Interested in starting statistics? Here are the little known facts about how to do it.

Statistics is a field of study that deals with the collection, analysis, interpretation, and presentation of data. It is used in a wide range of fields, from business and economics to medicine and social sciences. Statistics helps us make sense of the world through data, and it is crucial for making informed decisions and predictions.

In this article, we will explore the basics of statistics, including the different types of data, statistical measures, and common statistical techniques.

collection of data: The first step in statistics is to collect data. This can be done through surveys, experiments, or observations. The data can be quantitative (numbers) or qualitative (descriptions).

Descriptive statistics: Descriptive statistics summarize and describe the features of a dataset. Common measures include mean, median, mode, and standard deviation.

Inferential statistics: Inferential statistics involve making inferences about a population based on a sample. Common techniques include hypothesis testing, confidence intervals, and regression analysis.

Choosing the right statistical technique depends on the nature of the data and the research question. For example, if you want to compare the means of two groups, you might use a t-test. If you want to predict a outcome based on one or more variables, you might use regression analysis.

Statistics is a powerful tool that can be used to make sense of data and draw meaningful conclusions. However, it is important to be aware of the limitations of statistics, such as the need for large sample sizes and the potential for bias.

In conclusion, statistics is an essential tool for understanding data and making informed decisions. By learning the basics of statistics, you can make sense of the world around you and use data to support your arguments and conclusions.

Beaver Basketball Opens with Harvard

An opening game with Harvard will again open the beavers of the Tech varsity basketball schedule. The schedule lists fifteen games, including New Hampshire, Babson, Providence, and Brandeis as newcomers to the slate.

The schedule: Dec. 1, Babson; Dec. 2, Providence; Dec. 3, Brandeis; Dec. 6, Stevens Tech.

Beaver soccermen edged by Huskies for Sixth Seaboard

Technology's soccer team went down, the score 3-2, to the hands of a strong University of Connecticut team by a score of 3-0 last Saturday.

The game was played at Tech's big Briggs Field which hampered the Engineers' footwork and favored Connecticut's quick style of play. Connecticut drew first blood in the first period and scored once more in the first half and also scored before halftime. They have resulted in goals. Beaver Ricardo Balue was the offensive star at left halfback.

On November tenth Coach Frank Paret will hold his charges against the New England with a try for the elusive second victory.

Institute Harriers Among Three
Contenders For New England Crown

Three teams, Boston University, Providence College, and Technology, will rank as co-favorites on Monday afternoon with the running of the 9th New England Intercolligiate Cross Country championships.

Four years ago Pelham at Worcester led the Tech teams in the race at Maine, and this year the eastern states have entered teams in the race, which features some of the best runners since Bob Black and his Rhode Island State quintet.

Boston University, led by sophomore star John Kelley of New London, Connecticut, who has rolled up a record of five wins this season, is being backed to win the meet as a slight favorite over the Beavers and the Friars. Kelley's only defeat thus far this season came when he lost his way in a triangular meet at Providence. He has never been leading the field by a hundred yards most of the way. The mistake cost the Terriers their only loss of the season.

Defending champion Brown started out the season as a trouble on losing, balanced squad. Vickers and Steph explosive North Fairbanks have been running with Nicholas most of the year in their dual meets.

Two teams, Maine, Rhode Island State, Univ. of Mass., and Vermont are possible dark horses. Maine State, Massachusetts Institute, and also Vanderbilt are sufficiently fit to figure in the top bracket, as well as the Beavers and the Friars. Providence has perhaps the best balanced team in the whole meet. They are led by Chris Lohner, Eastern Collegiate champion.

'The Tech' Ends 70 Years To-day

By MARTIN C. GROSSMAN '51

Early in the second week of November, 1881, the presses of Alfred Mudge & Sons, Printers, were busy with a new publication. This was the first issue of THE TECH made its appearance.

During the month preceding the publication date, a group of students had held conferences and meetings about launching this new venture. They were well aware that others before them had had the same idea, and some of them had tried and failed. On February 16, 1881, Governor Freeman issued the following proclamation: "THE TECH made its appearance.

The men who had brought about the birth of the TECH were busy with a new publication. This was the first issue of THE TECH made its appearance.

The school is home to the MIT student newspaper, THE TECH, which was founded in 1881. The newspaper has a long and storied history, and its impact on MIT and the broader community cannot be overstated.

ROTC and Jobs

During the course of each year, approximately 200 companies conduct on-campus recruiting programs, and the number of students who accept ROTC positions is on the rise. For the fourth year, this number, about 100,000, has been set.

At present, the U.S. Army has about 230,000 officers and 300,000 enlisted men on active duty, besides a large number of reservists and members of the National Guard. In recent years, the demand for Army officers has increased, and the number of openings has grown. This has led to a significant increase in the number of students who choose to pursue careers in the military.

Memorial Drive Parking Meters Go For Good

All parking meters along Memorial Drive in front of the Institute were permanently removed a few days ago. At the same time, 175 parking spaces were made available to students and faculty. These are located in the vicinity of the Institute, and will be available to those who own cars.

The parking meters were installed in order to increase revenues for the Institute's Student Union, which has been experiencing financial difficulties in recent years.

The meters were removed in response to a petition signed by a large number of students and faculty members. The petition cited concerns about the impact of the meters on the Institute's environment and the convenience of students and faculty.

TCA Drive Results Given;
Quota Is Deficient By $241

TCA has announced that its $4,500 quota for this year's TCA fund drive was undersubscribed by $241. Dormitory residents contributed $2,168 with 77% of their number contributing; fraternity groups gave $1,372 with 57% of their quota, and Greek fraternities gave $1,093 with 75% giving 80% of its quota.

Because of the resignation of its Finance Chairman, the Student Senate has been unable to present an accurate account of the TCA drive.

Memorial Drive in front of the Institute was one of the scenes visited by the TCA drive. The drive was held to raise funds for the Institute and its programs.

The TCA drive was held on Wednesday, November 21, 1962. The drive was held on Wednesday, November 21, 1962. The drive was held on Wednesday, November 21, 1962.

Full details of the drive will be published in The Tech, the student newspaper of the Institute.
