East Campus House Commends Lubell Dispute, Seeks Profits On Vending Machines

The much-discussed lounge chairman controversy is over. At its meeting last Wednesday night, the East Campus House Committee made a decision to rescind the motion previously requesting the resignation of its Lounge Chairman, Martin S. Lubell '54. This ended a situation that threatened to become a source of considerable ill feeling among East Campus residents.

Vending machines in general and milk-vending machines in particular were the topics of two other committee resolutions. One resolution asked the administration to turn over profits from the cigarette and candy dispensing machines on East Campus to the East Campus House Committee. The other resolution asked for the installation of a milk-vending machine on West Campus.

Baker Memorial Foundation

To Finance Religious Project

By Daniel Schneider '57

At a recent meeting of the Everett Moore Baker Memorial Foundation, it was announced that the foundation has decided to finance T.C.A.'s new religious emphasis program.

It was also revealed that the Foundation would like to spend its principal funds on a religious library to be placed in the new chapel. It is hoped that many of the books in this library will come from the late Dean Baker's personal collection.

An initial donation of $900 of current funds was received on account of this project. These funds have been raised in a special campaign by Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Rose of Cambridge, Massachusetts.

T.C.A. Discusses Reorganization of Boy's Work

Last Wednesday night, a meeting of the Combined Music Clubs was held at the Inscomm meeting. The purpose of this conference was to discuss the efficiency of the Boy's Work Department.

T.C.A. vice-president in charge of T.C.A. and its Harvard counterpart, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hultgren, were present at the meeting. The purpose of the conference was to discuss the efficiency of the Boy's Work Department.

Reorganization Possible

According to a plan of General John B. Boylan '54, chairman of the Combined Music Clubs, the College, the Institute and the Harvard group will cooperate in the reorganization of the Boy's Work Department. The plan includes the possibility of combining the Boy's Work Department with the Music Department.

Lubell Memorial

Two factors determin the foundation's selection of a project for the expenditure of its funds. The first was the fact that it is in line with the policies of Dear Baker and the second was the fact that it will be connected somehow with the west campus developments.

Considering Dear Baker's religious convictions, the foundation decided that a religious library in the Dies, December 1, 1953

Field Day was the principle topic of discussion at the meeting of Institute Committee on Wednesday, December 2. The Field Day Evaluation Committee presented a preliminary report on the conducting of this year's Field Day, and the Institute Committee's final report will be made at Inscomm's next meeting.

The Evaluation Committee suggested some ideas for the improvement of the annual rivalry. It was agreed by the committee that Field Day was good and should be continued, but that further amalgamation of events would be desirable. The committee also suggested increasing the stakes and the stopping the contest, keeping the games on the field, and shortening the time of the day.

It was suggested that a large tugboat be held between the Freshmen and Sophomore classes approximately one week before Field Day itself. The class which won this match would be awarded the Purple Shield, and would be kept as the other class for the week. The class which held the bait at the start of Field Day would be awarded a certain number of points. The committee suggested that ties and other such forms of "knapping," presently prohibited under some Constitution, might be upheld in a future referendum, remember that the only reason the concept of amalgamation is under consideration is that other concerns, such as the wearing of ties and the memorizing of songs, are not allowed by the committee.

The Institute Committee discussed these recommendations and in turn offered suggestions to the Field Day Committee.

Other business taken up in the meeting included a decision to form a lay advising committee for the Harvard Choral Society. Also, a three-man panel, consisting of Oliver D. Johnson '49, Wilber P. Fishe '54, and Malcolm J. Jones '53, will be appointed to plan the coming Christmas Program at the Institute.
