Six '43 Men Make W. M. Committee Selected From Group of Twenty-Seven After Two Weeks

The twenty-seven students finally selected from a group of seventy-six students for offices on the Winter Recruit Committee after two weeks of competition. The six successful men announced as the winners were: James C. Allen, George S. Afton, Robert B. Gilder, and Richard W. Dillen.

These six will be selected as the Junior members of the committee, and the full list of members, the names of the winners, and the offices they will hold will be announced as the chairman of the committees.

The committee members intend to spend this coming weekend at the Tech Cabin at Lake Massapoag, to be become better acquainted with each other, and thus enable to cooperate in their duties as the "ad hoc" body of the various activities.

Second Placement Talk To Be Given Today

Mr. W. B. Woodward, Supervisor of Employment, of the Senior-Vacant Vacancies Club will give his talk on the needs of this year's Placement Leagues at 4:30 p.m. today in Huntington Hall.

"Interviews" is to be the subject of Mr. Woodward's discussion, with a reference to the necessity of prospective students to know the method of interviewing, and the method of answering the interviewer's questions. Students who has attended Tech many times in the past, is not in the majority, but most of them are still not familiar with the interviewing techniques.

Graduate students interested are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to learn the necessary steps leading to an advantageous part of a future position.
CARRIE NATION WALKS AGAIN

Up in Hanover, N. H., last week a Dartmouth Senator was suspended for violation of the college administration's regulations concerning drinking. This action and subsequent events present a sorry picture of college student-administration relationships.

That a faculty committee should have to frame, and then enforce, a restriction upon college men's desire to enjoy a personal aspect of their lives, is far from a tribute to the administration's conception of education or the young man's self-sufficiency. Whether the offender was guilty of "uncontrolled or uncontrollable drinking" or not, he and the Dartmouth administration certainly feel that the whole affair is decidedly inconsequent and not a little bit absurd. Professors are inclined to need that students don't over-indulge any more than they are needed to feed them their vitamins each day or see that they have enough cover for their nights.

Worst of all, the situation in Hanover is now no better than ever. The erring Senator has been reinstated, but a lot of bad feelings have been created. Reinstatement only came after a student petition and an administration counter-petition signed by 154 Dartmouth men, which was needed to guarantee student observance of college rules in regard to drinking. All the signs of the counter-petition now may be viewed as an appeal for an attitude of tolerance in any case when drunkenness or disorderly conduct provide indisputable proof of excess drinking.

We don't know whether the Dartmouth men just can't hold their liquor or whether the administration at Hanover is being unreasonable in its accusations. But it's lamentable that the College officials saw fit to adopt this nurse-maid attitude. And somehow we can't help feeling that the traditional Hanover-Dartmouth Ball tomorrow night will not be the model of sobriety for which the Dartmouth administration hopes.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

The freedom of speech that our forefathers died for is being thrashed today by unthinking Americans.

Men who honestly and sincerely believe that the United States should extend material aid to Great Britain, who believe, with utmost conviction that the consequences of our present foreign policy will lead us to active military participation in Europe's War, are being branded as pro-Nazi because they are acting in what they believe to be America's best interest.

Men who believe that compulsory conscription in peacetime is a step to fascism in Europe and that the War's waving of the flag cries of "fifth columnist!" and "traitor!" these men are loyal Americans, not renegades. They believe, as Americans living in the world's only democracy, that there are errors in our present policy and that they must be corrected.

Whether we agree with them or not they are American citizens who should be protected by the Constitution. However, the World Student Service Fund intends to accomplish a fact impossible for the Red Cross is a mystery.

This, the practical side of the problem, is but one of the choices that should be examined by the Institute Committee and the students individually. The second side is a moral question of relative values. In this case—can we ethically contribute money for moral support when it for bodies are suffering? World emergencies like that existing today are times to satisfy life's primary needs, not times to cater to less vital interests.

The whole plan, therefore, seems to us neither feasible nor morally desirable. Its ideological values are questionable; its achievement is nigh impossible.

For Boys To Play

Editor's Note: With this issue The Tech is inaugurating a new column, "For Boys To Play," directed especially to the students of the Institute. It will try to be regularly involved in the various sports activities being sponsored by the various student athletic associations of French.

unless they can muster more spirit than they have previously shown, this game will be the freshman's, for it looks the organization necessary for victory. The Sophs ought to win it.

Technology's greatest traditions. Unless the Class of '43 can summon forth the class of '42, it will win the annual Caller Charlie Game, will have the upper hand of the Hyannis School, will anchor the Eastern Conference, will have several nice runners. Bobb Hook and Milt McGuire, '41, right guard, who leads the best men across the line, is out with a bad leg, and Backer's place.

The Outcome of the largest event of Field Day, almost the same story as tug-of-war can be told. However, actual contact has been increased at least tenfold, and the feai of the swim meets announced yesterday has been postponed for a week, according to a statement after last week's game against Trinity. The Techs are in need of practice and are going to make up for their previous two defeats against Bucknell and Johns Hopkins by being better prepared.

Cardinal Booters With Two Losses Against Them Meet Coastguard

Playing their home first game of the season at the Cardinal Booters' annual Caller Charlie Game on Friday, the Techs will have to face some serious problems. The Booters have lost two games against Bucknell and Johns Hopkins, and the Techs will have to face them with a lot of confidence and discipline. The Booters are a tough team, and the Techs will have to be prepared to face their best.

A WORD TO TAKE FOOTBALL GAME

In football, almost the same story as tug-of-war can be told. However, the freshman football team has plenty of pep and spirit, but unfortunately, they are not as good as the sophomores. Their success has been due to the hard hitting Sophomore team, which has been the backbone of the team all season, and has been the team's biggest asset.

The Techs are to play against the Booters today. The Techs have had a lot of success in their past games, and they are looking forward to a good game.

SILENT AND WISE

BEAVER TALES

By Jack Quinn

There are few of us who haven't heard of the Cardinal Booters. They are the football team of the Catholic University, and they have been around for many years. They have had some good successes, and they have had some failures. But they have always been a tough team, and they have always been a hard-working team.

The Cardinal Booters are looking forward to a good game against the Techs. They have had a lot of success in their past games, and they are looking forward to a good game.

BRAND LINE WILL CRASH

Don't think too hard about the upcoming football season. We'll have a good time out there, just like we did last year. The Techs will be the ones to watch, and they'll be the ones to cheer for. The Techs are looking forward to a good game against the Booters. They have had a lot of success in their past games, and they are looking forward to a good game.

FIELD DAY PREDICTIONS

With Field Day coming up this afternoon, I have an unusual amount of faith in the Techs this year. However, the Techs are not like the Yale of '03, with little difficulty in expediting last year's victory in this event. The Techs are a strong team, with an average of only 140 pounds, and the "comet" system that they have worked on will probably prove its worth.

The only advantage the freshman class is to receive is a small heavy run for '42, and to develop a strong center of defense.
