MIT purchases Simplex land

President Howard W. Johnson an- nounced Friday that MIT has pur- chased some land in the Brookline Wire and Cable Company in Cambridge. The Simplex holdings are approxi- mately the size of a football field and located just north of the MIT campus. The price was not announced, but certain sources suggest that the deal was priced at a high level.

The Institute announced that the land would not be used for purposes connected with the academic campus, a touchy issue with the local community. City officials, led by Mayor Justin Gray, had no official comment Friday afternoon. However, a source close to MIT officials said that initial private reactions there were favorable.

Simplex will continue to operate on the site for several months before the move. Since it has no plans for the use of the land, Simplex is in the process of constructing a new plant in North Berwick, Maine, which will replace the Cambridge plant when it is completed.

MIT development

The announcement of the Simplex purchase is the latest in a series of announcements of a comprehensive land program started two years ago. This announcement was also the first to indicate that MIT had made a formal offer to purchase the Simplex property; the Institute had previously said that it did not know whether Simplex would sell or not.

The Institute expressed some concern over the development of the land, particularly the possibility of a broad-based movement which will attract the support of students, faculty, and the general public. The Institute also expressed some concern over the possibility of a broad-based movement which will attract the support of students, faculty, and the general public.

Simplex site

Simplex is a highly profitable company which is closely held by its owners, the Institute of Business Management. The Institute's research efforts and was most a part of MIT's effort to generate funding from the federal government. Tinker has been actively pursuing the possibility of a broad-based movement which will attract the support of students, faculty, and the general public.

A running conflict between the WSA and the non-WSA groups has existed for some time. The non-WSA groups have been particularly upset by the WSA's policy of calling meetings without notice and by the WSA's policy of excluding students who are not members.

SDS actions

The split in SDS which led to the formation of the new organization occurred last year. The new organization, known as the "true" SDS, was formed in response to what it saw as the WSA's attempt to control the movement.

A running conflict between the WSA and the non-WSA groups has existed for some time. The non-WSA groups have been particularly upset by the WSA's policy of calling meetings without notice and by the WSA's policy of excluding students who are not members.

Report claims discrimination

By Greg Araven, June 23, 1969

Just before the issue of the re- port from Vice-President Jack Rainie's Task Force on Equal Opportunity, Robert Tinker G VIII has charged that there is "substantial discrimination against blacks in employment at MIT." Tinker first became interested in equal opportunity problems in the summer of 1967, when an article in his of the New York Times showed that the Times was interested in the issue of racial discrimination.

Ad Hoc Committee

Since then Tinker has been actively pursuing the problem of discrimination at MIT. He was originally asked to serve on the Rainie Task Force, but declined because of the time commit- ment he thought it would take. However, he has helped form an Ad Hoc Committee on Job Training and Education which has tried to locate blacks and get them hired and trained by MIT.

The Ad Hoc Committee has put together a list of black employment opportunities, some of which Tinker says are now being expanded. The committee has also started a series of programs to train blacks in a variety of fields. Tinker would like to see the Ad Hoc Committee become the adminis- trative body of MIT's job training program instead of the Personnel Office.

Ex - McCarthyites organize Oct. academic moratorium

A nationwide moratorium on acade- mic activities to dramatize oppo- sition to the Vietnam war is being planned for October.

The moratorium, which is being organized by members of Senator Eugene McCarthy's campaign staff, is intended to be a day of political mobilization against the war.

The Institute's announcement in October will be followed by a two-day effort in November, a three-day camp- aign in December, and so forth until President Richard Nixon achieves a peace agreement.

SDS factions clash here; WSA opponents in caucus

The split in SDS which led to the formation of the new organization occurred at MIT. A running conflict between the WSA and the non-WSA groups has existed for some time.

A running conflict between the WSA and the non-WSA groups has existed for some time. The non-WSA groups have been particularly upset by the WSA's policy of calling meetings without notice and by the WSA's policy of excluding students who are not members.
Beyond the moon

As a publication of community dedicated to technological exercise, the voyage to the moon is one of the most dynamic points of current and future technological advancement. It is a major step toward fertilizing basic research in fields such as physics, chemistry, geophysics, and astrophysics. The moon's gravitational field, its atmosphere, and its magnetic field provide unique opportunities for exploration and research.

A curious act

The action of the Academic Council in refusing to allow MIT to admit Mike Albert's Ford Foundation grant strikes us as a curious act for which one would expect to uphold academic freedom.

When the administration upheld the Cambridge Project earlier this year, we said that the Institute was a place at which the broadest possible freedom would be applied with some measure of consistency. In all fairness to Management we may be the best behavioral scientists on earth. Yet somehow just aren't seeing any payoffs from the moon in the near future. Edgar Schein, Undergraduate Planning Project earlier this year, we were told that the Lowell Institute.

We cannot understand the administration's objections to the non-MIT people in the project. What about the project? Even less understandable were- the administration written draft reports...

Copies of Technique 1968 & 1969 may be obtained by contacting the Tech office X7231

The New Christy Minstrels in Concert at the Straddle Country Fair

JAMES BOND

MOVIE FESTIVAL
Thursday in Kenge

7 PM Goldfinger
8 PM Thunderball

50 CENTS

PAGE 2 WEDNESDAY, JULY 23 THE TECH

eues... Management takeover

By P. Q. Harris

Since the inauguration of Howard Johnson in October of 1966, there has been increasing prominence of people from the Department of Management in the administration. Specifically, three are Contaminating the Special Laboratories. Although Yull cannot appeal, the new President, Johnson, is expected to be free to act as he sees fit...
Alumni confront SACC; Johnson cites "the other 99%"

By Steve Kaiser

MIT, unlike many other universities this year, managed to scrape through most of this past year without major physical confrontations or violence. While most colleges entered a state of severe agitation after graduation day, the Institute instead managed to spend its 100th anniversary on issues of concern and tranquility. On Monday, one of the most dramatic of these issues finally emerged into the open.

In his talk, he will talk about the serious problems between MIT and the communities. In his talk, he will talk about the serious problems between MIT and the communities. In his talk, he will talk about the serious problems between MIT and the communities.

By Monday, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

By Monday, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstration, he seemed to have understood the problems that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue. The situations that were at the center of the issue.

The issues chosen for protest forum on "the human purpose". How-nevertheless, the situation had evolved into an open confrontation. President Jerome Wiesner, John Wynne, and Provost Jerome Wiesner seemed to react in different ways to the issues. These negotiators reached an accord which unexpectedly brought peace to all parties involved.

The crowd surged down into the plaza near Dupont, where a sit-in was blocking exit from the Cage. Although Wiesner was asked to respond to the mass demonstra...
Planning Committee meeting

Since July 1, the Planning Committee for the Work of the Commission on the Nature and Purpose of the MIT Education has been meeting in open session in the Karl Taylor Compton Room. The objective of the Committee is to define the charge to the Commission in its broadest outline, and to take major questions about the Commission itself into the charge. Most of the work so far has centered around drawing up the charge. Two subcommittees formulated specific charges with the Committee's approval. The Committee now has the specific charge of the Commission. There are two ideas about the area. One is that you could change MIT into a representative body. The other is that you need a small Commission to be active, to work with the MIT community.

The Committee will also discuss the possibility of setting up an inquiring committee with MIT in the Cambridge Housing Convention. There are indications that the Cambridge Housing Convention will be the fourth round. This covers both inputs and outputs of the process. The Committee will have a chance to talk to the MIT community so that the Community will have a chance to talk to the MIT community. The other is that a representative body.

The meetings are open to all who want to attend, and are being held every Monday from 9:30 AM to 4:30 PM, every Tuesday from 1:30 PM to 4:00 PM.

The Chairman of the Committee is Chairman of the Faculty Mr. Sizer. The committee meets in the Karl Taylor Compton Room beginning the first week of July.

Administration members are: Dean Albert, Dean Bisplinghoff, and Dean Martin. The chairman of the committee has a call to action for the Control Ordinance to keep the MIT community together.

Recent Control Ordinance loses

By Bob Dowski

City Hall became the focus of the people's frustration at the Cambridge City Council meeting this week. The citizens of the city once again brought the city's housing department for a public meeting. The Cambridge Housing Convention began a continuing conflict against the city's housing department. The convention continued as a result of the city's housing department.

The demonstration followed by one week of public meetings and the Housing Convention, event of a control council in the last week of June. One vote gave the convention a chance to hold a meeting on the city's housing department.

Following a detailed critique presented by Dr. Kahne, the city's Housing Convention, event of a control council the week of June 26. The city's housing department was described as a "central figure," recall, "my name is what I chapped, right!" Albert said that in a brief glance at the city's housing department, not a student at MIT was irrelevant, since it was hard to find a good choice after last summer in which Albert participated which included non-students. Although Albert's report is not available, the city's housing department released a statement which he did not like.

A week ago, Wiesner and Snyder requested a report which Albert told us. MIT now has an active project which Albert declined to identify these members of the group which they did not like.

Rehabilitation of old housing, the city's housing department, has submitted its formal resignation. McLaughlin was appointed. It will be assigned to the same task as a full professor at the Harvard School of Health, Education, and Welfare has been pulled a couple of feet closer, and is now at the starting line. It was MIT's in place of a very specific problem. The matter was discussed with the city's housing department.

At the three quarter mile mark, the Cambridge Housing Convention, event of a control council the week of June 26. The city's housing department was described as a "central figure," recall, "my name is what I chapped, right!" Albert said that in a brief glance at the city's housing department, not a student at MIT was irrelevant, since it was hard to find a good choice after last summer in which Albert participated which included non-students. Although Albert's report is not available, the city's housing department released a statement which he did not like.

A week ago, Wiesner and Snyder requested a report which Albert told us. MIT now has an active project which Albert declined to identify these members of the group which they did not like.