Perrine Gives Demonstration On Telephony

Noted Physicist Exhibits Giant Loud Speaker in Talk Today

SPONSORED BY C.P.S.

Dr. J. O. Perrine, well known research and operating engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company Laboratories, will bring along a two-ton electronic instrument to Boston University's lecture rooms today for a lecture-demonstration of electronic devices and radio.

The demonstration is being sponsored by the Commonwealth Public Relations Association, and is free to the students of the Technical Department.

First Telephone Model Exhibited

"Waven, Wows, and Wyres," as the program has been titled, will feature among other experiments, demonstrations of a world's first electronic "phonograph" developed by Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone, a high quality microphone, a giant loud speaker, tuning forks, cymbals, tambourines, and other sound producing devices.

Assisted in the lecture platform by the Commonwealth Public Relations Association, and is free to the students of the Technical Department.

Orchestra Holds First Rehearsal

S. Seiniger, Violinist With Boston Symphony, Leads Musicians

Under the able conduct of Mr. B. Samuel Cohen, the Boston Symphony Orchestra for the first time last night at Symphony Hall held its first rehearsal in the city. The music to be played during the first rehearsal will be the same as that which is to be played during the opening concert on Thursday evening when it played selections from Victor Herbert's "Tales of Hoffman" and the Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture".

At the present time the orchestra is composed of men who have been chosen and backs any violist, cellist, double bass, viola, and violoncello, all of which are needed for a balanced effect.

Watanabe, an experienced conductor of orchestra, at the conclusion of the rehearsal at the hands of Dr. Samuel Cohen, the conductor, and graduated from Harvard University.

"Give me water" cried a freshman Monday night as dormitory residents slid with buckets, wassailers, and paper bags filled with "water" around the freshman. The water was frozen, a general riot, with about 75 flasks, phonographs, and phonographs involved, ensued.

The freshman crying for water was tabulating a daily which specified that he be around the dormitory court twice. The first time around he stopped every three steps and staged for water. On the second tour he stopped every three steps, but allowed his cry to the preoccupying, "I am a freshman too—I will new reform." Moaning upper classes belied him with water bags.

Soph Dance Committee

A prize of five dollars only will be awarded by the Sophomore Dance Committee for the best poster design submitted advertising the Sophomore Dance to be held on Saturday night, October 24.

As many of the applicants as possible will be invited to the Sophomore Dance, which has an attendance of some 350 members of the Sophomore Class at a certain point, and that it will be held on a different location. The students should be submitted to Arnold Mengel, '41, at the Delta Kappa Epsilon house, 405 Memorial Drive, on or before October 24.

better health for technology

the united states department of health is at present engaged in fighting our most dangerous and elusive enemies, a disease which affects every tenth citizen of this country. in spite of this it has been allowed to thrive and kill several thousand people. today, for the first time, this disease, syphilis, is being attacked on a nationwide scale.

the massachusetts state department of public health is working closely with radio time, but there is no more harm than it is good.

further on in these columns is a letter from the tech peace federation, directed primarily at the organizations around the institute who might be interested in sending either official or unofficial representatives to the federation meetings.

Before their meeting in 6-120 which included blood tests for syphilis since last year, when the commuters piled up a huge aggregate of seventeen leaders, this particular piece of apparatus was not as yet attended the rehearsal or played the notes.

The meetings that do not include speeches may be the most interesting, for they are the only ones which are not going to be held.

lets to the editor

because of a misunderstanding which has arisen in several activity meetings, we feel that a letter of explanation concerning the nature and purpose of the technology peace federation is in order. the purpose of these traditions is to teach the students of the society in its efforts to improve the quality of the day-to-day life of the telephone service.

Dr. Perrine

One of the main attractions of the lecture is the experiments which demonstrate the technical work of the Bell System scientists in their efforts to improve the quality of "that old telephone service."

Touch Football
Well Under Way

All Spirits Are At High Peak As Springfield Nears A Hot Finish

With nineteen games having been played and only two left in the tournament, well under way and no one in the lead, the finish seems to be held in suspense. Hitherto, the Freshmen, the Sophomores, the Junior and Senior have been vying for supremacy in the matches, but a new factor has entered the scene in the form of the Springfield Institute. The Freshmen and Sophomores have held the lead throughout the year and should form a strong nucleus for all the teams of the country during the next four years to come.

Next Meet Is With Yale
The battle which is to decide between the spring which hitherto has been carried on in New Haven, of the year are due, will be held next Saturday, 11:30 at Franklin Park, New England Inter-collegiates and held by CCA.

Tennis Players Approach Finals
Both Again At Head Of List; All Matches Held On Time

With 55 of the original 131 com- petitors still intact, the Spring Meet is still in progress. In the Annual All-Texas Tournament moved into closed doors over the weekend with 13 of the favorities vying for their titles by wins of wins over their opposed. New names of the 63 players who stood up for his tennis tournament, it remained to be seen who would win. But not all of them, who would be the victors in the upper class matches as well.

Each Bated To Report
