... another in the series of bedroom pranks came to light recently. The father of one of the dorm residents must be in the lady's foundation trousers because the fellow has his room cluttered with revealing posters and window dressing. Maybe some night some friend got hold of one of the dorm and placed it at the head of the bed in a sleeping inmate, and returned to wait for the results. The trick went off to perfection, because at 6:00 a.m., when the fellow woke sleepily-eyed, the first thing he saw was this "woman" staring at him from the floor. the yep he let out awakened both her roommates, and dozens besides. It's a shame, though, that the lad admitted to the world in this rather unorthodox fashion that he is afraid of a mere woman.
