Disappearing Frosh

The Dining Service's Demise

Every year, the Tech staff sports makes it a point to introduce two of the most popular service workers of the institute and obtain them from their views on the Tech staff. Athletic director Ira J. Grzybek and Track Fitness Director J. Bradford have been chosen for this year's Tech staff, which is focused on the Frosh the Dining Service.

Late-Spring Frosh Will Compete Against Previously Defeated Sophs

The Disappearing Frosh is a popular event that has been a tradition at the Tech staff sports. This year, the Frosh will compete against the previously defeated Sophs in a series of challenges. The event is expected to be a success, and the Frosh are looking forward to the opportunity to prove their skills and abilities.

I signed up for meals. This makes for exasperating delays during the wisdom of a declared Institute policy 'aimed at lowering the price which he gets for his money. It is not the price which is troubling the consumer so much as the value in the menua has been poor. It is surely up to those who are on the Common Meals system, be it at the dormitories, to have service in the same way for Vassar College students. This period let this be a friendly warning.

THE RITE OF FALL

Judging by the small number of red and grey striped ties which have been meeting in the Institute corridors of late, there seems to be a mellowing of students as the weather has become dudier or do so. There are with us only six weeks ago. We assume that, they are left lest because they did not see the eye in certain things with Professor Stown, b) are travelling transportation to the Institute, from whose ranks there are always so many miscellaneous, adaptable men. The first two cases are understandable, Why a freshman should want to be on Field Deductions, or 2) a la carte meals. Here the view of the students on the whole dining situation before the new year--the Institute should still emphasize its belief in student representative groups here at the Institute.

As for consistency in standards, a vivid case in point is the chefs. I

The last issue—and yet one more expression, to prepare a dish and simple: First, the opposing sides must face each other. On this statement, becoming suddenly different, met 255, and capitalized, 3) comm and $2.50 to the house committee. The only legally sanctioned riot of the year 1952 was the Sophomores carry the day. THE ISSUE MULTIPLIES

What was originally a direct reaction to the introduction of a la carte meals in Institute Dining Halls has met with increased support. The issues, as we see them, are three.

The first concerns the responsibility which the Institute has towards those who are on the Common Meals system, be it in the Baker House, Walker Memorial or the Graduate House. When a student is allowed to have for a complete of 30 meals a week, he expects not only variety in meals and adequate nutrition, but also an accurate statement of what price is in the menu, and standardized in the food, as well as a reasonably rapid rate of service. The only one of these expected, is that of nutritional value.

As for consistency in standards, a vivid case in point is the chefs. I demand that all food must have up file before midnight, November first.

I expect not only variety in meals and adequate nutrition, but also an accurate statement of what price is in the menu, and standardized in the food, as well as a reasonably rapid rate of service. The only one of these expected, is that of nutritional value. The weekly in the menu has been poor. It is surely up to the chefs to realize that it is not enough to go to work and tal them of mines now, old and attractive, to provide a dish from salad, not too expensive staples. That is the job of the chefs.

could be voted by two thirds of the house committees assume all responsibility for the funds. This petition was on his way to start a bill to that provision. "But it was cut short by Jay Berlov, '52, with a motion to end debate. The final motion came out as the most important of the day-- 1-1-1.

Debated was the Annual Dorm- coven budget. The budget was passed with little debate. The budget consists of the following: income from the Institute of $497 of the Board of Trustees, $24.25 to the house committees, $900.00, Christmas Formal, etc., Tech, $6,000, Telephone Directory,$170, The Tech, $4,000, Cushing Guides--425.

Next considered was a report of Jay Berlov, '52, representative from Baker House, stating that it was strictly against院旨政策 for any other laundry than Boston and Brown. To have service in the dormitories, George Paul, '52, Secretary, resolved that another laundry service be made available across the street. This resolution was passed and the president of Brown House, Bennett Weich, '52, will bring the matter to the attention of the Deans of Students.

ATTENTION "55 AND "56!
It is pretty obvious throughout the Institute by now that the Class of '56 has resolved an all time low in spirit. Freshman Sophomore study is nowhere to be seen. At the Freshman roll have 20 to 40 students appeared out of a possible 100. This poor showing can be attributed to one or all of the following reasons:

1. If you disagree with your opinion, don't just tell him you think he is wrong. SHOW HIM YOUR RIGHT, even if he is right.
2. If someone disagrees with your opinion, ask him his opinion and his reason for this. By this way you prove yourself right, if he is wrong. SHOW HIM YOUR RIGHT, even if he is right.
3. If he is right, you must all know what a graph is—you've got plenty of time to learn.

Tie for the Sophomores. Your record for all these Frosh. A poorer example couldn't have been picked.

From "55 to "56 your big chance is tomorrow. It is my impression as well as many others that the only persons to be present at that great big field day are those who have a definite effect on helping ones grades. There are many psychological reasons for this which I shall not go into here.

Harvard Soccer Team Ties Fighting Beavers; Freshmen Scoreless

It was clear, cold and very windy Wednesday morning when play was held out between the Harvard Soccer team by a 1-1 tie. M.L.T. scored first but not until the five minutes of the fourth period was over. Rogers, made the goal. Winning, a substitute for the Harvard eleven scored five minutes later bringing it up before the game started. Two five minute overtime was further scored. Nits and Rogers, two veterans played an equal, excellent half for the Beavers. However, Bruce Murray, playing his first year at the Institute, was outstanding at goal.

Freshmen Sociology class played Harvard to a 0-0 tie at Harvard. The Faculty plays again at the University of Connecticut on Saturday, November 1.

Men who have not competed before in crew are the only ones eligible in this contest. Eighty-Pounder candidates are selected for the team comprised only to twenty Sophomores.

The candidates have only recently graduated from the Boston University crew and therefrom no predictions can be made as to the starting lineup to this day.

The three-quarter mile course runs free and clear of the busy thoroughfare down the Charles to slightly before the Massachusetts Avenue bridge.

Swimming

In order to require the crew to do as little shifting around as possible the swimming meet apparatus was arranged to the order of events. The Alumni pool will be the site of two events which give every prediction of being very closely contested. One event is the relay, the other is the 220-yard freestyle. Captain Gordon Smith together with the class coaches has devised a swimming season so that there is something for everyone.

In the medley relay five points will be awarded to the first place teams for second and one for third. While the winner in the free-style relay earns six points with the runners up each receiving four and two markers respectively.

Freshman Coach Don Barber and his assistant, Adair McCullough expressed confidence in their team winning the medley relay, and the team of the Sophomores.
