Unique, Pleasant English-History Library Opens: Students Criticize Locked Door, Layout"n

By ROBERT LEDBETTER

The famous English, History, and Philosophy Library has been completely remodeled, lighted, individually studied cubicles and air conditioned to a temperature calibrated to be particularly comfortable.

Walker Library opened last week at the north wing of the Charles Hayden Memorial Library. Pleasant as well as functional, the new arrangement of detailed facts and learning will be appreciated by students.

Students have complained that the library is closed on weekends and that the main building is inordinately level.

Students generally agree, however, that the seventeen two-feet wide, three-feet individual study cubicles is a blessing to those who need to concentrate mentally.

In another effort to cut down distracting noises in the library, a window is to be used for borrowing and returning reserve books was installed, opening the counter. Other innovations are all wood, oak, maple furniture, steel filing, and a mahogany librarian's counter with a plated bed, alcohol and women's-proper look.

Pistoleers Win First Matches

The 'Tech's '49-'50 pistol season is off to a successful start. After several weeks of practice the engineers have won their first two matches. The Pistoleers have seven of last year's varsity back this year along with several newcomers who have displayed great natural ability. One record has already been broken in practice. Winton Markey fired 99 slow fire, which is four points above the old record held by George Dickson and Captain Francis Von Muller. The freshman team is one of the best M.I.T. has ever had and expects to win at least as many matches as the varsity.

For the first time M.I.T. has entered the Greater Boston Pistol League, which has some of the best shooters in the Metropolitan area. In the first match held this season, the varsity won their first two matches.

Beavers To Face Harvard Pucksters

Saturday night will see the Terriers host Harvard University's varsity against the opposite sister from the opposite shore of the Charles River. This season's contest will take place at the Harvard Arena as one of the opening games of the T.P. weekend.

Riflemen To Fire Against Crimson

For the third consecutive season M.I.T. will play host to the Harvard varsity and freshman rifle teams on the Tech's-A-Poppin' weekend. The Tech teams, which have made a clean sweep of the series so far, are given a slight edge on Saturday.

This varsity match, which begins at 1:30 P.M., will be Harvard's first of the season. The Riflemen will be allowing for their second victory, having defeated Boston University 1964 to 1079 in their first match.

Both freshman teams will be taking their first intercollegiate competition. The Crimson have received a talented turnout this year, and are predicting a good year for the Terriers. The freshman match will begin at 9 A.M.
