

Harvard's "Blitzkrieg" Flops; Enemy Retreats Without Pants

FLASH!

Metropolitan Theater, May 2, 10:03 P.M.—The "Dekes" again foiled Harvard by spiring Jack Benny's "General" Rochester from under the noses of his four Harvard bodyguards, on hand to escort him from this theater to a reception at Boston College. The official Harvard car, surrounded by police, was parked in front of the theater, while Rochester went quietly out the back door to the Deke's car, which brought him to Boston College.

May 2: From somewhere in M.I.T.: Censored by the General Staff. A mechanized detachment of invading Harvard "blitzkriegers" Wednesday night met with unexpected resistance at the Technology main line of defense and retreated in confusion leaving on the field valuable equipment including 22½ pairs of pants, 1 pair of underwear shorts, and one leather belt. This battle followed a similar one of the night before.

Official casualties were high on both sides with seven Harvard participants being jailed for their activities Tuesday evening and two Technology students Wednesday night. Richard M. Powers, '40 of the dormitories was charged with petty larceny, and Frank K. Bennett, '43 of 97 Bay State Rd., Boston, was booked for assaulting an officer. Both have had their trials carried over until today.

Hostilities Break Out

Hostilities broke out when dusky General Rochester, Harvard chief of staff, was captured by the "Dekes" early Tuesday evening attempting to reach his own lines. The genial dignity was entertained by his captors until 11:30 P.M. and then escorted back to Harvard. Outraged, the Crimson forces pulled a surprise attack on the "Deke" house and temporarily routed the defenders. Reinforcements hastily summoned from the dorms and nearby fraternities arrived in time to turn the tide and split up the attackers.

Harvard reformed their lines and moved on the "Deke" house the next evening at 11:28 P.M. Ready for this emergency, Technology had marshalled a large detachment at the scene. The attack by the Beaver forces began at 1:12 A.M. and rolled over their opponents without much difficulty. A small diversion created by the invader in the court of the Graduate House failed to disconcert Technology. A nondescript but odorous outbuilding filled with rubbish and paper was fired, the blaze attracting the attention of the municipal fire department who arrived just in time to put it out.

The Tech To Conduct Poll On Vacation Dates Monday

In order to determine whether or not the students in the Institute desire a change in the date of the Spring Vacation, The Tech is conducting an Institute wide poll this coming Monday, May 6, in the Main Lobby from 9:00 till 5:00 P.M.

As was mentioned in the editorial in the last issue of The Tech, Spring Vacation occurs at the time it does because it is believed that the students want it at that time. The Poll will decide if this is the case.

Other proceedings included the clearing up of all old business and committee reports before the new members took over the meeting.

Petition Can Force Society Referendum

The Institute Committee passed a motion to the effect that in the future, on petition of one-fifth of the students eligible, the Elections Committee shall hold a referendum of eligible students to determine whether that honorary society should represent them. This motion does not affect the class Honorary Society referendum to be held on May 14.

Facts Maintain Freedom

By the United States Constitution the American press is free. It is free of governmental censorship. There's nobody standing around with a club or a blue pencil making sure that certain things are printed and certain other things are not printed.

The responsibility, therefore, is largely up to the press. Newspapers can decide for themselves what they shall print. Yet the process of making this decision is not the detached choosing which it might seem to be. For there is a moral angle to the dissemination of news which is as vital as a heartbeat.

There are a lot of things which journalism might choose to do. (There are indeed, a lot of things which it does do.) But the one job which newspapers must perform today is that of informing. Reporting facts—the significant, the difficult, complicated facts of industry and politics and economics—must be vigorously sponsored by the American press today as it never has before.

A good deal of information is being circulated these days. The shackled European press is full of it. Called propaganda by other propagandists, it suppresses truth, leads men by frauds to acquiesce in their own regimentation. Their hand forced, today's journalists must offer to the people of this country such an amount and such a quality of instruction in the facts and problems of public affairs as no people since time began have been willing or able to get.

Realization of this tremendous service which American journalism must perform comes with a rush at any hint of a governmental scheme to regulate the press. With governmental control extending to other human organizations the thought that the press' accurate reporting of facts might be throttled is frightening. The press is running squarely into the problem of whether the United States can find a way to clamp down on other human organizations with governmental regulation but leave the press free.

Journalism needs neither pity, nor refuge. It is its own defense. Fearless faith in its job of reporting facts can never show any governmental agency reason for regulation.

As Henry R. Luce said some time back:

"If it (government control of the press) is a question, then there is no other question involving the press which can compare with it in importance. What then can the press do to ensure its survival? . . . First, it must assist the people to govern themselves (which) will involve telling them some very unpalatable facts."

The mention of faith in the job of reporting was made advisedly. By all comparative standards the American press fortunately believes in its mission. We still have the propaganda. Our newsstands carry more tabloids than "straight" newspapers. In the movies we still see examples of unscrupulous methods of news-gathering by various Hollywood-drawn reporters. Yet it is undeniable that the true journalist believes in the paramount importance of the informative function of the press. His conscience boasts, not that he has made Presidents or invented laws, but that he has unhesitatingly and effectively transmitted significant information from the boisterous newsfronts of the world into the minds of living, literate, free people.

Officers vs. Cops

Besides serving as Technology's vernal outlet for emotions which had been pent up through winter's long months, Wednesday nights' melée with Harvard effectively contrasted the techniques of the two local law-enforcing agencies.

The officers of the Metropolitan District Commission did a good job. They used tact and intelligence in handling the situation from the start. Employing calm but forceful methods they persuaded the demonstrators against interference with the activities of peaceful citizens.

Characteristically heralded by screaming sirens, the arrival of the Cambridge police saw a sudden change in student-law relationships. Immediately the atmosphere became antagonistic. Unlike the M. D. C. men, the Cambridge police were out to disperse the students, forcefully and quickly, not to keep them under control or their activities from harming the public.

No doubt the Cambridge police did their assigned job. Their stick-swinging methods do break up mobs. But more desirable tactics are available for the control of college hell-raising which fact the M. D. C. seemed to realize. Keeping a student demonstration within bounds is far better than browbeating it into dispersion.

Spare The Horses

A revised Institute Committee met for the first time yesterday. New men took seats beside those who came in last February.

It is natural to expect that the embryonic solons will be bursting with new ideas. The tendency is commendable; the more discussion and interest in the Institute Committee, the more effective a student government we are likely to have.

But one word of caution should be sounded. First, the eagerness of the new-fledged legislators should not push them into impetuous proposals. And, secondly, let not the veterans of the committee take advantage of the inexperience of the newcomers to steamroll legislation.

A tendency in the old committee which should be still more marked in the new one, is the highly commendable trait of progressivism. But unbridled "progress" sometimes turns to reform and reform can easily snap back at the reformers.

THE READER SPEAKS

The Editor of The Tech,
 Dear Sir:

In regard to the proposition set forward by T.C.A. about forming a club of the foreign students here at Tech, I would like to make the following comments: The idea is of course very good and it has been carried out successfully in a number of other colleges. But to me all these clubs seem to have one big fault: they are too exclusively for foreigners, or anyway they only bring foreigners in contact with other foreigners. However, most of us, who are from other countries, are not here to become acquainted with the other foreigners, but with the Americans. Therefore I should think that it would be a distinct advantage for our club if it could be based more on bringing the foreigners together with Americans, especially those Americans who would be interested in meeting the foreigners.

Respectfully,

SPORT SLANTS

by Harvey Kram

The competitive spirit of this Saturday's Compton Cup Races should reach a new high owing to the unofficial scrimmages between Tech and Harvard students during the past few days. The Institute men had little difficulty in repelling in no uncertain manner the marauders from up the river, and the Beaver oarsmen will be doing their best Saturday to add salt to John Harvard's wounds.

The Beaver crews left South Station last night on board the same train the Harvard sweepswingers were scheduled to leave on. However, there should be little worry of rivalry breaking out while on the train for Bob Moch gave his coxswains the responsibility of seeing after their individual boats. Besides the responsibility of keeping track of their men, the "coxs" were also assigned by Tech's rowing mentor various tasks such as seeing that oarsmen got to bed as soon as possible, getting the athletes out of bed on time, and seeing that the crewmen take a walk before breakfast. All this presents an amusing picture if we imagine each of the "little" coxs tucking his eight husky men in bed.

When the Beaver Tennis team came to Providence to play Brown they found the newspapers predicting that the Tech team would be shown up as weak. However, the Institute netmen gave the highly touted Brown team a close run for their small victory. All this reflects very favorably on Tech's tennis players since these men have had little or no time to practice owing to the poor weather here in Cambridge.

Phi Kappa Sigma Take Track Meet

Hall And Leader Star As All-Round Athletes; Phi Gams Just Shaded

Capturing three first and two second places, Phi Kappa Sigma's track squad eked out a one-half point victory over Phi Gamma Delta, 20-19½, in the annual Beaver Key track meet yesterday on Briggs Field.

Sid Hall, Phi Kappa Sig, was the outstanding individual performer with a first in the 100-yard dash and second in the broad jump. The victors garnered their other points in the medley relay, the 800-yard relay, and the potato race in which Ralph Leader placed second.

Phi Gams Second

The Phi Gams took two first, two second, and two third places. Bill Hooper won the shot put event and placed third in the potato race. Ray Berry was second best in both the shot put and high jump. The other Phi Gam points were scored in the broad jump and the 800-yard relay.

Sigma Chi came in third with 10½ tallies by virtue of fourths in the medley relay and 100-yard dash, a second in the 800-yard relay, and a first in the potato race.

The 5:15 Club was fourth in the team standings with 8 points. Goodale, Beta Theta Pi, Walcott, and the Student House brought up the rear in that order.

Morss Bowl To Be Held On Charles River; Crews To Row In Races At Princeton University

Fifteen Colleges To Fight Beavers For Championship In Fourth Meet

Fifteen colleges will be represented at the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association Championships to be raced on the Charles this week-end. Champs at present are the Beaver sailors, who have won the trophy three times running.

Colleges entered are: Navy, Princeton, Williams, Harvard, Yale, B.U., Brown, Cornell, Dartmouth, Lafayette, Tufts, Penn. Coast Guard and Michigan. This is the first time that these last two colleges have sent teams to compete.

Skippers Colie, Olsen

Favored to win the event are the Engineer skippers Colie and Olsen, with Downer and Park as crews. These same two skippers have won the Morss Bowl, as the trophy is named on the three occasions on which it has been offered. This year marks their final crack at intercollegiate championship racing.

The stiffest competition should come from the Williams crew of Bavier and Santry, whose records are tops in yachting circles. During the summer, this team took the Boston Dinghy Cup and the Macmillan Cup Regatta, which was raced in Cold Spring Harbor last year. This season's outstanding achievement was their defeat of Navy in the 40 ft. yawls at Annapolis. In this respect they have done better than Tech, who came in behind Navy and Princeton in similar competition.

Tigers Good

The Princeton Tigers are another good squad with a good record, and a yawl victory over the Engineers to their credit. Harvard has good skippers. Their record is only fair, however, mainly because of bad luck. If they strike form, however, they should force other skippers to pit every ounce of seamanship against them.

Beaver Netmen Nosed By Brown

Barely nosed out in the last match of the afternoon by a highly rated Brown squad, the Beaver tennis team continued in its hoo-doo groove as the final score was posted at 5-4, at Providence.

In the singles section of the competition Brown ended up ahead 4-2, only Braunlich and Freeman winning their games. Braunlich came up from behind to beat Axelord 0-6, 9-7, 6-2, in the most thrilling battle of the afternoon in a match lasting 2½ hours.

In the doubles Millar and Freeman, and Samuels and Katz won their

BEAVER INTERCOLLEGIATE CREW

Defending Tech's title in the Morss Bowl Races on the Charles this weekend will be: Runyon Colie, Delevan Downer, Pete Park and Eric Olsen.

Lacrosse Team Will Play Game With Dartmouth

Strong Crimson Team Defeats Beaver Squad In Game Wednesday

Beaver stickmen come up against the Dartmouth Lacrosse team at Hanover tomorrow with the purpose of avenging a defeat at the hands of Harvard, 7-2, on Wednesday afternoon.

Dartmouth started off poorly this season with a disappointing spring trip through the South, losing badly to Maryland, Navy and Army, and just beating Swarthmore 5-4. The Indians came back to the form which has won them the New England Championship these past two years, however, when they beat a strong Harvard combination 6-4. Dartmouth's defense, which has tightened in this last game, should be difficult to break through.

Crimson on Top

In the game against Harvard on Wednesday, Harvard started in right from the beginning to end up the first quarter on top 4-0. In the second period Harvard stretched its lead to 7-1. Schuchard garnered the Beaver goal assisted by Browning. The third quarter was in Tech's favor. No score was made until the last minute when Creamer came in with an individual dash to score. In the fourth period play was even but very slow and no score was made, to end the match with the score at 7-2.

games to make the score 4-4. Kaneb and Braunlich came up against Bauman and Price in the final and deciding match of the afternoon. Tired from their singles play, the Engineers played hard, but were narrowly defeated 6-4, 4-6, 2-6, to give Brown the match 5-4.

Four Eights To Row In Seventh Running Of Cup; Harvard To Row

Forty-two Beaver oarsmen left last night for Princeton to row in the seventh running of the Compton Cup Races which will be held Saturday afternoon on Lake Carnegie. The Tech varsity and jayvee eights will have a chance to revenge last Saturday's defeat at the hands of Harvard for they will meet the Crimson again at Princeton. In the two other races on the day's program, the freshman and 150 lb. contests, only Technology and Princeton will compete.

Compton Donated Cup

Tech will be fighting for its first victory in the Compton Cup races which began in 1933. The Princeton Tigers won the first four years and Harvard has led the crews the last three seasons. The Cup was donated by President Karl T. Compton and is competed for annually by M.I.T., Princeton, and Harvard.

Yesterday the Tech freshman 150 lb. crew lost to a strong Harvard frosh lightweight eight by three lengths in a Henley race marked by rough water.

The men making the trip to Princeton are:

Varsity:—8 Gavin, 7 Church, 6 Mueller, 5 Guething, 4 Howard, 3 Poskus, 2 Folberth, 1 Phaneuf, C. Blancardi.

Jayvees:—8 Hustvold, 7 Morse, 6 Vyverberg, 5 Shaw, 4 McGuire, 3 McKenney, 2 Blake, 1 Vetter, C. Wengenroth.

150's:—8 Woodward, 7 Boise, 6 Wagner, 5 Mitchell, 4 Hasert, 3 Howell, 2 Vandervoort, 1 W. Horton, C. Karashek.

Freshman:—8 Meyer, 7 Malloch, 6 Metzger, 5 Lorenzen, 4 Kelso, 3 Mikolajczyk, 2 Leader, 1 French, C. Clausen.

Spares:—Van Nymen, Anisz, McCord, P. Horton, Maples, Spitz.
