A Correction

To the Editor of The Tech:

With due respect, may I submit a comment on an article which appeared in your issues of February 12th and 19th in which the history of the British Empire is discussed. I feel that there is a certain amount of misinformation and error contained in the article which I wish to correct.

The article states that the British Empire was begun in the 16th century with the establishment of the East India Company. This is not correct. The British Empire as we know it today did not exist until the 19th century. The East India Company was a private trading company founded in 1600, but it was not until the reign of Queen Victoria that the British Empire began to take shape.

The article also states that the British Empire was based on the principle of the mother country controlling the colonies. This is not true. The British Empire was based on the principle of the colonies controlling themselves.

I hope that you will take these corrections into consideration when printing future issues of The Tech.

Sincerely yours,

SPORTS COMMENT

Three warm spring days revived us so that the baseball season is just around the well-known corner. Numerous groups were to be seen throughout the city, catching the short time when both the class teams and the dorm teams will be going through their paces. No schedules have been released yet for either league, but they should be out soon. The dorm baseball season will start shortly after the bowling season is finished, with the last matches of this sport to be held Thursday night.

Weholt has a chance of taking the bowling title, but Atkinson has a slight lead in percentage points at present. Neither team rolls tonight, but both have their respective seasons Thursday. Atkinson meets Ware and if the present leaders take three points in that match they will have secured first place. Walsh meets Hayden and must take all four points to tie Atkinson in case the latter is held down in a mere 3 1/2 points by Ware. Hayden took one point from Atkinson the week before last and there was no word Wednesday precisely as to whether the present bowlers have the bowlers pretty well used up.

Turning from the four to the Fraternities, the results of the inter-fraternity four-man squash tournaments show Phi Beta Epsilon victorious. The combined Enrico and Mason were the viotors for Phi Beta Epsilon, defeating Mathias and Leman, 6-4, and 6-2 respectively. The inter-fraternity individual championships has not been decided yet, but the tournament is fast approaching the final round.

While we are on the subject of sports, it might be well to remind our treasuress where, as five-rack Co-eds, Jack Samuels will play Ed Lucas, number one on the varsity, in the first of a series of weekly exhibition matches to be run off for the purpose of examining the fundamentals of the game to all those interested. At the same time Wood and Ingalls will battle it out at the Emerson Cup Tourney, while Edler and Newman are playing their semi-final round match.

As a result of their fine showing last spring, the 100-shoulder varsity crew recently received a new shell and every one of them is familiar with it. In the presence of a cheering crowd of commonsmen Dr. Allan Winter recently received a new shell and yes—with all due formality it was christened.
