

Draft jitters seem to be plaguing many of the nation's colleges as they report large withdrawals of students who wish to enlist in a branch of the service of their own choosing. Institute registration officials believe the number of enlistments from Technology is not large.

Meanwhile, the Association of American Colleges at a meeting last Wednesday included in a ten point program on manpower the recommendation that students be assured of a choice of service branch regardless of any action by selective service. The Association also urged that undergraduates who complete two years of study by July, 1951, be granted deferment until they earn their degrees.

Contract Feeding Will Be Required For Class Of '55

By WILLIAM ECKLES

Compulsory contract feeding for the freshmen of next year was announced on the student forum on contract feeding last Wednesday night over station WMIT. The main part of the discussion, however, concerned the present plan of contract feeding for East Campus residents, which has been vehemently tossed around this past week.

The Advisory Committee on Dining and Housing, in conjunction with the Dean's Office and the Medical Department, has instituted the plan for required freshman participation in contract feeding next year because they feel that this will give a freshman a better start in Institute life for two reasons. First, the student will be served meals which are high in food value and properly varied for good diet. Secondly, it will make it impossible for the student to cut into his food budget to provide for some other thing, which often happens now. For example, many times to pay for social life a student skimps on meals, jeopardizing his health in general. All in all, the Committee feels that the plan will assure good feeding of students to the parents of these students.

The basic intent of the forum, however, was not to bring out this freshman feeding plan but rather to discuss the present plan, in an attempt to iron out difficulties which now exist. Representing the administration were Mr. Frank M. Baldwin, dining director, and Mr. Pasquale Saccone, executive chef. The students were: Bennet Sack '53, Donald A. Schlatter '51, David S. Michelson '53, and Martin Ehrlich '54. The panel of students

Job Interviews Lack Students, Says Placement Bureau Urges Students To Arrange For Jobs Despite Threat of Draft

Bureau Urges Students To Arrange For Jobs Despite Threat of Draft

Interviewers coming here to meet graduates of the Class of 1951 are getting too few men on their schedules, according to officials of the Student Placement Bureau. The Bureau reports that it has been forced to cancel the visits of several companies slated to send representatives to the Institute because of an apparent lack of interest by the students.

The uncertainties of the draft have deterred many students from taking full advantage of its services the Bureau feels. Companies would not send representatives to the Institute, say placement officials, if they did not believe that they will be permitted to keep at least some of the technically trained men to whom they make offers and hire. Many company representatives have said that they definitely will re-employ anyone who may be drafted and given military leave. The current demand for technically trained men far exceeds the supply. Realizing this, industry is apparently taking steps to make sure that a reasonable number of such men stay on the job. Knowing that this is the only way that the nation's defense preparation can be adequately carried out.

Men Urged to Sign Now

Professor C. E. Tucker, Student Placement Officer, warns that students must realize that now, and throughout the spring term, is their opportunity to talk to representatives of industry.

"Trying to locate employment after a tour of duty with the armed forces," stated Professor Tucker, "will prove to be both costly and time consuming when it need not be. Even though our current graduates do not take employment but enter a branch of the armed forces

Spell of "Black Magic" Invades Walker Feb. 25 At Frosh, Soph Dance

Inst. Comm. Okays Balfour To Handle '52 Senior Rings

Institute Committee, in its meeting last Wednesday, approved the contract drawn up by the Senior Ring Committee of the Class of 1952 and the L. G. Belfour Company. The as yet unsigned contract specifies all particulars in regard to the rings.

An instance of the particularization is the following, from Section 2 of the contract:

"All rings will be made from plump, that is, full 10K or 14K gold. 14K shall not be less than 584/1000ths of fine gold and 10K shall not be less than 417/1000ths of fine gold. The gold will be from a first melt. Rings will be marked for quality according to the United States Stamping Act and Commercial Standard CS67-38."

Rings to be Tested

The contract goes on to specify delivery date, provisions for testing the rings by the Metallurgy Department, and the prices of the rings. Prices range from $24.10 for a large or 12½ diamondweight 14K ring to $5.00 for a miniature of

ESSAY CONTEST

Lecture Series Committee has announced that it will continue its series of movies next term. "Pygmalion" and "The Lady Vanishes" have already been chosen for showing and the rest of the program will be chosen for the results of a poll which the L.S.C. plans to conduct soon to determine which films would be preferred.

"Black Magic," major dance of the year for both Freshman and Sophomore classes, will be held in Morss Hall on Saturday, February 24. Although, ordinarily each class would have held its own dance, an unusually crowded social schedule limited the use of Morss Hall to the extent that it was found necessary to hold a single combined dance.

Music for the dance will be provided by George Graham and his augmented orchestra who recently played at the Dormitory Christmas Formal. Dancing will begin at eight and continue until midnight. Special entertainment of a "different kind" has been promised by the Entertainment Committee for the intermission. Plentiful refreshments will be provided.

Fluorescent decorations lit by ultra violet light will adorn Morss Hall in a manner in keeping with the Black Magic theme.

"It" Held in '49

Joint class sponsorship of a dance is not a new idea having been preceded by a similar affair, "It", given by the classes of '51 and '52. The committee, however, wishes to make it absolutely clear that the dance is open to all members of the Institute family.

If any member of either class is interested in working on the dance, he should get information from his section leader, or get in touch with George Fuld in Baker House or Larry Holms in East Campus.

General Chairman of the dance is Sidney W. Hess '53. Other chairmen are: Charles M. Kaplan '53, Date Bureau; George J. Fuld '53, Publicity; George D. Stevenson '53, Tickets; Coleman Bresee '54, Band; Robert B. Ledbetter '53, Chaperones; and F. Lawrence Holmes '54, Decorations.

Compton, Five Faculty Members Petition Truman For Federation

Twenty-five citizens of metropolitan Boston, including six from Technology, recently sent an open letter to President Truman asking him to take action on the formation of an Atlantic Union.

Among those signing the letter were: Dr. Karl T. Compton, Chairman of the Corporation; Joseph H. Keenan, Department of Mechanical Engineering; Thomas H. D. Mahoney, Department of English and History; Norman N. Padelford and Joseph Scanlon, Department of Economics; and Walter G. Whitman, head of the Department of Chemical Engineering.

Bold Action Asked

Portions of the text of the letter, as it was sent to Mr. Truman, follow:

"The nation you lead is stronger

today both in body and in spirit than at any other time in its history. Despite surface quarrels, its people are being united in their response to the present crisis. Our cause is just, our morale is firm, and we are ready to do our job. But we face a hostile coalition of immense size and power and we can meet it effectively only by uniting with the forces of democracy abroad.

"If the threat of tyranny is to be held in check, we must act boldly to give the friends of freedom everywhere faith in the right and in their future and ours. We have allies—the people who believe as we do in the rights and dignity of the individual. They need our help if they are to stand firm. Equally we need their help if the burden of preserving freedom is not to become too heavy to carry. Alliances are not enough. We need union. We need to assert confidently that freedom is indivisible.

Western Unity Needed

"We have gone far to unite the free peoples of the world. We have the North Atlantic Treaty and through it the organization now being formed for the common defense of the Atlantic community. Yet we still find ourselves divided at some critical points. Since the free nations have displayed a lack of harmony with regard to the Far East, the need for unity in the West is even greater. The survival of freedom requires the free world to find the means to act as a unit on the vital issues that face it.

"We urge you to take the lead in calling into being the Atlantic Union already proposed in the Congress. . . ."

Architect Belluschi Arrives This Week

Architect Pietro Belluschi is coming to Cambridge this week to take up his duties as new Dean of Architecture at the Institute. Mr. Belluschi was appointed to this post by President Killian and will take over as head of the School of Architecture next week.

The new dean is coming from Chicago where he acted as a member of the jury of an Architectural competition. He will be officially welcomed into the Academic Council when it convenes next week, and will meet his department's student and faculty body at a convocation to be held at the beginning of next term.

Dean Belluschi will replace Dean W. W. Wurster, who retired from the position last May.

Voelcker, Institute's Champion Rifleman, Paces Triumphant Team For Third Year

By ED EIGEL

Three and a half years ago, a very determined freshman here at the Institute tried out for the Rifle Team. When Master Sergeant James Brahe, who, then as now, was coach of the team, saw him shoot, he almost cut Herb Voelcker from the squad immediately. As a marksman, Herb was far from brilliant.

There was one characteristic, however, that set Herb off from the rest of the try-outs, and this was his unusual interest and enthusiasm. Because of this trait alone, he made the freshman team. By the end of the season he was not only able to outshoot anyone on the varsity, but had led the frosh to the National Freshmen Collegiate Championship.

Began as Freshman

Thus was started the career of the best rifleman the Institute has ever produced. Before he came to school here, Herb had never shot at a match target in his life. A little pheasant hunting had been the extent of his experience with a rifle. He thought that he would like the rifle team, however, and tried out. The rest is history.

After his phenomenal rise in his freshman year, Herb joined the varsity as a sophomore. Despite the fact that one of his teammates was named on the All-American

Collegiate Rifle Team, Herb, on the basis of match scores, was top man on the team that year.

Leads League as Junior

As a junior, however, Herb had his biggest season. He was first in the New England Collegiate Rifle League, which included some two hundred of the best riflemen in the area. He led his team to the championship in the league match, and the next week paced the team to first place in the Metropolitan Open meet, in which thirty-six colleges participated. This was no small victory when it is realized that both the Military and Naval Academies shot in the match.

Herb's biggest victory last year was yet to come, however. In the National Intercollegiate Individual Rifle Meet, he not only took first place, but broke the all-time collegiate record of 290/300, setting a new mark of 293/300.

Once again this year, Herb, now a senior and captain of the team, is leading the team. He has the top average on the team for shoulder-to-shoulder matches, and is currently leading the Massachusetts Small Rifle League. He also tied his national record of 293/300 when shooting against the Coast Guard Academy this year.

Basketeers To Meet St. Anselm's Friday

Friday evening the Technology basketball team will meet a strong St. Anselm's squad in Walker Memorial. The game will follow a J.V. contest which starts at 6:30.

The Tech basketeers have a .500 record so far this season, having beaten Boston University, Coast Guard, and Northeastern and lost to Harvard, Trinity, and Stevens. All of the Beaver's three losses have been on strange courts. It will be difficult to keep this record on their home court against a powerful St. Anselm's five.

Next Tuesday the Beaver quintet will meet Trinity again in the Boston Garden at 7:00 P.M. The game will be the first half of a double-header which features Holy Cross and Rhode Island State in the final contest.

Indoor Track Team Opens Against Unbeaten Harvard

By GIL STEINBERG

The Technology Indoor track team will open its 1951 season tomorrow afternoon in a meet with Harvard. The renewal of an old rivalry after a decade in which the two teams did not meet finds the Crimson fielding their best team in years undefeated so far while the Beaver runners are in the process of rebuilding having lost their top man in almost every event. Included in this group are Al Dell Isola, captain and dash man last year, and Jack Adams, weight star. Between them the pair averaged twenty-five points a meet last year.

Crimson Stars

For the Crimson, Sophomore Bob Mello and Senior Dick Barwise will both be pushing records. Mello cleared 13 feet in the pole vault, in their opening meet against Boston University and Northeastern, but twisted an ankle against Tufts and failed to place. Barwise already holds the Harvard record for the high jump, having cleared 6' 3 1/2" in his opening effort.

The most attractive event of the meet should be the 600-yard run, which matches Captain Ed Olney and George Grenier of Tech against Harvard ace Ronnie Berman. Olney and Berman have both consistently broken 1:16 for the run, while Grenier set a new school Freshman record last year.

In the mile, Dave Cairns of the Crimson, who turned in a 4:26.7

in beating Boston University ace Dick Fitzgerald, will give Bill Nicholson of the Engineers a stiff test. Nicholson is dropping to the mile after confining himself to the two mile last year.

Techmen Weak in Field Events

In the field events, where field coach Arne Arneson lost Adams, high jumper Roy Roth, and pole vaulter Norm Jones, the Beavers are also rebuilding. Don Brown should be the best of the weight group while George Thompson and Dick Mascola are back in the pole vault. Francis McKee is the only holdover in the broad jump, while Thompson and sophomore Dave Freeman are the most likely scorers in the high jump. The big weakness in the field squad is the lack of a consistent first place man. Adams filled the requirement last year but the Freshman squad failed to supply a replacement.

After the Harvard meet the emphasis will shift to the relay teams, which will run in four of the big indoor meets coming up in the next month. The next dual meet will be against Northeastern, Feb. 17. Although the team is weaker than last year, it should improve through the season.

Fresh Good

The Beaver Frosh, with the best squad the Freshmen have had in four years, should compile an impressive record.

BEAVER BARKS

By GIL STEINBERG

Last term there was quite a bit of comment on the subject of an Institute football team. The whole controversy seems to have died an unnatural death, thanks to the Institute Committee.

Last March, Henry Sharp '50, with the consent of Inst Comm conducted a poll of student interest in a football team. The results of the poll showed definite student interest in a team and were given to Inst Comm in May. A motion was made to further investigate the matter, but was tabled until the following term. In November it was again discussed and defeated.

In other words, the Institute Committee, which supposedly represents the student body, defeated a motion to investigate a matter which most undergraduates were decidedly interested in.

Although the pollsters only questioned 142 men, the students represent a cross section of Institute life. The poll was set up with the advice of the Economics Department here at Tech which promised almost 95% accuracy. The results of the poll were definitely favorable. Sixty-five percent of those questioned said that they would attend most of the home games. Only 6% said they would not attend any games at all. Anyone who wishes to check these figures or any others connected with the poll can exhume the results from the lower depths of Inst Comm's dead and forgotten subject file.

Before we go any further let it be understood that we are not trying to argue the case for or against football. A lot can be said on both sides of the question. We are merely trying to get across the bare fact that the Institute Committee acted in a manner contrary to not only student opinion but contrary to any ethical procedure besides that of the Politburo.

It is a sorry day for the Institute when any student committee thinks it is bigger than the undergraduates it represents.

Whether or not you agree to a football team, let's put the pressure on Inst Comm and bring the subject into the open. This page is open at all times to comments pro and con on the subject.

Preparedness is the order of the day.

Undefeated Rifle Team To Fire Between Terms

Technology's undefeated and record-breaking rifle team will have two more matches before the term ends. Their opponents will be Worcester and Dartmouth. Both matches will be held Saturday, January 20, at the Beaver range. The Engineer team which is one of the best ones ever turned out at Tech, does not anticipate too much trouble from these teams, and a J. V. team will probably be fired in order to enable them to win their letters.

After the end of finals the rifle team will take to the road to fire shoulder to shoulder matches.

If the team can keep up their fine scores they should return undefeated.

Activities Ball May Be Killed By Inst. Comm.

This year's Activities Ball became an improbability Wednesday as motion for approval of a proposed budget and method of financing the dance was defeated in Institute Committee. Although it was established as a means of specially honoring the leaders of the Institute's activities the opinion expressed by some in the debate was that this effect has not been achieved and that last year anyone who wished to attend was able to do so.

Criticism was also directed at the method of financing the Ball by assessing the activities. It was pointed out that in many instances this resulted in the activities' leaders paying the costs themselves by reimbursing their activity treasurers the amount of assessment.

Although the proposed budget called for $660, discussion indicated that the Ball could be held on a budget of $500. Finance Committee reported that $100 remained from last year's ball. If a source of $400 can be found it is probable that the Ball will be held but otherwise its prospects were viewed as poor. Since $900 of Inst Comm's $1000 of unallocated funds will be required to cover class and activity debts (Inst Comm has already written off $500 and plans to write off $700 more of the debt of the Class of '51) this source is not available.

Robert Bacastow '52 was seated on Inst Comm as the officers of The Tech for 1951 were approved. Charles M. Kaplan '53 was also seated to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Edward C. Levy, Jr., who was representative for Class of '53. Kaplan was elected to complete the term at a meeting of the Soph Council on Tuesday.

asked many questions of the administration representatives in order to clarify many of the questioned points of contract feeding. Mr. Baldwin, along with Mr. Saccone, tried to answer all the questions to give the students listening a good perspective of the whole plan. Everything from late meals to food quality at Walker was taken up, prodded by telephone questions from listeners.

Because the first poll of East Campus students was not conclusive, only half voted, another poll will be taken in the near future, in order to find the feeling of the student body after the plan has been clarified.

Dorm Comm Leaders Stress House Unity As Gov't Reorganizes

As a part of the planned series of social events put on by the House Committees of Dormitory Committee, East Campus held a dance on January 5. Although the dance was not advertised to any large extent, twenty-eight couples attended. Similar affairs have been staged by the house committees of Baker House. These parties and dances, the first result of the new smaller committees, will, in the opinion of Donald Schlatter '51, Chairman of Dormitory Committee, help to establish individual house unity and raise spirit and morale.

As a result of the recent reorganization of the Dormitory Committee, the government of the Dormitories has been divided into three committees: East Campus, Baker House, and Riverside. Hall Chairmen, specially elected representatives, and resident Dormitory Committee members make up each committee. House officers are elected from this group.

These committees meet once weekly and submit copies of their minutes and budgets to Dorm Committees which will act as a coordinating committee between the houses. Each house committee is allowed approximately two dollars per resident student per semester for expenses. From this fund comes money for dances, athletic equipment, record players, and television sets.

Institute Employees Choose To Receive New Social Security

Ninety-five percent of the Institute's more than 2,000 employees in faculty and other positions voted to join the federal social security program, effective January 1, 1951.

The chance to become part of the Social Security system became possible in August, 1950, when Congress opened the Social Security Act to educational and other non-profit institutions.

President James R. Killian, Jr., Joseph J. Snyder, treasurer of the Institute, and a consulting actuary spoke to members of the faculty outlining the benefits of the program at a meeting in December. A similar meeting was held for the secretaries and service employees. Following the meetings a vote was taken; a two-thirds majority of full-time employees was needed in order to join the program.

Enrollment in the plan will mean one and a half percent deductions regularly from employees' pay checks. The Institute will match this deduction with the same amount. In future years the deduction will increase to two percent and eventually three and a half percent.

Rings are to be "entirely wrought, that is, die struck from rolled sheet metal, not cast or partly cast." Particular attention is to be paid to the brasing of joints and hand chasing.

The success of Herb Voelcker parallels the success of the M.I.T. Rifle Team. It has been developed by Coach Brahe until now it might reach even higher levels than those attained last year. It has depth and experience—and Herb Voelcker.
