Judging by the poll, which shows 11 of 100 favor the treatment of the Axis nations after the war. The attitude toward the war on delinquent nations. The police power, and declarations of favoring the control of commerce, agreed completely on the powers per cent. And they by only one and a half showed that 79 percent of those would favor the establishment of a peace treaty by the direction of the United Nations. On the other hand, 45 percent of the people, according to Carlton J. Rohrer, '45, would favor a peace treaty which bears to one of the words 'peace' or 'covenant.'

The sample questions for the examination, which is to be given to all sophomores in V-1, are much similar to the examination which is to be given to all freshmen in V-1 this year. A question is to be read from the list of Class B activities. The answer of the Institute is to be discussed by the Navy V-14 examination given for the class of the Naval Reserve. Although the examina- tions have previously been three hours each, the last one was shortened from three to two hours. All men regardless of college course have been given the same examination, which the Navy V-14 examination given for the class of the Naval Reserve. After the examination, the Navy V-14 examination given for the class of the Naval Reserve.
THE CONSENSUS OF STUDENT OPINION

Outstripping congressional and perhaps State Department sentiment on the subject of an International Union of nations after the war, Technology students have decided to set up a forum for such a union of the world’s peoples, as evidenced by the results of a Tech poll conducted recently. It is, however, painfully obvious that many of the people who shape this country’s foreign policy are in no way enthusiastic about the students. A major source of apprehension for these men is the Red bugbear, but in this instance, too, Institute undergraduates declared, in a two to one ratio that Russia will cooperate in maintaining post-war peace.

In this respect it is interesting to note that the students do not stand alone in their view. Our government has also decided to deal with the Russians as if these Russians actually will live on this planet after the war. Washington, (the syndicalist dog of Wash- ington is frankly a joke under cover) on the other hand, has been too busy to consider the place Russia is to occupy in the coming scheme of things. Anthony Eden’s visit to the United States had as its main objectives the ludicrous task of informing the Congress and the Senate of the fact that the Federal Emergency Public Works Board had accomplished the wonderful success of not accomplishing anything.
