A HEALTHY SIGN

TEACHERS' OATH

It seems almost unbelievable, but the Massachusetts House of Representatives has actually approved on third reading the bill to repeal the Teachers’ Oath. Law. With all the shouting and flag-waving of the bill’s supporters, a majority of representatives can look at the question without hysteria.

In the past, the Teachers’ Oath has been popular with politicians to raise the “Red scare” against colleges and universities. Of course, schools were not the only targets, but the “college radical” was a student and professor, and came to be a stock figure.

Apparently the theme has been overworked. People do not respond to the old battle-cry. It is no longer politically advantageous for politicians to decry men like Dr. Compton and Dr. Cosant. The disgraceful scenes at last year’s hearing were not repeated this year. In fact, to a certain extent, the Law advocates have put on the defensive.

This is a healthy sign, although experience tends to indicate that it should have been expected. Democracy may be able to convince people with their shouting for a while, but in this country at least they have never been able to keep a permanent grip on people’s thoughts. The old way of doing it is wearing out. The ancient red herring smells too badly.

But one must have the reasons given for the change, be he due to his first point of view. If a mild inflation is general, to the extent of about 20%, then it seems logical that the 50% higher tuition will be no greater burden to the student. New Light Shell
For 150 Pounders

Duraluminum Construction Is Used
To Cut Down Weight
Of New Boat

Craft Is Lower And Bolder
A new light shell featuring duraluminum construction is to be put into sea within a week by the members of Technology's 150 pound crew. The boat, which has been designed by Coach Valentine, mentor of the lighter group expected to do well in this tournament, has been made, and in the riggers, some 75 pounds of duraluminum has been replaced with wood in the washboards, where a saving of a third of the pounds has been made, and in the riggers, where half the normal weight has been eliminated.

In addition to using alloys in its construction, Valentine, who is affiliated with the Cambridge Boat Works, has given the shell a novel shape adapted to the qualifications of his charges. It is to have less freeboard than the ordinary craft but is to be wider, and hence just as stable.

So well has the lighter weight been achieved that the shell is 67.5 pounds lighter when compared to a shell of the same type which weighs 135 pounds.

The dried mud in the washboards, where a saving of a third of the pounds has been made, and in the riggers, where half the normal weight has been eliminated.

Coach Valentine, mentor of the lighter group expected to do well in this tournament next week. The team is expected to do well in this tournament, and if they regain the form they showed earlier this season they will have a good chance to fulfill expectations.

Valentine is starting outwell this week. The team is keyed up and anxious to get out in the water and start some races before the Intercollegiate tournament.

After a number of hours of actual rowing experience, they will be allowed to take out boats alone. In addition to the beginner's class, a class is being conducted for those members of the Association who wish to become Boarownders and Racing Skippers. Notebook is being placed on this group because a large school with other schools has been prepared, and the Association is anxious to maintain its reputation for producing good skippers.

Fee Raising Makes Institute Considerate Technical School

Technology's raising of its tuition to a level of six hundred dollars makes it the most expensive of United States technical schools, so far as an afternoon end to the student is concerned. Engineering schools throughout the country average between $220 and $280. Below are listed the tuitions of a number of the better known scientific schools.

"Where Tech Men Go"

Leslie Howard says Luckies are "tops" with his throat.

"Years ago, as an ambitious young actor, I was impressed how well my throat liked Luckies and how well they suited my idea of a perfect cigarette. That impression still stands. In my recent role of Hamlet, with its many performances each week and the attendant tax on my throat, I have been convinced anew that this light smoke is both delightful to my taste and the "easiest cigarette for an actor's throat."

Leslie Howard

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 80% stated that they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Howard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.
