Twenty-second Annual IFC Weekend

Festivities Highlighted by Formal Tonight

The 22nd annual IFC Formal Ball will be held tonight in recognition of the centennial of the 15th annual IFC dances. A $1 donation will be made to the American Foundation for Children's Medical Care, to be added to other funds raised by IFC activities this year. The dance is followed in 1938 by a decision to plan social activities for the evening week-end. This evening, the tradition of hosting a formal dance grew out of various social activities. Sophomore Pete Peterson will be at stroke, Bill Weichman at seven, Nick Latham, last year's first-year freshet and Burke Trophy winner and the shortest man in the boat at 6'11" holds down the vital number six seat, giant Carl Dorchert at five completes the all-dominant Tech crew. Polshuk and Cleaver at four and three, sophomores Jim Graham at two and and lean afloat Frank Bluhm in the bow complete the crew. Dick Bledsoe '37 at stroke, Lloyd Below '57 at six, Bob Bridgham '77 at six, Bill Bowman '57 at five, Willy Kazokas '50 at four, Tom Springall '57 at three, West Erickson '57 at two and Bob Tewell '57 at two bow. Paul Rothchild '57 will be the coxswain.

The current IFC tradition of having the IFC opening formal dance was proposed by Tom van Choung, who appeared at other past formal dances. The 19th annual IFC opening formal, held from August 21-3, has been opened. The IFC tradition of having the IFC opening formal dance was proposed by Pete van Choung, who appeared at other past formal dances. The 19th annual IFC opening formal, held from August 21-3, will be the best varsity eight in years. Even the formidable Harvard crew will be able to show a big improvement if the race is to be close. Races begin with the Frosh light race at 3:30 p.m.

Reports Presented To Incom; International Week To Be Held

Sub-committees reports presented Wednesday's meeting of the Institute Committee. The only other item on the agenda was the taking of nominations for chairman of the Public Relations Committee. After hearing CAP'Neill Jones '57 present his report, Chairman Oliver '56 announced that he would be re-elected. Nominations will be open until May 3.

In giving the International Week report, Fred Callie '56 stressed the importance of involving foreign students in activities. He urged the support and attendance of the functions by all Tech students.

Housecomms Discuss Various Problems

The Housecomms Committee convened in its usual location last Wednesday. Of particular interest was the Baker House meeting, which was a discussion of the possibilities of Baker House students exchanging visits with the men in the fraternity living groups. The idea of such an arrangement would be the establishment of a common ground for understanding and respect among the men. Baker House students, who are invited to participate, will discuss their experiences and share their perspectives. The meeting was open to the public and was well attended.

The Housecomms Committee is responsible for overseeing the activities and policies of the various fraternities and houses on campus. They ensure that the students' rights and interests are respected and that the community is a positive and inclusive environment for all. The committee works closely with the other student organizations to promote a sense of community and cooperation among the students.

In closing, the Housecomms Committee emphasized the importance of fostering a diverse and inclusive community. They encouraged all students to participate in the activities and events organized by the committee and to contribute to the growth and development of the community. The committee is committed to ensuring that the community is a place where everyone feels welcome and valued.
political scene

This August approximately 60 million Americans will turn on their radio or TV to hear the last pitch of the 1956 political candidates for the 363rd national convention. Whichever is the final choice of each of the major parties, it will be determined by that most ancient method of politics, the 10-cent vote. This is the method by which the electorate of each state goes to the polls and casts its vote for its favorite convention delegate. These delegates are chosen by direct primary or convention, whichever method a state has chosen to employ. In primary elections, the votes of the individual voters are counted, and the candidate with the most votes is the winner. In conventions, the delegates are chosen by the state party organization, and each registered member of the party is entitled to one vote. The candidate with the most votes at the convention is then the party's nominee for the presidency.

The selection of delegates is one of the most involved processes in American politics. It involves the selection of delegates by the state parties, the selection of delegates by the national convention, and the selection of delegates by the state party organization. The state parties determine the number of delegates from each district, and the national convention determines the number of delegates from each state. The state party organization then chooses the delegates from each district, and the candidates then choose the delegates from each state. The candidates then choose the delegates from each state.

The process of selecting delegates is not without controversy. The state parties often have a lot of power in the selection process, and the candidates often have to compromise in order to secure the delegates they need. The process is also expensive, and both the state parties and the candidates often have to spend a lot of money in order to secure the delegates they need.

One of the most important aspects of the selection process is the selection of delegates from the national convention. The national convention is the ultimate decision-making body of the party. The candidates choose the delegates from the national convention, and the delegates then choose the presidential nominee. The national convention is also where the party platform is adopted, which sets the agenda for the party for the coming election cycle.

In conclusion, the selection of delegates is a complex process that involves the selection of delegates by the state parties, the selection of delegates by the national convention, and the selection of delegates by the candidates. The process is expensive, and both the state parties and the candidates often have to compromise in order to secure the delegates they need. The process is also controversial, and the state parties often have a lot of power in the selection process. The national convention is the ultimate decision-making body of the party, and the candidates choose the delegates from the national convention, and the delegates then choose the presidential nominee.

PHI BETA KAPPA, I LOVE YOU!

Once there was a Chi Omega named Alfreda Pickett who was beautiful and well-formed and was crammed with the makings of a true political candidate. Although she was not always the most tactful and uncoiled the pentilet of all the cigarettes - Philip Morris - she was a force to be reckoned with. Her looks, her grace, and her social graces, her total ability to put a smile on the faces of those around her. And, of course, she had nothing to do with Phi Beta Kappa; she had come over to our end of the table for a friendly chat with the Phi Beta Kappa woman's bedroom. But, of course, Alfreda knew nothing of this.

"Do sit down," said Alfreda.

"Thank you," said Ed. "But I can't stay long.

"Of course," said Alfreda and proceeded without delay to demonstrate how wide and comprehensive was her learning of "Deer," she said, "have no gall bladders."
Lacrosse Team Defeats Middlebury 6-2; Frey And Dyke Lead First Half Attack

UM's varsity lacrosse team rolled up its third straight victory in impressive fashion last Wednesday by toppling Middlebury 6-2. Once again the Engineers followed the policy that "the best defense is a good offense" as they pressed play throughout the game. The game was marked by a fast first half which saw Tech build up a 4-1 load, and a slow second half which resulted in only two goals. Maurice Goukarke started the scoring against the Wilt Frey and put it in the nets from the front. Next goal went to Middlebury's Jan Mentor on a bounce shot at 9:47 to tie it up. At 12:15 MTT got its lone unusual goal of the season as Tech drove scored while two Tech men were out on penalties.

The whole story of the second period belongs to Wilt Frey, who, playing his best game of the year, netted three shots in rapid succession. The first came at 10:46, the second less than a minute later, and the third with half a minute to go. The last two were scored on setup passes from Ilye who also starred on attack.

The second half was slow with play going 25 minutes before a score, when Mentor hit again for the Panthers to make it 4-3. Dick Baker got the goal right back two minutes later as he hatted in a rebound off a Middlebury defender to make the final score 6-2.

All in all the team's play was very aggressive if not always effective.

Baseball Team Splits In 2 Games; BC Ends String, Brandeis Bows

After suffering a devastating 13-8 shelling at the hands of BC last Tuesday the varsity baseball team bounced back to take a 3-4 thriller from Brandeis on Wednesday.

The loss to BC was a complete reversal of an earlier 13-4 win and came as the result of a 17 hit BC barrage. The Purple Eagles got to Dick Skavdahl for two singles, two doubles, a triple, and a home run for six big runs in the first, and added two in the second on a Skavdahl double and two singles put across four more BC runs. Tech got two in the sixth on a hit by Baldwin and Ackerfeld and a pinch hit double by Tom O'Connor.

pushing across two runs in the eighth and one in the ninth, the varsity baseball team came from behind to top Brandeis for the second time this year. Fisher Dick Skavdahl, after being thumped out of the box the day before came back to pitch five good innings before 2 hits and 2 errors gave Brandeis 2 runs in the ninth. Prior to this, Tech had scored two in the third on two singles, a walk, and an error. The Merrittmen surged back into the lead in the eighth when O'Connor singled, went to second on a sacrifice, and scored on a single by Sullivan. Sully, who hit 4 for 6 during the game, went to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch to put Tech ahead 4-3.

Brandeis came back in the bottom of the inning to tie it up and Coach Merrill replaced Skavdahl with John Sullivan, the hero of the Tech game. Sullivan finished with two out and Turner sent him home with what proved to be the game winning single.

Softball is now in full swing but it is a little too early yet to tell who the top contenders will be. Action has been hampered by bad weather but all postponements of games being made up as rapidly as possible.

Almost a record number of teams are entered in this year's competition, and the play will probably extend well into next period. The top teams in each league will be in the playoffs with the finals being scheduled on May 1, 2, and 3; with the finals being entered on the day of the meet to determine the champion.

In baseball, the progress has been slow but steady. SAE took the Volleyball crown with the Delta men followed by the Grad school of Architecture, Lambda Chi, and Phi Mu Delta in that order.

Squash finals are now in progress with Sigma Nu, SAE, Number Six, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Baker House vying for the honors. Results as of Friday night and last Sunday night show that the Phi Sigma Downs Baker and Sigma Nu, and the Number Six Club and SAE defeated Sigma Nu and Baker respectively in their only games to date.

On-sports are getting under way. Track tryouts will be held on May 1, 2, and 3, with the finals coming on Sunday, May 6 at one o'clock. Trials for the 440-yard dash, 880-yard sprint relay, and the 880-yard medley relay, Events which can be entered on the day of the meet are the high jump, the broad jump, the shot put, and the 100-yard dash.

Friedman pointed out regarding open houses that the Institute family is very cosmopolitan and that there are widely diverging opinions on proper and correct behavior. And on, Friedman believes that it is neither proper or possible for it (Dormcon) to choose one standard for all members of our community.

Friedman, speaking on behalf of the Committee then goes on to his reasons for his and MIT's, faith in the open house idea. Now in Dormcon (unaware of the possibility to the Institute regrets the oversight of the "physical" open house). In this connection President Pogge proposes that a free-size, no age deposit be made by each, regardless of the beginning or term.

In softball, the championships are being decided on May 1, 2, and 3. TheBinary Festival has taken over the complete facilities of Storyville for Saturday afternoon, with Twinkel supplementing the regularly scheduled entertainments. Last Sunday afternoon cocktail parties will be held at Phi Delta Tau Delta, and Phi Mu Delta, followed that evening by parties held at Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Theta Delta Chi, and by the Beta Beta Epsilon at the Cambridge Boat Club. Being the crown of this year's IFC Week-end will be a jazz concert at the Peke house on Sunday afternoon. Admission will be $1.00 and music will be provided by the Bowdoin "Polar Bears".

Cindy's Feast

Or

How to Flush a Royal Husband

And then there's the story of Cinderella. Seems that after Cindy had been out-pointed by her nothin' sisters, she tops them when her Fairy Godmother shows up with a magical do-it-yourself kit. Cindy has herself a real ball, cutting capers with Junior at the Palace. But at midnight she's shakin' and quakin'... because that's when the less expires on the do-it-yourself kit.

In the scramble to beat the deadline she loses her shoe—and the dragnet is on! When the Prince arrives, Cindy puts an opener to a couple cans of cold Budweiser... well, he doesn't even check the shoe size. Says he: "Pack up the king (the boy's no square; he knows Bud is the king of beers) and you're booked for star billing at the Palace!"

And at your palace, too, Bud rates top billing... for nothing quite matches that Budweiser taste! Just try it and see!

Dorm President's Report

Monday night Dormcon opened up discussion on Dorm Week-end and closed talking over its area and its responsibilities to the Institute. And on, Friedman believes that it is neither proper or possible for it (Dormcon) to choose one standard for all members of our community.
