[This department can be made complete only by continued contributions of items of general interest in connection with the lives and occupations of instructors, alumni, and former members of the Institute. We invite the co-operation of each alumnus, and ask for full and frequent contributions to the column.]

LYMAN SISE, '85.—Murphys, Calaveras Co., Cal. Gold mining.

TENNEY WHITE, '85.—Engineering department, woollen mills, North Andover, Mass.

FRANK W. CARR, '84.—In charge of North Carolina exhibit at American Institute Fair, Boston, Mass.

PARKER C. CHOATE, '85.—Howells Smelting and Mining Company, Yavapai Co., Arizona.

AMOS BINNEY, '81.—Walpole, Mass., P. O. Box N.

EDMUND H. BROWN, '81.—Married, secretary Concord Axle Company, Fisherville, N. H.

B. E. BREWSTER.—Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, manager War Bonnet Live Stock Company.

HOWARD A. CARSON.—C. E., 68 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.

H. B. PERRINS.—Appleton, Wis., professor mathematics and astronomy at Lawrence University.

ARTHUR WINSLOW.—Agletown, Pa., assistant geologist second geological survey of Pennsylvania.

C. C. GILMAN.—Marshalltown, Iowa, chief engineer Wisconsin, Iowa & Nebraska Railway.

HARVEY S. CHASE, '83.—178 Lowell Street, Manchester, N. H. Manchester cotton mills.

HORACE B. GALE, '89.—N. E. Weston Electric Light Co., Stanhope Street Station, Boston.

W. E. SPAULDING, '85.—Assistant Cashier First National Bank, Nashua, N. H.

HARRY G. MANNING, '82.—Married Oct. 17, 1883, to Miss Kittie E. Morgan.

L. F. BALDWIN, '74.—Engaged in mining, Quincy, Plumas Co., Cal.

Present your coupon!
The rink opens Nov. 1.
The Freshmen have begun their intermediates.
The Freshmen now number two hundred and eighteen.
The M. I. T. A. C. October assessment of $1 is now due.
The second-year miners and chemists began work in the new laboratory last Monday.
Class in advanced German is reading Maria Stuart by Schiller.
Advanced German seems coming up in favor.
This year Prof. Otis has a class of ten, which is much larger than any of past years.
The boarding-house book in the secretary's office is a new idea, and promises to be quite serviceable to students hunting for rooms.
Quantitative analysis is now commenced at the beginning of the second year instead of at the semi-annuals, as formerly.
We are very glad to announce that the Y. M. C. A. will occupy their new building, just across the street, in a few weeks.
Mr. Woodbury, '86, has two pictures at the Exhibition of Contemporary Art. He has also some charcoal drawings at the Institute Fair Art Gallery.

'86 has elected the following class officers:
F. L. Locke, president; G. A. Ricker, vice-president; S. R. Bartlett, secretary; J. P. Lynde, treasurer.
The Institute was visited last week by the Earl of Cork, Mr. Albert Gray, M. P., son of Earl Gray, Sir Lyon Playfair, and other prominent strangers in the city.
A new boiler, sixty horse-power, will be placed in the basement of Rogers this week,