Technology Shells Beat Rutgers; Diamondmen Split Two Games

Last Saturday saw Tech varsity and lightweight women's oarsmen finish the season without a loss in competition. The varsity eight won by a length and the lightweight crew by more than two lengths.

The varsity eight won by a length and a quarter over a Rutgers shell that was stronger than was anticipated, while the lightweight won handily by eleven lengths.

In the varsity event, Rutgers jumped off to a two-seat lead at the start, but as the Tech men settled down to a 23-beat, at which they possessed the body of the race. That was the last time Rutgers would see a lead, and a small one at that.

Tech's lighter weight now took over and by the two-minute mark the heavyweights began to make up before the half-mile mark. The lighter weight led by a second for the remaining mile, and the final score was 6-2.

"Tech's weight is the only shell that can beat Rutgers," said one of Tech's varsity men. "We were just stronger than they were in the water and took advantage of that."

The third proposal pertains to new and organized dining facilities. The Committee proposes that a snack bar be provided in River- side, accommodate approximately seventy-five and operating between 11 a.m. and midnight seven days a week. This proposal was a compromise, since the cost, $300,000, of setting up a complete dining hall is far beyond the means of the Institute at the present time.
