Fido Outsmarts Phos

Hearing that Phos was planning to invade Wellesley last week, Fido let out a big growl and scooted out of The Tech office in a cloud of dust last Friday.

Accompanying him was a larger part of the Tech staff in response to a gracious invitation tendered by the staff of the Wellesley News. Fido was soon left to his own resources as newspaper work was forgotten to soft lights and music, refreshments, and girls.

Members of the drama staff straggled into Boston at various hours and through devious means on Saturday morning, mumbling Fido returned the next day, with starry eyes and a very jubilant expression.

Students, faculty members, and all others connected with Technology are urged to continue their fine record by joining in the Drive if they have not already done so, by remembering the necessity for blood plasma by our fighting men, and contributing as often as possible.

FIT TO RULE

There has been an increasing lack of interest and knowledge on the part of several members of the Institute Committee in the simple proceedings of that committee.

The men elected to the Institute Committee are expected to take the initiative in displaying interest in the activities of the student government. There have been men, however, who have recently attended meetings with no knowledge whatsoever of the questions which were before the committee. These men then proceeded to take up the time of the committee by asking questions about subjects they should already be familiar with.

The agenda for the meeting of the Institute Committee is posted in the Lobby of the Walker Memorial early on the day of the meeting. This is to inform the members what business is to be discussed that afternoon. Yet some members have consistently ignored this fact, with the result that they come to meetings completely unprepared to take an intelligent part in the discussions.

Part of the blame for this lack of interest rests directly on the shoulders of the representatives themselves and some may be laid on the men who elected them. Many organizations find themselves being represented by men who either don’t seem to care to take any part in the business of student government or are unprepared for it. The Undergraduate Constitution, found in any copy of the T.C.A. Handbook, is a wonderful place for finding out how things are organized at the Institute.

Phi Gams Lead In Beaver Key Football Finals
Wood Dormitory Holds Second Place; Dekes Win One And Lose One
With winter rapidly approaching, the Beaver Key Football Tournament is being rushed, and will be finished within two weeks if the present schedule is held to. Many teams are led by some of the finalists seeing action. The results of this first portion of the play-offs, place Phi Gamma Delta in the lead, defeated in two games, and Wood Dormitory in second, with one win and no losses.

In last week-end's games, Phi Gamma Delta won by forfeit over Kappa Sigma, and went on from there, to defeat Delta Kappa Epsilon by a 19-0 score.

The Dekes also playing twice over the week-end, trounced S.A.E. by a 19-0 count in their other game. Their scores came on passes, and a punt return which Bill Cahill carried down the sideline for the touchdown. The scoring passes found Nesbitt pitching to Morgan and Wiehl.

Wood Dormitory, in their first play-off tilt, took the measure of a Kappa Sigma eleven by a 21-0 count. Their attack featured a strong running combination, but their scoring came on long passes.

Six Games to be Played
There are six more games to be played before the completion of the tournament. Two are scheduled for this coming week-end, as the Phi Gams will meet Wood, and S.A.E. will tackle Kappa Sigma. The other four games will be played the following Saturday and Sunday.
