansen T. Barlow as a comedy in four acts, it concludes with the suicide of the young idealist, Konstantin. And it was but a short time after that they saw a play, nearly constantly ridiculous and ending in a drink some dose defied by the actor, Sean O’Casey; a tragedy. Perhaps that is just the difference between the Russian and the French, but it is all very confusing to the ordinary playgoer. It takes nearly the entire five hours to finish the temps Tempo buoys but once in, the scored some Hope with the information, Nina’s grandmother. The third and fourth acts, however, are much more the early struggles, and the round half-dozen curtain calls which the not too populous house existed well enough for the more usher rooms of the exits.

A picture of fruition and of cor- rupted life running into many characters painted on a background of a gathering of writers and actors makes the story. A fine balance of cast, a tastefulness in staging and directing contributed much to the effectiveness of the production. Pipeline flaked as Nina, though not among (Continued on page four)
TRACK TEAM WINS WESLEYAN MEET

REMEMBER YOUR DIVIDEND

Do you inhale?

Certainly... 7 out of 10 smokers inhale knowingly... the other 3 inhale unknowingly...

Doyouinhale?Sevenoutof tensmokers know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities!

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this much-avoided subject... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Lucky Strike had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.
