AN EDITOR'S LAMENT

PROFS can sit cross-legged on the top of a desk; dean's first list students are on guard; student body presidents can fraternize with the masses.

Only an editor is required to be pontifical always.

Only an editor is supposed to know everything that happens. No one else can do anything about it. Nobody ever tells him anything; only an editor is supposed to keep an open mind always, and at the same time make snap decisions. Of course, only an editor is required to keep his nose out of politics, meanwhile keeping tab on the strength of each separate lineup.

PROFS have their apple-polishers; ask questions after classes; discuss the latest quarterly reports; student body presidents hear quarterly reports; student body presidents hear complaints in SSB meetings.

Only an editor has to guess.

Only an editor has to grope along, trying to put out as much student body who will talk or be found out who will talk, who will never tell him what they like or don't like, who will squawk audibly only when they are mortally and irremediably wrong. He alone can say what he says, knowing it will be said.

PROFS have the satisfaction of seeing their teaching put into practice; dean's list students are an inspiration to their seniors; student body presidents can point with pride at year end to long rows of achievements.

Only an editor never accomplishes anything.

Only an editor has to endure the spectacle of 199 of his 606 students, who have already completely written and turned in on their own, on the way to a semester's work, and to which the paper for the next class has been mailed, getting immediately on receipt of the paper to the Finger of Score, ignoring everything else in the store; to find the layouts on which he and his assistants have labored months, being completely reworked for any editor in heaven who can feel his editorial campaigns which he has planned for months, which are his only method of criticism of his school and of society, and which are his only method of criticism of his school and of society.

PROFS get to sit on the stage; dean's list students don't have to attend class; student body presidents get to introduce visitors.

Only an editor is damnfool enough not to want to trade places with any of them.

And, when all's said and done, only an editor has the satisfaction of knowing that there is a guy who can write down letters in which one can never be anything but pleased; of feeling something in a way which must have immediate and lasting effect; of knowing that, if he knew how to use it, he has the whole state, his state, for his audience; of seeing that he is doing a job for the students, or no one else could do it in quite the same way; and last but not least, he is one of a staff that he loves, which he has been forced to abuse, them, above all, deny them any reward for their work, will be driven back for more by pure love of literary effort. Only an editor would gripe about it.

Pictorial Exhibit Illustrates How Paratroopers Train And Fight

Now on exhibit in the lobby of the Student Union is a twenty-four picture exhibit, illustrating the training and hardships which a soldier must undergo in order to become a full-fledged member of the parachute regiment. The pictures, which are entitled "Parachute Training," were taken through the courtesy of the British Information Service and are among the best available. The photography and artistry of the pictures are excellent.

Paratroopers are beginning the parachute jumps, all volunteers, undergo a thorough training on the steps of this new form of warfare. With a parachute, they have to fall small heights and learn to jump from a height, in order to land safely. Next, try jumping from a height, then actual heights. As paratroopers become familiar with the conditions of parachute jumping, they are dropped over ground by a high wind before the soldier has time to release his parachute. Luftwaffe Free Jump

When the student has completed this preliminary training he experiences his first "true" jump with an instructor attached to him. The jump is made free from an altitude of 2,000 feet above the cliff. The student is then instructed in the parachute and "jumping".

Method of Attack

Together with other students and other members of the regiment, this man has just been sent up in a "chute, attached by an untrained man who is to be parachuted in. The instructor gives the machine all the necessary information for the student jumps from a fast moving aircraft."
So Far Phi Gam's Are In Second Place And Will Hold Third Night although the finals in the soft- ball tourney have yet to be com- pleted, Alpha Kappa Psi, having amassed sufficient points to clinch the big trophy for the organ- ization, is currently in second place. W.F.D. Gamma Delta, immediately behind, has not completed its tourney. Beta Chi is third, with Alpha Xi Delta, Gamma Chi, and Pi Chi Delta completing the list.

The contest also in possibly the form of an intramural competition was considered for tennis and volleyball as well as for other organizations at present.

Win Over Brown Ming Lee Comes From Behind To Triumph

Last Saturday at Providence the Beefers were defeated by the Brown University team by the score of 6-4. The Beefers' on this occasion were between Ming Lee of Tech and Murdo of the opponents, in which Murdo and Lee met at point several times, but finally lost by the scores of 64, 64, 7. ’Tommy’ Kopp, the half-back, was selected as the starting man for the second match and went on to win the double matches. The entire match lasted from 2:30 to 7:00 P.M.

The Beefers finished their season with a record of three wins against two defeats. The final match was brought to a close, scheduled against Tufts on April 30, while in the second the team lost to W.P.I. at Worcester in a high wind by a score of 43. Two victories followed the slow start, the first against M.I.T., 6-4, and the second a convincing 9 point victory against Rhode Island State for last year's record. The game was won by a score of 72. The Beavers then went on to win against Harvard 94 but came back with their victory against Brown last Saturday.

Oscar Relates Story Of Track At Tech During Last Decade

By Oscar Holland, Coach of Track

Last Saturday in New York the Beefers were a point ahead. Again in 1941, the broad jump was the deci- sive event, the 110 yard hurdles and the discus the decisive events. In the broad jump the Beefers turned in a burst of 10-01, giving them a victory and defeating Tech by 1 point.

Tech lost the meet at Brown when the squad lost its last sprinter because of a pull and he was unable to start in the 100 and 220 yard events.

A pair of sprint and double events would have provided the margin of victory for the Cardinal and Gray team. The last two years the Beefers have had runaways because of their balance in all events and the large numbers out for the sport. The season of 1946 was one of trouble, trying to get meets because of the discom- fortable trail of track in so many schools, but by making triangular meets the schedule was arranged. The season was so successful with victories over Brown and Holy Cross in the first, and Tufts and Boston College in the last, both by a substantial margin.
