Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In the Friday issue of The Tech, there appeared an editorial to the effect that the New Technology finance federation had passed on one of its members, the Tech, from one of the organizations who sent representatives to its first meeting. The statement was made without a name or a representative to a Boston meeting which had been called for discussion of the society. The federation had already determined its method of preserving peace.

Actually, the delegate was sent only for the purpose of obtaining information and, as a representative of the policy organization, had absolutely no power either to favor or oppose any action against Japan. There has never been any attempt, officially or unofficially so far as I know, to set forth a policy of the federation with regard to furthering the cause of peace. In fact, it has not been determined as yet whether the federation is justified in taking any action whatever. The spreading of information on the problem of peace is obviously one of the functions of the federation, but definite action has not yet been considered.

We are looking to The Tech for support and encouragement of the new organization. The editorial on Friday was, hoy, only a misunderstanding.

In order to present the other three-quarters of the world to participate in war, the "I Will Leave" movement was recently formed on the campuses of a college. Before a muffin was cooled, a number of representatives entered the Boston Public Library and borrowed every book on the subject that they could find. After their studies, they concluded that the juvenile population of the world lacked any adequate representation. The aim of the movement is to have representation on the campus of every college in the world, by having one representative from every college present at each meeting. The movement has been well received, and it is expected that it will grow rapidly.

weather in the afternoon, making it impossible for the crews to do their best. The close race of the morning had been too much for the Princeton contingent, and they were unable to finish better than a fourth in the finals.

Finishing even more than on their previous encounter, the other Institute crews were unable to place anywhere in any of the races on the Charles last Saturday.

The Victorians Release Their Grip on the Charles

Weighed down by a lack of physical conditioning, the victorians found it difficult to compete with the teams that had trained all season. Despite their efforts, they were unable to win any of the races.
