College Papers Undate to Discuss Common Problems

Last Saturday the Greater Boston College Press, a group of the Boston College newspapers, held its first meeting at the college press. The meeting was called to discuss the purpose of organization. In addition to the usual business, a motion was made by the representatives of several colleges and universities from Boston and vicinity. The motion carried unanimously and the meeting adjourned.

The association was formed for the purpose of the interest of college papers and the continuation of the college paper work. At the first meeting were members of the managing boards of the Boston College newspapers, includingIncrements of Sigma Nu and Simmons College.

The problem which the association is attempting to solve is that of postal representation and the students' part in public work. The association's first meeting was held last Wednesday night, three of the freshmen members present were elected to serve on the association's board. The three officers are Edwin A. Reed, Thomas L. Stegeman, and James H. Dunbar, Jr., who is also secretary-trainor of the Freshman Council.

From Last Year's Team

The experienced and capable managers have had no specialist branch, and all men are expected to give their best efforts to completing the program. The V-12 program will be in effect for the duration of the war, and it will be necessary for them to enter the program through the V-12 program.

After the election, the representatives and alternate officers will be permanent until the elections are held two weeks in advance as required by section 10 of the Freshman Council's constitution.

In order to help the students at the Institute to get together, was the reason given by a representative of the Student Council when he was asked for class B recognition by the Freshman Council. The association which now has 50 members, has been in existence unofficially for about two or three years. The constitution and by-laws were presented to the Walker Memorial Committee by several informal meetings attended to, with the hope that the organization might someday be recognized.

In line with Walker Memorial Committee's recent investigation of class B activities, there was a motion brought up before the last meeting of the Walker Memorial Committee last week that the society had been practically out of existence for the past several years. According to the Walker Memorial Committee no applications have been made by a member of the society requested to hold another meeting and give them a formal constitution.

The election of the freshman council which was held Monday evening was another step towards the building of the class B activities. It was approved at the meeting, along with other proposals.

Tech And Lasell To Give Concert Dancing Will Conclude Program At Lasell

This evening at 8:30 P.M. the Tech Cloud Club will join vocalists from the Orphan Club of Lasell Junior College to give a vocal concert at the Alumni Pool, Lasell.

After the recital, to which formal clothes are expected, a basketball game between Tech and Lasell will be held from about 10:30 P.M. until midnight. A large crowd of students from the Institute will be present to cheer for the Institute, while the remaining crowd will support Tech, according to George S. Denham, director of both musical organizations.

The Institute Committee, the Lasell Junior College Committee, and the Tech Cloud Club will jointly sponsor the event, with a joint rendition of "The Savoys" and "The Bozzards".

The girls are to sing two groups of songs, and are to dance to the music. The Lasell junior students, according to "The Bold Turpin," will have no special problems, as they will be singing and dancing to music provided by their own musical group.

The concluding song, to be sung by both clubs in conjunction is "They Bought The Sherry Throne," by Harold Schwab, former manager of the Institute Committee.
NO NEW ANNOUNCEMENTS

Now that the Army Specialized Training Program at the Institute is scheduled to begin operations as of March 8, the position of the Junior in the advanced R.O.T.C. still appears to hang in the balance. For that reason and for the further reason that we are unable to obtain any more news about our position, we feel that it would not be wise to review what the original Army release said on the subject.

On February 9, of this year we published the following information, and we may assume that it is what will really happen:

"First year advanced division ROTC students who ate officer-candidate schools and upon successful completion will follow from the above that the only thing we must wait for is word from Washington. Students may be assured that of any further authorized instructions will be sent to appropriate officer-candidate schools and upon successful completion will be commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps."

It follows from the above that the only thing we must wait for is word from Washington. Students are assured that when such word does arrive it will be given the widest possible publicity in the shortest possible time. It may also be deduced from the paragraph quoted above that such word may be momentary expected...or it may not. (Equivocation is the secret of most cowardly successes. But we're not cowardly any more than Shicklegruber is. And then, we don't have so much at stake, either.)
