The Beaver ants will face the University of Michigan on Saturday afternoon with a title of five games. The two teams will meet in the Maccabees for the third time, with the Beavers having already lost two to the visitors. The contest will be held at Briggs Field, and the game is set for 2:30 P.M. sharp.

The University of Michigan will use freshmen in the competition, a policy that has been adopted by many colleges to give young athletes a chance to compete at the highest level. The Michigan team will also include two freshmen, Bob Miller, captain of Tech's varsity crew, and Oscar Hedlund, having the reputation of being one of the best sprinters in the country.

The Beavers will wear the red uniforms, and the Michigan team will sport the traditional blue and white. The game will be an exciting one, with both teams fielding strong crews. The outcome of the contest will depend on the performance of the freshmen and the experience of the veteran crew members.

The University of Michigan will have the advantage of being able to practice on the Charles River, while the Beavers will have to use the Charles River, which is known for its rough conditions. However, the Beaver crew is well-prepared and confident of their ability to take on the challenge. The team looks forward to a close and competitive race, and the fans are eagerly awaiting the outcome of this exciting contest.
