EXCHANGE DINNERS

M. E. C. STAYS INNOVATION

Tech has been set in motion by the Interfraternity Conference to facilitate exchange dinners between the various fraternities on the campus. This year each house would, on some appointed date, send their freshman class to another fraternity and on the return, exchange guests, to talk to that fraternity's Sophomores. The following week this would be reversed. On future occasions exchanges would be made with other fraternities.

The advantages of such a move are many. All members of the fraternity would have a better chance to get a good idea of what the system is all about. Furthermore, through these dinners, each boy would get a chance to talk to other boys from different houses.

MAXIMUM EFFICIENCY

DOMESTIC PARKING SPACE

Dinners of automobiles will welcome the extension which is being made to the dormitory parking area. Those of us who have driven to collect our cars, have found parking violations tag plates will feel relieved if this is a case of locking the door after the horse has bolted.

As it was, it was next to impossible to move a car during the day if it had previously been parked. This is because the lines of cars up the center of the space was formed, the cars at right angles to the curb could not be moved.

It would be well for everyone to heed the notice issued by the Dormitory Committee in regard to parking at a 45 degree angle to the curb in order that three rows of cars may be comfortably accommodated in the new extension.

The rifle team looked impressive in its win last Friday. With all the lettermen back it looks like a great season for the shooters. The match scheduled for this Friday with the Arlington rifle club has been postponed until the first of December.

It's like old times to see Joe Lewis working out with the fencing team. We have heard reports that Captain Dunstan has taken Joe over three times in their practice sessions recently. We hope that it is true because anybody can take Joe over, even in practice sessions, has to be good.

Figure in the E-I-S Club announce the club's bowling tournament. We heard that the game was better than last year's but we are not sure what this year's game was. Joe Lewis, the 40, made the Tech's only point. Army took the first two, then saw 11-9, and Tech scored 5, 5, and 2. Of course, the Techs are capable of losing, and Army hopes to break the steady string of good luck that has been following its team this season and score a victory over Tech in these dual meets.

He is now out for this season. It was also announced that the men who won first places in the individual events held during this season were awarded the A. T. A. A complete list of these winners will be published in a later issue of The Tech.

Hexathon Next Saturday:

Students Enter Six Events

A hexathon will take place Sun- day, Nov. 26, on Tech Field. Coach Oscar Hedlund announced today that there will be no entries.

The hexathon, which is an al- tered form of the decathlon, consists of six events—the high jump, the broad jump, 12 lb. shot put, 60 yard dash, 300 and 600 yard run. Each contestant must compete in all six events, and the person with the highest total score will be the winner.

This connection was created by the fact that the atmosphere in the 5:15 room was not always conducive to good chess playing, and that it might be possible to use Vejar's East Lounge.

About two hundred and fifty people saw the production, around one hundred of those attending on Friday evening.

"This production was the first of two public presentations offered by Dramashop, the Technology undergraduate dramatic organization, during the school year."
