WAR IS DECLARED!!

War is the penalty that Boston weather must face from an irate The Tech staff because of its unwarranted blizzarding upon Technology's embryonic Winter Carnival.

However, we cast up in self defense the last sentence, last paragraph of the "Look Out, Dartmouth editorial," "Because of the changeability of Boston weather, . . ." Still, the psychological effect of rain and sleet upon a proposed Winter Carnival editorial, written when it was "snowing, snowing pretty white snow," may not have been the expression of some of them probably began to wonder: "Just what kind of learning.

A dorm dance was held on Friday evening for all students in the dormitories. The dance was sponsored by the Dormitory Committee. The music was provided by the residence halls' orchestra and the students were encouraged to participate. The dance was a great success and everyone had a wonderful time.

THE READER SPEAKS

To the Editor:

We wonder if many of us have ever stopped to consider what confusion must exist in the minds of the freshmen class.

We start them off with three days at Freshman camp, where they are taught to wear proper clothes and have their first set of field day exams or not. The dormitory committee, after hearing the men's objections, decided that the dances would be held on Friday evenings for all students in the dormitories.

Williams Takes Beaver Five
2nd-Half Rally Fails To Break Blue Lead; Final Score is 39-31

The Williams quintet topped the technology varsity, 39-31, last Friday night at the Hemenway Gym. The Tech never lost the lead although the engine rallied to narrow their margin perilously in the second half. When they warmed up, the Williams squad showed superior shooting ability, compared with the Beginners. Early in the first half the Williams gained a lead which they held with a varying margin throughout the game.

Tech Tanks 11 Points... Major fault was charged against the Blue, and Tech cashed in on 11 points in foul shots during the entire game.

In the beginning of the second half, the engine capitalized point for point in rapid succession. Then, after they were to be defeated, the Williams quickly cut down the lead of their adversary by seven points. Thus, they were the nearest they got to victory, for the Williams quite clearly increased their lead again.
