Dramashow Offers "Beautiful People" Friday, Saturday

The Dramashow will offer William Shakespeare's play, "The Beautiful People," next Friday and Saturday nights at the Peabody Playhouse. Tickets are being sold for $1.00 each for unreserved seats. The performances will begin at 8:00 p.m.

The "Beautiful People" tells the story of a good-for-nothing son of a good-for-nothing father (played by John Philip, 690, his sister Agnes (played by Peggy Irish), who looks for the general welfare of the house and herself, their father, a philosophical chap, represented by William Miller, '51. The family's income is derived from the pension checks which are still being paid to his deceased previous owner of the house. What happens when the second son of the family (Stanley R. Sydney '52) returns from the big city to the countryside? A typical example of his writings' about naive, innocent people - beautiful people.

THE FRATERNITIES' POSITION

Last week we commented on the role fraternities have been playing in college politics. We pointed out that political unification, membership in a fraternity is a must for any participation in college politics but when a group becomes a recognized fraternity, one is known as a draftee. Since there were so many fraternities, the two or three student groups had a place in the Unification Party, but the only unification candidate was defeated by an inferior one merely because he was not a member of a fraternity. The evil arises when a superior group politicking behind the scenes within the party, and the evil is that the student group is capable of doing a better job. Now, what is the situation when it comes to school politics?

Boston Backseeders

On April 21, Boston will be treated to the solemn seepectacle of the Phi Kappa Psi and the Oneida, while the Phi Kappa Psi and the Oneida, while not in their present form, are the traditions which one could associate with in the company we visited. Last week I saw a degenerating and degreasing of the Oneida and the Phi Kappa Psi, the comerr, on the company's performance could hardly be printed. To your like brave souls are cool, without these two articles, and most you want that you can anticipate too much. Their performances are made up of the old worn routines of Bean Leaf "Gable Parrot" ("Coppola," et al which is accompanied by an interest and skill which one individuals in Boston and the Howard chorus lives.

This week Dr. Krousevitz of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will return from their last New York tour to play the next but last in a series of their concert series. This program will include two Wagner symphonies and Brahms' Fourth Symphony. Also this Sunday, the Boston Landmarks will give their concert in Astor Hall. Which will be given on last but one day from last week but the concert is to be played.

Season Opens Against Boston College Today

Getting ready for their first meet against B.C. at Briggs Field today, and their extensive 40 schedule, the varsity tennis team has been practicing hard for the past several weeks.

Because of the graduation of much of last year's team, the prospects for this year seemed rather dim at first. Only two men were left of the six who played singles last year: Chuck Miller, this year's captain, and Sam Roberts.

Last year's freshman team, which won all but one of its matches in '48, provided the team with so much outstanding material that the outlook for this spring has brightened considerably. Spearheaded by Jerry Misonvall, winner of last fall's M.L.Y. Open Tournament, sophomore Drucker, Nye, Crocker, Auten and Cancz, and others, all rate high on the ladder which determines team positions. All these, plus Hans Eckardt, Jack Bent, and others, make up a unit which is strong enough, all the way down to the upper six in star line-up against such opponents as Brown, Dartmouth and Harvard.

The week's play will begin every day from three to six on the Weston courts.

In order to insure adequate practice for the team, courts one through four will be reserved for varsity players during those hours.
