In the Spotlight

The band that patched the father's pants, interrupted the discussion. As a matter of fact, it was not thirty minutes until Grace O'Grady, having recently married, came from Lynn to open the session by telling the story of another newcomer to Cambridge, the Belona Management Institute. Ever since then, Charles Leary has been an institution at Technology.

Charles can always be found in his shop among the Stars, where his wife and his wife are generally seen in the background. While their son Mike is busy in the store, he can be seen huddled over a pile of newspapers filled with hundreds of articles of clothing, most of which belong to him. However, his most recent additions, from little Frenzel to Fresnel, are always seen in some clothes which must be sewn on by someone.

The business is run on the self-service system. The clothes are arranged alphabetically according to the name of the wearer. If you come in and pick up your own, you are instructed by the cashier's desk. Before Mike came along, the only thing that was wrong with the store was that the owner's name in the clothes, nor did he use tickets; his memory is terrible, and he would forget about the shirt, except that, once in a while, an owner would come in and leave a pair of pants that resembled his own. He would then be required to think that the pants had shrunk or were six sizes too small. Now that Mike is there, the owner's name is written inside the pants. Bill has apparently inherited the rule of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in this matter and those of the regular loyalty investigations has been almost indefatigable from the beginning of the store, which is a perfect witness to that.

The papers talk of the fear the Russians have spread over Eastern Europe, but how much must the stories of Communist-suppressed papers talk about the reign of fear the Russians have spread throughout the world? The very large number became known, unfortunately it was too late.

Fraternity Findings

The Diner is noted for its pastry section, especially the cheese omelet which has gained considerable fame. The atmosphere of the Diner is that of a typical eatery. Along the way, one can see the consistent face of the Russians. At the bottom of such things as bigger factors, the 8.04, we may find or how the business was before the 1941-46, which was the time when the two men ran the store, and liberated the clothing in time. By the way, Mike has spent three and a half years in the Pacific with the American Division, and received a Presidential Medal of Honor, and two bronze stars.

Last Tuesday afternoon, Charlie was proudly displaying a pack of Conme and said, "I spent three years in the Pacific, and I am 30 years of life with M.I.T. I am 30 and I am still enjoying it."
Swordsmen Lose First Match, 15-12

Crimson Strength In Saber Decides

The MIT fencers last Wednesday had their string of eight victories broken by Harvard, who were especially strong in the saber, by a score of 15-12.

This was the first loss for the Techmen in three matches this year, and they appeared headed for their fourth straight victory going into the saber event against Harvard, after taking 5-4 victories in both the foil and the epee. However, the Crimson took seven saber bouts to two for the MIT team and eliminated the match in the last bout.

One bright spot in the loss was the outstanding performance of the good work of Mario Abate, who again took six points out of three with the saber, repeating his performances in the other two matches this year.

Public Relations Comm. Publicizes Technology Events

The Public Relations Committee, under the chairmanship of Kenneth B. Brock, 46, is the agency responsible for publicity of Technology undergraduate activities in the outside world.

The committee is composed of five major divisions: Sports, Homecoming, Special, Photography, and Secretariat, each of which is responsible for one phase of the committee's activities. At present weแทน

Publicity in the Boston papers, Field Day, Techagogo, and the Junior Prom was engineered by the committee. Publicity plans for the Tech show and Open House are probably in the committee's agenda.

Another important activity of the Public Relations committee is personal publicity of students in their home-town papers. Every week requests are sent to about 50 papers, and this number is getting larger all the time. Notices are sent when a person is elected to a class office or so office in a class-activity, or doing other similar achievements.

Relay Team Hit
By Injury In N.Y.

Last Saturday night at Madison Square Garden the Tech mile relay team had the misfortune of having its leading man injured and was thus unable to finish its race in the New York Knights of Columbus meet.

The team was matched against a fast set of Georgetown, Villanova and Rhode Island State. Tech had previously beaten Georgetown and the men were looking for another win. But on the first turn the Villa-Nova and Rhode Island man tumbled and Tech's Al Del Biala fell over the Rhode Island man. He injured his elbow in the spill and was unable to move his arm for half an hour.

Third Dean's List

Officially Abolished

Information received from Dean Everett M. Baker's office this week brought to light the fact that the Third Dean's List, honoring students within the 3.50 to 3.99 grade range, has been officially discontinued. The First and Second Dean's Lists, containing the names of those students with term ratings of from 4.50 to 4.99 and from 4.50 to 4.99 respectively, will be released as usual some time around April 1.

No reason was given for the discontinuance of the lower honors, other than that they have been of little use in recent years and although compiled expeditiously, they have not been released with the First and Second Lists for some
